

STIRLING'S TAX RATE IS LOWERED FIVE MILLS

REGULAR MEETING OF COUNCIL ON MONDAY — MONEY BY-LAWS PASSED

A reduction of five mills in the Village Tax Rate was made by the Council at their regular meeting held on Monday night, making it forty-four mills. However, assurance has been given by the Provincial Government that a one-mill subsidy will be given municipalities similar to last year and in reality the local rate will be forty-three mills.

Reeve Thos. Cranston occupied the chair and Councillors F. Stapley and R. Eggleton supported him. Councillors Anderson and Rollins were absent.

Following the reading of the minutes of the last regular and subsequent special meetings, and their adoption, the accounts were presented for payment.

Communications were tabled and read from Mrs. D. Chard and Mrs. D. H. Fleming, and on motion of Councillors Eggleton and Stapley were received and filed.

An application for a license to operate a pool room was read from George Tullough. On motion of Eggleton and Stapley a decision on the application was laid over until a full Council was present.

The matter of a site for the new post office was next discussed and after consideration of a number of sites Council decided in favour of recommending to the Department that it be built on the H. Wickett lot on the south side of Front Street. The final decision in the matter rests with the Department.

R. A. Patterson, Treasurer, gave a full and comprehensive summary of the finances of the Village and the various departments were discussed in detail by members of Council. One bright feature of his report was the statement that there was only an amount of $1827.00 of outstanding taxes on the 1937 roll. This was a much better report than those of some years past and was most encouraging to the Village officials. The Village finances are in good condition and compare favourably with any other municipality of like size in the province.

In striking the rate it was found necessary to raise the general rate one mill, which in turn was offset by the substantial reduction in the County rate of six mills. The remaining levy remains the same and is as follows:

School rate	13.0 Mills
County Rate	7.0 Mills
Library	1.0 Mills
Town rate	6.5 Mills
Debitures	9.5 Mills
Street Lights	3.5 Mills
Hydrant rentals	3.0 Mills
Board of Health	0.5 Mills

Total

The total assessment of the Village amounts to $449,612, and the total taxes $19,782.92.

By-law No. 452, to set the municipal levy and By-law No. 453 to raise the sum of $15,000 for the erection of an addition to the High School were given their several readings and passed. Meeting adjourned.

Bowling Activities at Local Greens

A number of Stirling bowlers journeyed to Campbellford on Monday evening where they were guests of the local club in a jitney tournament.

Eight-end and ten-end games were played. The ladies' highest score was obtained by Mrs. A. G. Thompson with Mrs. W. J. Whitty and Mrs. H. L. Fair having equal points among the local ladies. Mrs. Whitty won the toss. The winning ladies received handsome glass water sets. C. F. Linn of Stirling, scored highest points for the men, and received an artisan knife, while Jos. Poulton was high man for Campbellford, the prize being a flashlight.

At the conclusion of the games, the Campbellford members served a delectable lunch, and a pleasant social half-hour was spent. Dr. Carleton, of Stirling, president of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association, extended an invitation to Campbellford bowlers to the mixed tournament at Stirling on Wednesday of next week.

Those who were present from Stirling were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Whitty, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Linn, Mrs. H. L. Fair, Mrs. H. R. Tompkins, Dr. E. A. Carleton, A. Heyworth, Mrs. Nina Morton, Mrs. Nora Wescott, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Bailey, F. R. Mallory, Mrs. R. A. Patterson, J. S. Morton and Mrs. Annie Bailey.

In the Men's Rinks Tournament, held at Nrwod yesterday afternoon a Stirling rink, consisting of Dr. E. A. Carleton, J. S. Morton, F. R. Mallory and W. J. Whitty, skip, won the second prize for three wins.

Tournament Wednesday
Stirling Lawn Bowling Club will hold a mixed rinks tournament on the local greens on Wednesday next. The greens are in splendid shape and the local club is hoping for a large entry.

ORANGE LODGE AT ST. JOHN'S

REV. A. S. MCCONNELL
DELIVERS FORCEFUL AD-DRESS TO BRETHREN

St. John's Anglican Church was filled to capacity on Sunday morning when officers and members of Stirling L.O.B.A. and L.O.L. No. 110 attended in a body. The members assembled at their lodge rooms on Front St., and headed by Stirling Citizens' Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Bell, paraded to the church. The parade was in charge of Directors of Ceremonies Sis. Pearl McGee and Harold Juby. Rev. A. S. McConnell, Rector, delivered an inspiring address appropriate to the occasion, choosing as his text "Honor all men, love the brotherhood, Fear God, Honor the king." We should honor all men, said Mr. McConnell, not some men. There is danger of intolerance when we become fired with enthusiasm with our own point of view. We cannot, however, tolerate vice in our community or sin or superstition or selfishness or anything un-British in a British country. We need a real brotherhood not just the kind that is on the surface, but that which forgets faults and is willing to share to the extent of sacrifice. Even within the Orange Order there are those who do not love the brotherhood and would just as soon cheat an Orangeman as anyone else. It hardly seems necessary to discuss loyalty with an organization that has been known for years by its loyalty to the King, but in these days when so many foreign ideas are seeping into our country we need to be on our guard, and so educate ourselves and our children that our country will always remain within the British Empire.

Many men honour their fellow-men and the King and love the brotherhood but forget God. Fear of God is the very foundation of our Christian life. Brotherhood and patriotism are a means to an end and that end is God. God must come first. As a Christian people that is our sacred duty. Our own King, by his life and example points the way to the true worship of God.

When a country leaves God out, then that country will fall. The strength of the British people is that God has been given the first position and will always remain there in the hearts of all. Special music was supplied by the choir, with Mrs. H. H. Alger presiding at the organ. At the conclusion of the service the parade resumed and returned to the lodge room, where many expressions of appreciation were voiced for Rev. McConnell's inspiring address.

She was one of a party of Stirling bowlers competing in a jitney tournament on the Campbellford greens and when a bench upon which she was sitting upset, she was thrown backwards against the bumper of an automobile and sustained a deep gash in the back of her head. The injured lady was given medical treatment and was able to return home later in the evening.

PLANS BEING MADE BY LOCAL FAIR BOARD

Glen Ross Won From Mount Pleasant

The semi-finals in the Rawdon Softball League between Mount Pleasant and Glen Ross are all tied up, as a result of Tuesday night's game when the latter were winners in a seven-inning game by the close score of 17-15. The game, which was played on the winners' home diamond, drew a large crowd of spectators who were treated to a good exhibition of softball with plenty of heavy hitting, snappy fielding and good pitching. Potts was on the mound for Mount Pleasant and pitched good enough ball to win but his support was not the best at times. The pitching duties for Glen Ross were divided between Pyear and Smith.

Mount Pleasant, winners of the first game, started off with two runs in the first, added three more in the third and four in the fourth. They were blanked in the fifth, but added three in the sixth and seventh for a total of fifteen.

Glen Ross gathered in four runs in the second, one in the third, eight in the fourth and four in the seventh. The date for the final game has not been settled but it is expected that it will be played at the Stirling Fair Grounds. Softball fans are assured of a thrilling game when these two teams meet.

CITIZENS' BAND WINS PRIZES

WIN THREE TROPHIES AT
CELEBRATION

Members of Stirling Citizens' Band brought honours to themselves and to this village when they captured three silver trophies at the Band "Tattoo held in connection with Tweed Old Boys' Reunion on Friday night last. Under the leadership of Bandmaster M. Bell they won first prize for playing, second for marching, and the third trophy, for the oldest bandsman present, came to Chas. Mitchell, of Stirling, 77 years of age, and nearly sixty years a bandsman. The following is taken from a report of the tattoo appearing in the Belleville Intelligencer.

"The bands were entered in the competition by number and were so judged by the adjudicators. The first band from Stirling, looking smart in their red and white uniforms, marching in splendid style and playing with excellent intonation, balance and blending of the various parts, was awarded the first prize trophy for playing, and the second prize trophy for marching. They were warmly applauded by the crowd for their excellent demonstration. Bandmaster Bell handled his band of 26 pieces in excellent style as they played "Fort Gay."

Perth Citizens Band, 19 strong, under the baton of Richard Mills, gave a very fine performance in marching and second prize in playing. The adjudicators commended them for their perfect alignment and step, their balance and blending, although their intonation was not quite as good as that of the first prize winner.

Frankford Band, under the leadership of Floyd Ketcheson, played the "Ahmek March".

Marmora Bugle Band, 11 in number, led by Percy Gray, was made up of public and high school boys. They have been organized only five weeks and were warmly commended by the judges. Mr. Fenwick spoke of the difficulty met with in judging a bugle band in such a competition.

The silver trophy for the youngest bandsman was won by Roy Booth, of Marmora Bugle Band, aged 13 years.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED TO CANVAS FOR SPECIALS AND MEMBERSHIP

An important meeting of the Stirling Agricultural Society was held in the Agricultural Rooms on Tuesday evening with J. B. Thompson president, in the chair, and F. R. Mallory, J. M. Carl, Chas. F. Linn, Ben Blecker, H. P. Ellis, Wm. Fitchett, C. U. Heath, J. E. O'Donnell, C. U. Heath, E. Carlisle, H. L. Fair and H. R. Tompkins in attendance.

Following the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting, Secretary Mallory drew the attention of the directors to the need of having the canvassing for special prizes and donations done at once in order that the prize list might be published much earlier than last year. Messrs Wm. Patterson and Wm. Fitchett were appointed to canvas the village, while Secretary Mallory will again look after procuring the special prizes through the local representatives of the different business firms.

The question of canvassing the surrounding rural district for new members also came up for discussion. At an earlier meeting a suggestion had been made to increase the prize money paid on cattle and horses, the same to be raised by a canvas for new members, stated Secretary Mallory. He also urged that action be taken at once, or it would be too late. A number of the directors expressed themselves in favour of the plan and Messrs J. B. Thompson, Wm. Patterson, E. J. Pyear and Ben Blecker were appointed as canvassers.

Messrs H. L. Fair and Wm. Heath were a deputation to the Board meeting, seeking the use of the Fair Grounds for the Junior Farmers' Picnic to be held on July 31st. The request was granted.

A meeting of the District Fairs Association will be held in Campbellford on Friday of this week and Messrs J. B. Thompson, F. R. Mallory and H. P. Ellis were appointed as delegates.

H. P. Ellis, reporting for the committee appointed to investigate the loud-speaking equipment for use at the local fair stated that due to their being no power available at the Fair grounds, it was impossible to have a demonstration. He failed to understand why the Society paid a service charge under these circumstances. Secretary Mallory stated he had been advised that there was an existing agreement between the Society and the Hydro Commission, but he had never seen it, nor was he aware of its terms. Messrs J. B. Thompson, H. P. Ellis and C. F. Linn were appointed as a committee to interview the local Hydro Commission on the matter.

CONGRATULATIONS

Stirling Citizens' Band maintained its reputation as one of the better musical organizations in this district when, in competition with bands from Perth, Marmora and Frankford it captured first prize in the Band Tattoo held in connection with the Tweed Old Boys' Reunion on Friday last. In addition to winning the first prize for playing, the Band took second prize for marching, while Bandsman Charles Mitchell again won the trophy offered for the oldest bandsman present. This is a record of which the local organization may well feel proud. Under the leadership of Bandsmaster M. Bell it has been making splendid progress and the congratulations of the entire community are due the capable leader and his talented bandsmen.

TAX RATE REDUCED

Citizens of Stirling will welcome the announcement that there will be a five-mill reduction in the tax rate over last year, or forty-four mills. Notification has been received from government officials that the one-mill subsidy which was given municipalities last year will also apply this year, consequently the taxpayers of the village will only be required to pay forty-three mills. After all the talk that has been going on the rounds that this year's rate was going to be several mills higher than last, the five-mill reduction will doubtless come as a surprise to many of the property-holders. The lowering of the County rate from thirteen to seven mills made the reduction in the local rate possible. The balance of the rate, with the exception of the Village levy, which was raised one mill, remain the same as last year to make up the forty-four mill rate. The increase in the Village rate is attributed to increased expenditures in the upkeep of the streets and bridges and other unexpected calls on the treasury. When one considers the small proportion of the total taxes collected, over which Council has any control, and the many calls upon the treasury, the members of Council have done remarkably well in keeping the Village rate so low.

DO WE LOVE WORK?

"Not a few of us cherish the idea that we love work, and we pride ourselves on the fact that we belong to a nation which loves work," says an exchange. If we consider the matter carefully, it may be that we shall change our minds. How much work would be done today if suddenly everyone was supplied with all he needed in food, clothes, shelter and all the cherished treasures of life? Is it not certain that there would be a sudden shrinking in the world's output that would surprise everyone? Most of us do not do any more work than we have to. And when men discover that they can live without work, how much will they try to do? We were told only recently by a Councillor of the difficulty experienced in getting men to do certain work for the municipality. Not long ago we read an article discussing the distaste of men for work, and finding great fault with our present relief system because it made men dislike work. But have they ever been in love with work? We have believed so, but is it true? Of course there have been exceptions, but the rank and file of humanity does not seem to do any more than is absolutely necessary in order to make life worth living.

A BAND STAND IS NEEDED

What about a Bandstand? This is a question that is occupying the minds of the members of the Stirling Band as well as several influential citizens. About a year ago there was some talk of the erection of a band stand south of the Memorial Park on the land adjoining the large elm tree, which is owned by the village,

THEY'RE WELCOME

Forest Standard: Let's all boost for the British tourists. There are hundreds of thousands of people in Britain who like to get off the tight little isle to spend their holidays and have the necessary money to do so. They go practically all over the world, and there is no reason why more of them should not come to Canada. We would like to have them.

but no action was taken. Now that the summer weather is here again, there are numerous citizens who are anxious to hear the occasional band concert, but the Band is handicapped through lack of a place to play. Two or three weeks ago a concert was given on the Library lawn, but this site is far from being satisfactory according to the Band officials, and some other arrangement will have to be made if the citizens are to have the privilege of enjoying these concerts. The Stirling Band has proven itself an asset to our village and is deserving of every consideration by the citizens. We do not think there is anyone but who would gladly contribute to a fund for the purpose of erecting a suitable stand if given a chance. It has always been a self-supporting organization, and we believe the Village Council would have the support of all if they financed, or at least gave a liberal donation towards, the erection of a stand. If Council provided the building, the balance might be raised by public subscription. Members of the Band and the Village Council should discuss the matter jointly and decide on some plan of action.

CURRENT COMMENT

This is the season for lawn socials and garden parties. These are pleasant events which serve to promote a friendlier feeling between urban and rural residents. The proceeds are also always for some worthy cause.

The News-Argus extends congratulations to those who were successful in the Departmental High School Entrance Examinations, the results of which appear on another page of this issue. To those who failed to make the grade we trust they will have better luck next time.

The recent death of a young girl in the Cordova district from injuries received from being tossed from the running board of a motor car brings to mind the dangers of this mode of travel. Motorists should insist that all persons wanting a ride get inside the vehicle, otherwise they may be held responsible for a fatal accident.

Drunken drivers must face the additional punishment of having their car impounded, if convicted, for a matter of three months. Under new regulations, which became effective recently, police are required to impound cars of motorists convicted of drunken driving. During this period the convicted person will be required to pay storage approximating eighteen dollars per month. Such legislation should result in a decrease in the number of drivers who are willing to chance driving after drinking.

How times have changed. It is not so many years ago that July 1st, or Dominion Day was the occasion for mammoth patriotic celebrations in every section of the country. Now the day passes in most places simply as a holiday, and in some places even this is not observed. It is regrettable the Dominion's Natal Day is allowed to pass without the importance of the day being impressed upon the younger generation particularly. We might well copy some of the patriotism shown by our neighbours to the south on July 4th.

A provision of The Municipal Act which may be overlooked by many townships is contained in section 518, states the Collingwood Enterprise-Bulletin. This authorizes township Councils to pass by-laws for granting a prize not exceeding ten dollars for the best-kept roadside, farm front and farmhouse surroundings, in each school section of the township, and for presenting the conditions upon which such prizes may be competed for and awarded. A competition of this sort, if properly managed, may be the means of a big improvement in the appearance of Township roads. A bonus may also be granted, by by-law passed under section 511 (1) (c), not exceeding twenty-five cents each, for planting on the highway or within six feet thereof, ash, basswood, beech, birch, butternut, cedar, cherry, chestnut, elm, hickory, maple, oak, pine, sassafras, spruce, walnut or white-wood trees. Such bonus to be available at the expiration of three years from date of planting if the trees are then alive, healthy, and in good form. Residents of Rawdon and Sidney Townships would do well to consider the possibilities of these by-laws as a means of beautifying their property. There are many farmers who keep their home surroundings in fine shape, comparing very favourably with urban homes, but too many are content to let the roadside and their lawn or yard grow up to weeds and long grass.

The Municipal Act says that a vote of the ratepayers is not necessary for the issue of such debentures. The Municipal Boards says that such a vote is necessary. "We don't know whether this is 'Arrogance,' 'Ignorance,' or 'Dictatorship.'"

NO TROUBLE ANTICIPATED HERE

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

Apparently it is much easier for the government at Ottawa to vote money for public buildings in the smaller places in the country than it is for the villagers to decide where the buildings should be located. Some time ago there was quite a stir in Tweed about the site for the new post office and a constitutional crisis was averted only when it was decided to hold an old home week and permit the site question to work itself out. In Stirling another such situation has arisen out of the choice of a site for the new post office. One rather facetious writer to a Toronto newspaper suggests that the post office be built with the back door on Rawdon Creek so the postmaster could do a bit of fishing when he wasn't sorting the mail and filling the ink-wells. Of course, in time all these things will be straightened out and it is only natural that party men will do what they can to have these new post offices built on land they own and which they have been holding for just such a purpose.

THE USELESS "GOOD CITIZEN"

(Picton Gazette)

There is a certain type of man in every community who poses as a "good citizen," yet he is a good useless "good citizen."

He breaks no law, lives morally, pays his honest debts and is never tangled up with the law in any manner. But he lives of himself, by himself and for himself exclusively.

When the call is issued for volunteers to "put across" a community movement and give a "boost," he never answers. When calamity has befallen people in certain localities and charity flies to their rescue he is never one of their number. When money is needed for a public enterprise, his name is never on the list. When he sees some neighbor "stuck in the mud" he detours to avoid him.

In fact, if he stood on the shore and saw the ship of state sinking, he would never offer to throw out a line. And if all mankind were fashioned from this same kind of chap, what would happen? There would be no churches, no hospitals for the sick, no institutions for the unfortunate, no progress. If you are about to become a useless "good citizen" read this editorial again.

HE HATES TO ACT

(Albion Gazette)

Anyone who didn't believe that Premier W. L. M. King was the greatest exponent of that policy known as "laissez faire" before the Vancouver postoffice fiasco will be convinced of it now. It was only after much damage had been done to Federal property in the British Columbia metropolis and Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett had twitted him unmercifully, in the Commons, that Premier King could summon up courage to have the unemployed sit-down strikers thrown out of the public building. Premier King is supposed to be proud of his rebel grandfather. Old William Lyon MacKenzie may have lacked judgment but not courage. When he couldn't bring about reforms by persuasion he resorted to force. This may not have been justified by only fanatics like Mr. J. S. Wadsworth, M.P., Agnes Macphail, M.P., or some other Reds in the House of Commons, can find fault with a Prime Minister expelling an army of communistic loafers from the lobby of a Federal building like the Vancouver postoffice. It becomes more apparent every day that the only man who has little or no redress in this Dominion, is the honest, law-abiding, taxpaying citizen, who wants to work and would never think of camping on government property to bring an alleged grievance to official attention, no matter how serious it might be.

ONLY THE PRISONERS ARE RIGHT

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

It cost the ratepayers $88,000 to have three amiable gentlemen of the Royal Commission investigate our penitentiaries. They have presented a 400-page book with the bill.

Of course the report is full of the usual sort of stuff. Nobody is admirable — with the possible exception of the 1,800 prisoners serving time for serious offenses. General Ormond, the head of the jail system, is "arrogant" and one thing and another though many people have not discovered these generous faults during his six years in office.

Ever since Arthur Kennedy a competent newspaper man gave the Kingston prison a careful looking over and reported his findings, and ever since the Kingston Whig-Standard flatly contradicted the sob-sister stuff about the jail in the Lachrymose Globe, this paper has taken little stock in the political party which will go to any length to cook up a situation and blacken a staff if it looks like a good party move. There are always dippy people who can see no good in jail officials, and so rabid do these folks become that — if they are right and fair — it is remarkable that we do not just hand over our jails to the inmates and shove the officers in the cells.

Of course people don't like being in jail. Nobody wants to put them there. Inmates are usually a little unstable and many of them are said to be subnormal. A jailer be he ever so kindly and sympathetic, has discipline to enforce and the law to carry out. He can't possibly please all the people in his charge. So it is easy to dig up complaints from his charges against him, and when three verbose gentlemen are doing the digging a 400-page report may be expected.

ENGAGED AS PRINCIPAL OF FRANKFORD PUBLIC SCHOOL

Mr. J. A. Warren, Principal of the Bancroft Public School for the past six years, has resigned to accept a similar position with Frankford Public School, beginning with the Fall term. Mr. Warren has had wonderful success here and Bancroft's loss is Frankford's gain. — Bancroft Times.

POISON IVY MENACE TO BOTH CHILDREN AND ADULTS

There is an innocent-looking weed rustling happily in the June breeze in anticipation of the thousands of children and adults it is going to infect this summer — unless some person makes it his or her business to deal it a death-dealing blow — preferably by the chemical route.

Poison Ivy is the bane of summer resorts and woodland stretches and now is the time for a real clean-up. It is found along fence lines, waste places, in fact almost any place where there is no cultivation.

A menace to health, it has been the cause of a great deal of suffering, hospital and doctors' bills and has ruined many a vacation. Visitors who have suffered from Poison Ivy at a summer resort are not likely to return the following year.

How will you recognize Poison Ivy? Well, it is a low bushy perennial. The leaves are smooth and firm to leather, coarse-toothed edges and Always in Groups of Three. Leaves of the Virginia Creeper, for which the plant is sometimes mistaken, are in groups of five.

Chemical weed killers are easily applied and destroy all foliage and root system of poison ivy. Shallow rooted patches have been killed outright with a single application of sodium chlorate, one pound to a gallon of water. Care must be used, however, as there is a fire hazard with sodium chlorate.

Write the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, for valuable pamphlet on Poison Ivy, which describes how to use sodium chlorate.

This weed is labelled "noxious" under the Weed Control Act, and must be destroyed. If you know where a patch of Poison Ivy exists, notify your municipal authorities at once.

NOT A FLY SHOULD BE PERMITTED TO LIVE

When you consider the millions of flies that may be bred if even one single female house-fly is allowed to mature it is obvious to what extent these carriers of "typhoid" and other disease germs are a menace to any community where they are permitted to multiply.

Flies are no respecters of persons. The baby in the millionaire's home or the workman's cottage are equally in danger if proper care is not exercised to keep flies from entering the home. Flies frequent the filthiest feeding places outside the home, then, if allowed inside, carry dangerous germs to feeding bottles, liquids, foods, and everything that is left exposed.

The important point then is to "clean-up" thoroughly wherever potential breeding places exist — out-of-doors, around the house. And, to make doubly sure, screen all windows and doors and cover all milk and food wherever exposed. If these precautions were followed by everybody, it would go a long way to solve the fly problem. But, we are most of us apt to be thoughtless of others, perhaps, and so the flies have a new lease on life.

If flies do get into your home, a clean, quick way to kill them as they come is to place Wilson's Fly pads in convenient places around the house till fly-time is definitely over. Just a little care and thoughtfulness for the other fellow is the way to make the health authorities dream of a fly-less community come true.

THREE INJURED NEAR CROOK-STON

Three people were injured in an accident five miles west of Twpod on Sunday afternoon when two cars collided on the Crookston road. Allan McCoy, Madoc, was driving west and collided with a car driven by James O'Riordan, Tweed. Tillie Wilkens, aged 14, of Ivanhoe, a passenger in the McCoy car, suffered slight concussion, head and facial cuts. Mrs. Jas. O'Riordan and Reta O'Riordan, aged 13, both suffered facial cuts and bruises.

COVERING THE WORLD OF SPORT

For the first time since 1933 Canada has entered a team in the Davis Cup world tennis tournament, but even the most patriotic and enthusiastic racket wielders cannot conjure up visions of a Canuck triumph. Booked to meet Japan in the first round, the matches will be played in Montreal on July 28, 29 and 30, with the little brown men from the Land of the Rising Sun favoured to knock the Canadians out of contention in the first stanza. Why? Laird Watt, Jr., member of the four-man Canuck team in training at Forest Hills, N.Y., hits the nail on the head when he says that the Canadian playing season is too short to produce tennis players capable of holding their own with catgut slingers from England, United States, Australia and other lands of more temperate climate. The outdoor season in this country is limited to three or four months, whereas at least ten months a year active competition is necessary to bring a good player to tip-top form. Result — the tentative field of international tennis players in Canada is narrowed to the sons of the wealthy, whose means permit them to follow the sun when their proletarian fellow-countrymen are thinking more about hockey than tennis. You don't have to be a Marxian to figure out that so long as such a condition exists, and it probably always will, this country will never be able to hold its own in international tennis.

Big League Baseball called a halt to its pennant campaigns Wednesday to stage the annual All-Star benefit game at Cincinnati with the pick of the National League stars stacking up against the topnotchers of the American League. From a financial point of view, as well as a spectacular, it was the usual success it has been since borrowed from the hockey book of 1933. Another little page taken from the scribbles of hockeydom is the play-off system, now a permanent fixture in the International and numerous other pro baseball circuits. It was Frank "Shag" Shaughnessy, president of the International League and formerly manager of the Montreal Royals, coach of the Montreal Maroons of the N.H.L. and for many years mentor of McGill University gridiron squads, who first broached the play-off idea to the baseball bigwigs and although they laughed him off for several seasons, the depression gave them the "try-anything-once" attitude and the rest is history. "Shag," whose leadership has guided the International League from a shaky position a few years ago to new heights of affluence, is such a legendary figure in Canadian sport that the mere mention of his name brings to mind innumerable stories.

There is one that goes back to the old Canadian League of pre-war days, when "Shag" was managing the Hamilton squad, a collection of awkward, club-footed truckhorses, but who by tremendous batting power had clubbed their way to the top of the league standing. Their closest rivals, Brantford, were managed by the redoubtable "Knotty" Lee, and were the direct opposite to Shaughnessy's team — weak with the willow but strong defensively and poison on the base-paths. Came a crucial series at Hamilton between the rival clubs. Leading his lads onto the field for the first game, Lee was dumfounded when he found that the diamond was a slough of mud. The next day it was the same, and the next — yet the weather had been fair for a week. Needless to say the lumbering, heavy-hitting Shagmen swept the series and it was not for days after that "Knotty" discovered that the canny "Shag" had had the Hamilton fire department out every night soaking the field to slow up the nimble-footed Brants.

Eventually, however, the Hamiltonians had to go to Brantford for a series, with the two clubs still battling it out for the lead and Shaughnessy still chuckling over the trick he had played on his friend-enemy, Lee. Imagine the change, however, when his sluggers stepped up to the plate, took their usual healthy cuts, and saw the ball instead of soaring for extra-base hits, take a weak little spin into the infield. They hit the old pill just as hard as ever, but it just wouldn't sail. The entire series was a repeat order of the first game, with Lee's speedsters taking the Hamilton heavyweights into camp quite handily.

Lee had had the balls frozen solid for weeks! Of course, in these days such skull-duggery would never get by. But then maybe that's why they call them the "good old days."

"Bones" Livingston, who has been following the pacers and trotters as a working newspaperman since way back when, took a trip to the farm of Johnny Brigham at Kerrwood the other day and reports that Dazzle Direct, 2,11½, last year's Canadian champion three-year-old pacer has grown at least half a hand and added considerable weight in the off season, and is rarin' to go to the races. Fully recovered from the bad accident that befell him in Toronto, under the careful and canny tutelage of Morley McDonald, the bright bay gelding son of Grattan Direct out of Tony Patch by Dazzle Patch 2,09¾, by Dan Patch 1.55, is pointing toward the Queen's free-for-all pacing stake at the Stratford meeting from July 23 to 27.

QUESTIONS DEPT. — What is the shortest fight on record? (Answer at foot of column).

Bob Feller, 19-year-old star speedball pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, who amazed the baseball world last spring when he stepped from his father's farm at Van Meter, Iowa, to major league baseball without minor professional league experience, hands out a timely bit of encouragement and advice to other youngsters with a yen to become great ball players. Bob says that almost any youngster with some ability, a healthy body and brains can become a big league ball player. Two years ago Feller was just a farm kid who practiced throwing a baseball for hours behind the big red barn. Today, thanks to the expert tutelage of Carl Hubbell, Lefty Gomez, Dizzy Dean and other stars, he has changed from an awkward kid to an experienced, reasoning moundsman. We recall a conversation last winter with Joe Krakauskas, Hamilton, Ont., pitcher with Washington Senators, in which Joe averred that lots more Canadian youths could become topnotch ball players if they had the benefit of expert coaching. Joe said the type of ball played in the majors was totally different from what he had experienced in amateur circles in Canada, and that what he had learned from coaches and teammates in pro ranks made him wonder if he knew which end of the bat to hold when he made the jump to monied ranks.

Getting back to Feller, the youthful sage hands out a fatherly word of advice to young pitchers. "Don't run in to fight with the umpire every time your catcher turns around to talk to him after a called ball. I did that one time last summer and learned my lesson. Bill McGowan was umpiring behind the plate, and Frankie Pytlak was my catcher. I threw a curve ball that could have gone either way. McGowan called it a ball, and Pytlak turned around to talk to him. I didn't think it was a bad decision, but I figured that if Pytlak was willing to argue the point, then so was I. I steamed toward the plate but Frankie waved me back to the mound. That puzzled me until I later learned that what Frankie had said to McGowan when he turned around was: 'Gee, Bill, this kid is getting better every day. Did you see that curve?'"

SPORTS ODDITY — Sun glasses worn by big league baseball players are made with special blue lens and cost $16 a pair.

THIS AND DATA — The Diamond Sculls event of the Royal Henley at Henley-on-Thames, England, has passed into history for this year without a Canadian challenger. Shades of the Joe Wrights, Jack Guest, Bob Pearce, et al. Jack Delaney, young heavyweight scrapper from Oshawa, is meeting with considerable success in Old Country rings. This playoff business is expensive. Cornwall community arena shareholders have discovered. The arena showed a net profit of $6,135 in the past year, but expenses of sending the Flyers to the Allan Cup finals changed the financial picture to a deficit of $3,629. Vic Fleming, veteran Dundas, Ont., driver, is meeting with his usual success on Grand Circuit tracks across the line, scoring with Calumet Evelyn, Nate Hanover and Billy Direct of late. Simple Sally, the office stenog, says it's a good job the Newark Bears are not in the National Baseball League, because Mayor Hague would never allow the Cincinnati "Reds" in town. If present plans materialize, Tommy Farr, of Wales will defend his British Empire heavyweight title against Maurice Strickland of New Zealand at Toronto in late August. "Will be the first Empire title bout in this fair Dominion since Hector was a pup.

A YEAR AGO IN SPORT — A year ago today Cincinnati Reds sent Johnny Vander Meer to Syracuse in exchange for Jake Mooty. Today, Vander Meer is the sensation of the year following his two consecutive no-hit, no-run games, while Mooty is back in the minors.

ANSWERS DEPT. — Al Foreman, English battler, knocked out Ruby Levine with three punches in 11 1-2 seconds, including the count. Among the better known boxers Jack Dempsey kayoed Gred Fulton, the Harriston, N.J., plasterer in 13 seconds back in 1913. This smashing victory for the then 23-year-old Dempsey earned for him a crack at Jess Willard's title the following year.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Crop Reports

Recent estimates indicate that the Ontario tobacco crop may slightly exceed 71,000 acres this year, made up of nearly 50,000 acres of flue-cured, 9,500 acres of burley and slightly over 2,000 acres of dark tobacco.

The tomato crop for canning will not be as large as a year ago. A small percentage of the acreage was set out late in May and the remainder during the first week of June.

There have been fewer complaints of insect injury than in the average year, with several conspicuous exceptions. The Eastern Tent Caterpillar is one, nest of which can be seen on wild cherries and unsprayed apples all over the province. Many of these trees have either been already stripped of their foliage or soon will be. Sprayed orchards, however, are free from damage as the arsenate of lead in the spray quickly kills the insects.

Sugar Beet Crop

The acreage of commercial sugar beet crop is estimated at 27,000 acres this year. The sugar beets have come along fast and give every evidence of being a good crop. Thinning operations have been carried out and the stands are excellent. The contract price of sugar beets calls for a minimum of $6.25 per ton for beets delivered to the factory and $5.50 for delivery to outside weigh stations with a bonus of 25 cents per ton for each one per cent of sugar in the beets above 14 per cent.

Owing to abnormal climatic conditions, alsike seed production declined sharply in Ontario in 1937, exports falling off badly this season as a result. Only about 200,000 pounds were exported. Most of it went to the United States, but a few shipments were consigned to the United Kingdom and other countries. This is a different showing as compared with a few years ago when annual exports amounted to 8 to 12 million pounds.

A much larger crop, however, is expected for 1938 as the alsike was wintered well generally and there is a much larger acreage in Ontario than for some years.

Alsike is one of the dependable export seeds grown in Canada. European countries and the United States want the seed but it must be satisfactory in quality. Canadian growers should not overlook the fact that quality is the deciding factor and means the difference between profit and loss in growing the crop. By quality is meant freedom from weed seeds and good colour. The former may be attained by sowing No. 1 alsike on clean fields and by hand spudding the weeds before the crop is harvested. Good colour is extremely important also, and this results largely by harvesting at the right time and permitting as little weathering as possible.

Fruit Crop Report

Eastern Ontario — The prospects for a heavy crop of apples is not quite as good as it was the first of the month. Most varieties promise an average crop in Northumberland, Prince Edward and Hastings Counties, as well as the St. Lawrence district, with somewhat lighter crop of winter varieties in Durham and Ontario Counties. On the whole, total apple production should be considerably larger than last year. Showery weather two weeks ago was favourable for the development of scab which is showing on foliage and apples in some orchards.

Cherries will only be an average crop. Brown rot is showing in some orchards. Plums and pears will be light crops.

Northern Ontario — Although rather early to give definite indications, it would appear that early varieties of apples such as Wealthy, Duchess and McIntosh show above average prospects. Other varieties below average. Other fruits, average.

Condition of Vegetables

Prospects for vegetable production are considered good. Frost retarded the growth of early producing areas, and severely damaged green beans in Essex County and a few other localized areas. Moisture supplies have been sufficient up to the present, but rainfall is needed now in some sections for continued development. Condition figures reported by correspondents show vegetable crops generally in average to somewhat above average condition at the 15th of June. The total commercial vegetable acreage is about the same in Eastern Ontario and slightly higher in Western Ontario.

Weed Control

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their city, town, village or township by notifying their municipal council or weed inspector as to the whereabouts of noxious weeds in the locality. The Weed Control Act, passed in 1927 by the Ontario Government, and since amended, places the responsibility of weed control directly on the shoulders of the municipality and weed inspectors.

Every person in Ontario is entitled to protection under this Act and should notify the council or weed inspector of any neglectful area infested with weeds. It is the duty of the municipal authorities to see that these weeds are destroyed as soon as they have been notified by interested citizens (yourself for example).

Clause four of the Weed Control Act reads — "Every occupant of land, or if the land is unoccupied, the owner shall destroy all weeds designated as noxious by the regulations, as often in every year as is sufficient to prevent the ripening of their seeds."

It is the duty of each municipal council to appoint at least one Weed Inspector and to set the remuneration he is to receive. These inspectors are responsible for seeing that the provisions of the Act are enforced in their municipality.

The Weed Control Act itself will not control a single weed. It depends entirely upon definite human action and the scope of this definite human action will depend on the force an extent of community opinion on the municipal council. You and your neighbours can bring about quick action in the eradication of weeds by making "everybody's business" your business.

Copies of the Weed Control Act and information regarding control of weeds will be gladly forwarded free of charge on request, by the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

LOCAL MAN APPEARS IN BELLEVILLE POLICE COURT

Harry Snarr, Stirling, appeared in Belleville Police Court on Monday charged with the theft of a stove. The accused pleaded guilty, but had his case enlarged for sentence until Friday. "There is another person implicated in this matter," interrupted Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C. At this point the name of Ernest Hamilton was called, the accused being charged with the same offence and an accomplice of the former accused man's. Hamilton failed to answer to his name. "Was this man summoned into court?" asked Mr. Donnan. "Not summoned but told to appear," replied a Provincial Constable. "Have both Snarr and Hamilton in court together so we can proceed with this matter," added His Worship as he enlarged the matter. — Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer.

Mr. Garland Irwin and Misses Blanche and Evelyn Gibson gave several guitar selections. The beautiful and costly presents show the high esteem in which the bride and groom are held. The following address was read by Don Barnum:

Dear Leslie and Leah:—

We, your neighbours and friends of this community have gathered at this home tonight which is doubtless one of the happiest times in your young lives. The main reason for this gathering is to offer to you both the heartiest and most sincere congratulations on your marriage, and our deepest wish for a long and happy wedded life. To you, Mrs. McKeown, or Leah, as no doubt you will be known, came into this community as a stranger to some of this gathering. But from those who know you, we are certain that in a short time you will be counted one of our dearest friends, and we want you to feel that you are among friends. You have left a good Christian home and a loved family, and we trust the same principals that have made home dear to you will be practised in the one you and Leslie shall build. It would be needless to tell you to take excellent care of your husband. It may be your greatest worry, but remember that pillows were made before rolling pins. May all your fights and arguments be short-lived. You will not only be a wife, but also a companion to him, in social and in business problems, sharing with him his cares and good fortunes, so we give you Leah a hearty welcome into our midst as Leslie's wife.

To you Les — who are so popularly known and liked by everyone here, we congratulate you on securing such a lovely bride, as you will say "The best in all of Rawdon." May you continue to be the same good sport as in the past, with your friendly and cheerful nature, that has won you many friends. Besides your home and business interests, may you with your wife take an active part in the affairs of the community and Church, wherever you are located. We trust that these gifts brought here tonight will find a useful corner in your home. But besides their personal value, may they serve as a pleasant remembrance of the people who gathered tonight to wish you the best of luck and God's richest blessing.

Signed on behalf of your friends — Marjorie Reid, Edna Bateman, Marjorie McKeown, Nellie Morrison, Gladys Burkitt, Arthur Reid, Don Barnum, Chas. Wellman, Harold Stiles, Ken Huff, Herb Smith.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Over fifty from Mount Pleasant attended the Union Picnic of the Sunday Schools of Rawdon Circuit at the "Tabernacle", Oak Lake on Dominion Day. HOLLOWAY NEWLY-WEDS ARE HONOURED

On Friday evening, June 24th, a very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wilson, where about seventy-five of their friends and neighbours gathered in honour of Mr. Harold Wilson and his bride. About 10:30 Mr. Blake McMullen, acting as chairman, called the gathering to order and Mrs. Blake McMullen read the following address:

June 24th, 1938
Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson,
Dear Margaret and Harold,
No doubt you have already received many congratulations on your recent marriage and tonight your friends in this community have gathered here to join in wishing you success and happiness in your wedded life.

It affords us great pleasure to celebrate with such a young couple, as you embark on the matrimonial sea. The voyage will undoubtedly not all be smooth sailing, but we feel that when storms do assail you, you will have that courage which is necessary if your marriage is to be a success.

Margaret, we welcome you to our community, and we feel sure that your social life will benefit by your presence. We hope that you will find new friends here and that your associations with us may be pleasant ones.

Harold, we all regard you as a friend and wish you the very best life has to offer. To scores of people, many of whom were unable to attend this gathering, you are known as "the mail-man". They have found you faithful to your duty and always willing to oblige in the carrying of messages or parcels you were asked to deliver. Tonight these people show their appreciation and extend best wishes for the happiness of you both in their presentation of this studio couch.

As you use it in your home, may it recall the pleasant gathering and the spirit of friendship which prompted this gift.

Signed on behalf of the Holloway Community — Harry McMullen, Coleman Townsend, Arthur Carter.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN DEAD

Found lying along the tracks of the Canadian National Railways, near Shannville, the body of an unidentified man was discovered early Tuesday morning. No means of identification were found in a search of the clothing of the man, who was thought to be a transient.

It is alleged by railway authorities that the man must have gone to sleep on a passing freight and fallen from the train, striking his head on the gravel roadbed.

Dr. E. H. Bokardt, of Shannville, stated that death was instantaneous from a multiple fracture of the skull. The man had been dead about ten hours when he was found. An inquest will be held.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

SIXTH INSTALMENT

Synopsis

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Single Shot. Both are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train, which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action foils a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff tells Dave he is not wanted. Quinn defends Dave but Dave and Rosy go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by nesters and involved in a claim dispute. Suddenly a shot from the darkness topples Dave from his horse. Rosy fires and kills the unknown assailant and they rush to the ranch to treat Dave's severe scalp wound. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands — a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to deliver a corpse to the sheriff and see the town banker.

In a great screeching shudder, the main building upended and was dissolved in the flood. He could hear the water slap against the far bank of the creek-bed a hundred yards below the mine.

Then it died, almost as suddenly as it had begun. He could hear the arroyo running loud and full, but the bulk of the water had passed.

He waited, his ankle throbbing viciously. Were any of the men saved? Was Dorsey?

"Better stay here," he thought dully. "If I try to move I'll faint and will just as likely as not fall face down in a pool of water and drown."

All the horror and desolation and cruelty of it was increased ten-fold by the weak dawn light. A murderous fury filled him. Turner would pay for this with his life as long as a drop of Buck Hammond's blood ran red. In his rage, he clutched at the jagged rocks until his hands bled.

They found him there unconscious. "It's gone," Dave said, looking at the boulder-strewn ground where the mine had been.

"Insurance," Rosy said bitterly. "Insures the mine then blows a lake out on top of it."

As they pulled down into the mouth of the arroyo, they saw men working frantically. One of the men spied them and waved them over.

"Give us a hand, will you?" the man asked, his face streaming with sweat.

"There's seven men down this mine shaft. The mouth's clogged with boulders and mud and there's a chance they may be alive. They was down there when the lake went out up above."

Rosy looked at Dave, who turned to the man. "Hammond isn't down there, is he?"

"No. He's in town, I reckon. He got hurt a little."

"Not bad, I heard. Can you give us a lift?"

"Sure," Dave said.

They worked with crowbars and shovels for an hour.

Hammond was taken to Dr. Fullerton's and they rode through town to the main corner, turned left at the Free Throw and easily found the doctor's house a half block above. It was a frame house, neatly painted white, with a deep yard and a huge glassed-in porch at the side. This was the Single Shot hospital.

"Is Hammond in there?" he asked the woman who opened the door.

"Yes. What do you want?"

"On the porch?"

"Of course. But he can't see any one."

Dave simply shouldered past her. "I thought so," a flat toneless voice said.

Dave stopped. It was the sheriff's voice.

"I got guns thrown on you," the sheriff said. "You better hand over your own."

"Get out of the way," Dave said briefly, and took a step forward.

"I wouldn't go no further," the sheriff said flatly, and there was a deep warning menace in his voice.

"Give me them guns," the sheriff said, recognizing his advantage.

"Talk to him all you want, but give me them guns. There's a woman in there."

Dave sighed loudly.

"All right, Hank," he said bleakly. "But I warnin' you. You and all the deputies you can swear in in seven years ain't goin' to keep me from killin' Hammond."

"I know that," the sheriff said. "I'm just tryin' to put it off until the fight's a little more even. Now hand them guns over, both of you."

He received the four guns and wedged them in his belt, then opened the door and backed through it onto the porch. "Now come on," he said quietly.

Dave stepped through the door. There were four beds on the porch and in the far one Hammond was lying propped up on a pillow. Dorsey was sitting on the foot of his bed, but Dave did not even see her.

He walked across the room slowly. "You murderin' bushwhackin' water-thievin' skunk!" Dave said slowly and distinctly, his voice quivering with contempt. He had hardly finished speaking before Dorsey was on her feet facing him. She slapped him sharply across the face, but Dave did not stir.

Hammond groaned in his rage.

"You couldn't get the lake so you had to ruin it for me," Dave continued, his voice slow and thick. "Ruin it, and drown seven of your own men doin' it. Just for revenge."

"That's a damned lie!" Hammond thundered, suddenly, finding his voice. In spite of his pain, he lunged up in bed and pointed a blunt finger at Dave. "You did it yourself. You blew that lake out to ruin the Draw Three because you knew that water was mine."

wondered when you two jaspers would tumble to this."

The three men looked at each other blankly.

"You damned knot-headed fools," the sheriff said. "Calm down enough to look at it. Why would Hammond blow the dam out and ruin his mine and drown seven men?" He turned to Hammond. "And you, Buck. You're older. You should have saw it all along. Turner thinks the lake is his whether it is or not. Would he blow out that dam and spoil every drop of water on his spread — ruin it — just to ruin you?"

Hammond looked at Dave, then at Rosy.

"You mean," Rosy said slowly, "that someone else did it?"

"That's it," the sheriff grunted. "The hombre that did it wanted Turner to think Hammond done it, and wanted Hammond to think Turner done it."

Dave sank weakly on a bed and stared at Hammond. The guilt had been so obvious to them both that they stared at each other, trying to collect their wits. Dorsey was sobbing, and Dave, for the first time, noticed her. He blushed, but said nothing.

"I reckon we're a couple of fools," Hammond said.

Dave nodded.

"There, there," Hammond said, patting Dorsey's shoulder.

"Oh, Dad," she sobbed. "They might have shot you."

"And I might have shot them," Hammond said.

"But you're an old man. In bed. Without a gun." She looked at Dave. "Is that a trick you learned in jail?"

"You contemptible, sneaking jail-bird!" Dorsey said, then started to cry again.

"Stop it, honey," Hammond said. Hammond looked at Dave. "I reckon she's upset and don't know what she's sayin'."

"I—I guess I lost my temper," she said. "I'm sorry."

"That's all right," Dave said quietly. "There may be a lot of truth in what you said."

Again Dorsey flushed, but held her tongue.

"Mr. Hammond," Rosy began, "I reckon we owe apologies all around. We've all been barkin' up the wrong tree. Let's get together and try to settle this."

Dave nodded glumly. "We're in the same boat. The spread ain't worth the grass on it now, and your mine is just a pot-hole, from the looks of it."

"And it'll stay that way," Hammond said. "I couldn't raise the money to have the water pumped out of it."

"But who could have done it?" Rosy said. "Someone did. Was they wantin' to ruin you, Hammond, or us?"

"Dave and me don't know many people around here. Dave's been away eight years. I'm new. It looks like someone wanted to run you off that mine, Hammond — clean off. You got any enemies you think might do it?"

Hammond shook his head. "I know people that don't like me and I don't like 'em. Like Pearson, for instance. But that's nateral enough."

"We were almost partners once. I got the Draw Three on a tip from a minin' man I did a favor for once. I was ranchin about a hundred miles to the south, then, and I sold my spread and come up here. I tried to borrow money from Pearson. I had the option bought up, but I had to get the money to swing the deal. He wouldn't have anything to do with it at first, but he finally sent east for a minin' man to come and look the property over. I never heard what the minin' man said about it, but Pearson come around and wanted to buy up my option when it expired. I told him I wouldn't sell, and if I couldn't get the money to mine it myself, I was goin' to sell the option to a minin' company."

"Well, that brought Pearson around. He agreed to put some money in it. Pearson kept puttin' money in until I tumbled to what he was tryin' to do. He was tryin' to put so much money in it that he'd get control. Loan me out of the mine, so to speak. Well, I set my foot down. Pearson didn't like it, and he hasn't been around since."

"Think he's forked?" Rosy asked.

"No," Hammond said immediately. "I don't think so. He's a sharp business man, that's all. He wanted the mine. He tried to get it in a legitimate way. He couldn't and we disagreed. Some of his money is still in it."

"Then that's out, on that score alone. He wouldn't want to lose his own money," Rosy said.

Dorsey patted her father's arm. "Dad, why not sell out to Crowell, Take the offer he made you this morning and buy the ranch back."

Dave leaned forward. "Sell out to who?"

"Crowell," Dorsey said. "He's been interested in the mine. He happened to be in town last night and when he heard about the accident, he came over this morning and wanted dad to sell to him."

"You—" Dave began, then looked at Rosy. He shook himself and leaned forward, talking rapidly. "Listen to this. For the past year, Mary, my sister, has been gettin' letters from a gent by the name of Crowell, askin' her to put a price on the D Bar T spread. Those letters came about the time she was havin' trouble with you, Hammond, over the lake. She thought it was you writin' the letters under the name of Crowell. And you folks didn't write the letters at all?"

"No," Hammond said.

"And you didn't have this Crowell try to buy the D Bar T for you?"

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Red raspberries made their 1938 debut on the Belleville market on Saturday where another abundant offering of farm, garden and dairy produce was displayed.

Slight fluctuation in price tones of some of the seasonal fruits and vegetables marked activities, although generally the price trend was firm.

Strawberries noted a slight increase in price from quotations of last week-end, during the early hours, with choice berries offered at two boxes for 25c. Towards noon, however, incoming quantities forced a lowering in quotations in some quarters to three boxes for 25c.

Raspberries, of which only a few boxes were offered, sold at 80c each, with offerings being rapidly picked up by lovers of this particular fruit.

Gooseberries in varying sizes, showed no change, berry-box lots selling fairly briskly at 10c each.

New potatoes marked the first decline since their appearance this season. Pecklots dropped 10c to 50c each with bushels offered at $1.75, a new low for this quantity. New beets, carrots, onions and radishes selling in bunch lots at 5c each, with new cabbage fresh from local fields and gardens, and offered at from 8c each to two heads for 15c rounded out an attractive display of vegetables.

New peas, featuring Thomas Laxtons and Market Gardener varieties, were plentiful with prices remaining fairly firm. In the main, quart lots were offered at 25c, although in some quarters they could be obtained a few cents cheaper. New String Beans found popular favour in the eyes of several shoppers with an attractive yellow variety selling at 10c per berry box lot to a briskly moving market.

Eggs, eggs and more eggs featured the display in the inside market with little or no change being noted in quotations of last week. "A" selects were offered at 25c per dozen with medium and pullets' selling at 23c and 20c per dozen respectively. Some ungraded stock was offered at 23c.

Young broiler chickens headed their display with choice birds selling at $1 each with brisk buying featuring these booths. Farmers' butter was steady with two-pound rolls offered at 65c, and singles at 35c each. Lovers of fish found fresh white fish and lake trout offered for their taste. The former was quoted at 20c per pound in the whole, while the trout brought the same prices with 25c being asked if the fish was filleted or sliced.

TWEED "OLD BOYS" SURPRISE FORMER ATHLETIC STAR

One of the most delightful happenings that took place during the Old Home Week celebration was a presentation made to Mr. Clark Brown (Brownie) of a number of books and a supply of cigarettes by his old teammates of Tweed Championship Baseball Team of 1919. For a number of years, Clark has been an invalid, cheerfully accepting the dictates of fate which have resulted in confining him to his bed. The affair was planned by Mr. Harry Soanes of Kingston, manager of the Ball Team of 1919, and all the old members readily and willingly fell in with the suggestion to honour an old pal. They gathered at Rath's store on Friday morning at eleven o'clock and quite took Brownie by surprise as they trooped into his room.

Clarke was deeply moved by the thoughtfulness of his old team-mates who are Harry Soanes, Toronto; Grant (Punt) Murray, Oshawa; Rev. Fr. S. LeSage, Stirling; Ewart Alger and Stewart Alger, Oshawa; Bert Houston, Belleville; Hubert Wagar, Dr. J. A. Thompson, Howard Connor and Garrett Morton, Tweed. Only Frank McGowan and Hiley Trumppour were unable to be present. At the same time the boys presented Mrs. Clark Brown one of their strongest supporters in those days, with a beautiful purse.

Harry Soanes made the presentation on behalf of the boys and wished that Clark might enjoy a restoration to health, and in the meantime much pleasure from perusing the pages of the books.

DROWNED AT HASTINGS

Chas. Philpott, aged 10, of 152 Oak Park, Toronto, drowned at Hastings on Saturday night about 8.45, standard time, in the first fatality of this kind there this year. The accident occurred when Charles, accompanied by his sister, Jean, aged fifteen, and Sylvia Kirk, aged ten, of Hastings, went bathing just about dark.

Charles and his sister waded into the water holding hands about 200 yards west of the locks and at the end of the canal wall. The shore at this point drops at almost a 45 degree angle. The unfortunate boy, who was unable to swim, walked out beyond his depth, still holding his sister's hand. She quickly released his grasp when the boy began to struggle, fearing he might pull her under.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES OTTAWA

(By Dean Wilson)

There are signs along Parliament Hill that momentous events are taking place behind the scenes at Canada's capital, and yet a deep shroud of secrecy is covering all the activities of the authorities. It is almost impossible to obtain any direct information or interview on certain specific subjects of paramount and vital interest to every citizen of this country from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, but one is not inclined to blame the officials because it appears that the ethics of journalism and the diplomatic rules and principles of international politics prevent any criticism of this secret atmosphere. Therefore, whatever information is disclosed, it is usually a product of deduction and assumption on the part of economic and political observers of national affairs who possess the necessary ability, knowledge and experience to elucidate the happenings along Parliament Hill.

This is the exact set of circumstances that surrounds the negotiations which have taken place between the United States, Great Britain and Canada, and it is a strong possibility that when any information is given out in the form of a public statement, it will not tell the whole story. History is being made right now, probably the most important pages of modern history are being written, and it is a certainty that only future generations will know what arrangements were made and the reasons for them. It is several months ago that this column expressed an opinion that it seems that the United States is making more than a mere treaty with Great Britain. It was explained at that time that Canada is playing a very important role in the international deal of English-speaking powers. It was urged that no Canadian need fear that the proposed trade treaties will be of a nature to damage seriously their present standard of living, their own volume of business, and that the whole series of arrangements are not to be regarded seriously from an economic point of view. Subsequent events are now corroborating these deductions and observations.

History is being made at the present time in Washington, Ottawa and London. The so-called trade treaties between London and Washington are in reality a series of arrangement not between Great Britain and the United States, but it is quite likely that it is an enormous amalgamation of power between the big nation below the line and the whole British Commonwealth of Nations. It is not difficult to understand why no politician who has experience in international diplomacy who dare to state that London is making arrangements for everyone in the Commonwealth. This would hurt pride and conceit of every section of the Commonwealth. In other words, the man in the street in Canada, Australia, South Africa, etc., would misunderstand the whole object and reason for this action in bringing into alliance the United States' Navy, Army and other fighting forces in the event of a world conflagration, though it is certain that London would do nothing without consulting every section of the Commonwealth. It is not a straight military alliance as between Great Britain and France, or such as the one which joins the fighting forces between France and Russia, but it is a new sort of arrangement that is new for the rest of the world and not for Britain and the United States.

There is a small document hidden in the archives of the Department of State at Washington, which has attracted but little attention, yet its effect upon the welfare of two nations has been immense. It is the so-called "arrangement" between the United States and Great Britain, bearing date of April 28, 1817, and it is signed by Richard Rush on behalf of the United States and Charles Bagot as the Envoy Extraordinary of His Britannic Majesty. The entire contents of this small piece of paper state that these two nations shall never fortify or create any armaments on the borders of Canada and the United States, particularly on the Great Lakes of Ontario. The purpose of this "arrangement" was to end for all time the chances of any future conflict such as the one of the war of 1812. It was understood between the representatives of these two powers that blood and tradition made any war between them a sort of civil war. It was asserted that these English-speaking peoples, so closely interwoven in many ways, would never have reason to fight against each other since all usual causes for war were removed such as territorial disputes or any desire for land, religious controversy, national misunderstanding, and commercial rivalry. It was a reflection of the sentiment of the government of the people of both countries, and ever since that historic date peace and friendship have resulted from that "arrangement". Whatever quarrels did arise between them, they were settled quickly and every other power has referred to them as "family quarrels". In all international gatherings, it is a common experience for professional observers to find that foreign representatives regard the English-speaking delegates as one and the same, though the representatives of Great Britain appear to be in disagreement with those of the United States. It is the psychological reaction of the rest of the world today in international affairs and disputes involving the two powers, but for diplomatic reasons open alliance between Washington and London is not likely to be the subject of any official legal enactment or treaty.

But why is it that experienced observers along Parliament Hill believe that the current trade treaties between the United States and the Motherland and the other sections of the British Commonwealth of Nations are not merely the routine commercial arrangements that they are termed by the authorities and which are supposed to be nothing but an effort to increase the trade relations between the nations? This is a question that is being asked everywhere in this country and it will receive a detailed answer in next week's column. — (Reproduction Prohibited, 1938, Educational Features Syndicate.)

"19TH HOLE" HARDEST TO MAKE IN PAR SAYS COL. BOGEY

Col. Bogey, the golf club's first president and oldest member, was sitting in the locker room, the "19th hole", with his cronies after they had finished an 18-hole foursome.

They were holding the inevitable "post mortem" on their game; how George lost his ball in the creek at the 12th, and how Bert's putt from the edge of the 7th green had hung on the lip of the cup — and stayed there.

"You fellows may think you have troubles at every hole on the course," broke in the Colonel, "but take it from an old-timer like me, there isn't a golfer living who doesn't need to watch his game more at the 19th hole than at any other. I've watched a good many men play this course in my day, and I know what I'm talking about."

The other men listened respectfully because "old man Bogey" didn't usually speak unless he had something worthwhile to say.

"I mean about drinking and driving," he went on. "Lots of fellows wouldn't think of taking a drink before they started out to play, because they know what it will do to their game. Even a drink or two will make a tremendous difference in a golfer's driving and putting. It puts him off his sense of direction in driving and his sense of distance in putting."

"But after the game is over, too few golfers consider what effect a few drinks will have on their driving after the 19th hole. Driving home in their cars, I mean. You can get a golf ball out of a trap with a heavy niblick, but no club in your bag can get a car out of a ditch."

In a golf game, Col. Bogey remarked, driving into the rough or out of bounds may only cost a golfer the loss of a stroke or a ball; but driving "out of bounds" or into the "rough" on the highway may cost him a life or a limb or a car or 30 days or $200.

"I've turned down a lot of good foursomes," he told them, "just because I didn't want to play the heavy game some of them go in for at the 19th hole, much as I would have liked to play the first 18 with them. As long as I'm driving a car, I want to be able to go home with as clear a head as I need on the golf course. And these Department of Highways fellows sum it up pretty neatly when they say: 'If you drive, don't drink and if you drink, don't drive.'"

"And another thing," the Colonel went on, "in golf we practice a good many things to make our game safer and more pleasant that we should copy when we're on the highway. We call 'Fore' to let the fellow ahead know we're coming up to him, and we don't pass him unless he gives us the signal to 'play through'. We don't drive or play a shot until the man ahead is well out of range, and we don't shoot when the view is obstructed unless we are sure the course is clear. We don't try to force our way into the line of play, or put some player out of his position, unless there is plenty of room ahead and the man ahead is willing to let us pass him."

"Those are all things we do instinctively on the golf course," he continued, "but consider how often we neglect these points in our highway driving. We try to pass cars without giving them a proper signal. We try to cut in when the road is crowded. We risk our necks by passing other cars on curves and hills, when we don't know what's around the bend or on the other side of the hill. And if we yelled at some of our fellow club members the way we sometimes do at our fellow drivers, we wouldn't stay on the membership list very long."

"You can call me an 'old fogey' if you like," smiled the Colonel, "but it seems to me that if we golfers conducted ourselves on the highways as well as we do on the golf course, the Department of Highways would have a lot less to worry about in the way of highway safety and traffic accidents."

THE IDEAL TEACHER

Some months ago school children in a certain area were asked to present their ideas regarding the kind of father they looked up to. He proved to be no Superman, but just a plain, honest man who was gentle and reasonable. The greatest sin a father could commit in the eyes of these children was loud-mouthed bullying.

At a teachers' conference in this same area the other day, the "ideal teacher" was constructed out of a list of qualifications submitted by the same school children.

What emerged was a person not unlike the father they had pictured. The ideal teacher would not be a tyrant, but a friend; a just person, and well adjusted; a person who would place the children on their own and give them self confidence; who would explain things and not shout instructions; who would rule not by fear but by respect; who would create a sense of unity and see that differences of opinion were brought out.

This, at first sight, seems a tall order. But it really is not. All the children ask is a person of intelligence and broad toleration and above all with a sense of justice. Is such a combination so rare? Perhaps it is. But that is a sign of the imperfections in our social life rather than of childish extravagance. — Ottawa Citizen.

SECTIONMAN'S WORK IMPORTANT FACTOR IN OPERATION

(C. P. R. Staff Bulletin)

"Wanted, strong, able-bodied man with some knowledge of law, carpentry, engineering principles, used to handling explosives, able to handle men, capable of maintaining friendly relations with neighbours, prepared to work 24 hours a day when required, willing to assume responsibility for lives and property, trustworthy, with some knowledge of gardening, farming, diplomacy." Such an advertisement has yet to appear in a newspaper in Canada, yet such an advertisement would be necessary to define some of the requirements that must be met by a section foreman.

The specimen was composed by the Staff Bulletin after a day spent on two Laurentian sub-divisions in a motor inspection car, another day spent in reading the Maintenance of Way Rules and several days digesting of a harvest of information garnered from the division engineer, three roadmasters and the several section and extra-gang foremen encountered during the field excursion.

What would you do if you found yourself in charge of three and a half miles of double track main line, one and a quarter miles of sidings, 10 main line switches, one yard switch, two bridges, six culverts, four curves, four public crossings and four farm crossings and you were continually troubled by the presence of cattle on the right of way?

What would you do if you found branches of a tree growing in a property adjoining the right of way extending over the fence in such a way as to obscure an engineman's view of the track ahead or a crossing?

What would you do if two sons who had hitherto farmed their land on shares suddenly decided to divide their land in such a manner that the existing farm crossing would not be available for the separated herds?

What would you do if the frost heave under a portion of your track raised one rail above the level of the other?

The list of "what would you do's" could extend indefinitely but the examples given are sufficient to indicate that the life of a section man or section foreman is far from placid.

Every section man knows the answers — and there were 9,683 section men, labourers, and section foremen in the company's employ in 1936, an average that remains a fairly steady 17.4 per cent. of the total of rail lines employees.

For your information the foreman of the first section mentioned would first report the constant straying of cattle to the proper authority, then he would diplomatically take up the matter of open farm crossing gates with the owner (as a matter of course having closed all open gates he found in his or his men's daily patrol), finally, if the cattle guards at the nearest public crossing — after having ascertained that the Railway Board had not already issued authority for the removal of these guards — it would become his duty to obtain consent to the removal of these guards from the local municipal council in order that a request might be made to the Board for their removal.

Cattle guards, a layman finds out when he gets out on the track, are as likely to keep straying cattle on the track as they are to keep them from reaching it.

Example two calls for diplomacy. Obviously there is a recourse for such a situation, but equally obviously it is better to obtain the owner's willing co-operation.

Knowledge of the law enters into the third example, but again the matter of goodwill is more important. Actually in such a situation — and they occur fairly frequently in Quebec — the two sons have technically subdivided their land and are not entitled to farm crossings, but the section foreman usually acts as peace-maker and helps reach a settlement that will not increase his worries. There is one section in the Laurentian Division that contains 92 farm crossings in five and a half miles!

Frost heaves are well taken care of in the Maintenance of Day rule book. Each section is well supplied with hardwood shims for use in leveling track and every sectionman is familiar with the principles of maintaining levels by their use.

It is little realized, except by those to whom the condition of the track with its bearing on the safety of life and property is of paramount importance, how great a part in the operation of a railway is played by section gangs. Upon them lies the responsibility for the maintenance of the track in their territory and to the section foreman is given authority wider than that enjoyed by many. Coupled with that authority is a reliance upon their discretion and the ever-present need for economy, except at the expense of safety.

To give a full outline of the work undertaken by the sections is impossible in the available space. Perhaps a few illustrations from a trip over part of the line will sample its extent. The first section foreman encountered — hoe in hand — see rule 148 — "Cow's breakfast", hat well back over his tanned neck, was busy with his two men hacking weeds from between the rails. A few miles farther on at the end of a weed-free section the foreman tested a switch while a helper mowed the station lawn. Next came a foreman who hopped on the car to show the roadmaster a culvert where the high water level had been changed owing to altered drainage arrangements on a nearby farm — did you know that the sectionman notes even the plowing of a field in a direction from that employed formerly? Yet another, busily pumping on his hand-car with two helpers, carried fish-plats to storage in his tool house from the scene of track-laying operations on his section. Another, with the placid, unhurried efficiency that he speaks the true "grower" set out plants to brighten the right of way for passing travellers.

From conversations overheard on two subdivisions it became apparent that every inch of the right of way is thoroughly familiar to its guardians. They seem to know ties and rails by their first names — which is just as well since the replacement of either while there is still safe, efficient life in it means expense, as does failure to replace when necessary.

Winter and summer, spring and fall, all bring specialized work to be done, but every day, rain or shine, before any work is started the track must be patrolled, switches and crossing signals tested, any required repairs effected to the track, and switch lamps checked and filled with oil when necessary.

Snow and ice cause the most work in the winter time and attention must be paid daily to the cleaning out of switches, flangeways in crossings, platforms kept clear of ice and snow, and culverts and cuts cleared against the possibility of a dangerous thaw and freeze combination. In spring when office men's fancies lightly turn to thoughts of gardening or golf the sections begin a heavy session of ditch and culvert cleaning, the replacement, shim removal, weeding, grass-burning and gardening. Summer is usually the season for track replacement, which, although it is carried out by extra gangs, must be watched jealously by the responsible section foreman, and surfacing or rail-leveling, of which about one quarter of the section is done each year. Mowing, weeding — either hand or chemical — and general repairs must be carried on, and then once again attention must be paid to drainage problems so that the fall rains may carry away properly.

Everything that happens on its section, which may range from three and a half miles of double track to six and a half miles of single track, according to the nature of the territory in which it is situated, interests the section foreman, regardless of whether it is carried out by his gang, an extra or B&B gang or an outside contractor and it is his duty to see that nothing contravenes the regulations for safety of operation.

He is assisted in his work and encouraged by fortnightly bulletins from the roadmasters officers and is frequently visited by the roadmaster, who brings his practical experience to bear upon unusual problems that may develop. In his community he is recognized as a responsible member of the staff of the company, in fact, in many cases, the section foreman is the Canadian Pacific as far as his neighbours are concerned. Upon him devolves not only the responsibility of his job but representation of his company and it is to the credit of the sectionmen and section foremen throughout the service that their relations with the public are uniformly at a high level.

Promotion, in the maintenance of way branch, leads from sectionman to section foreman. From the section foreman who show themselves able to handle larger gangs the extra-gang foremen are promoted, that office leading to roadmaster and B&B master in the case of the more efficient as openings occur.

YOUR DONATION MAY SAVE A LIFE!

The use of modern health appliances and many other costly but vitally necessary items cannot be provided out of the Hospital's fixed allowances for needy patients.

Your donation makes sure that no child seeking a normal chance for health or escape from deformity will ever knock in vain at the door of this institution.

And it makes sure that no needed expense is spared when a little patient's future depends on treatment and attention costing more than is contemplated by the fixed grants made by Provincial and Municipal Governments. Remember, over 400 of our 420 beds are in Public Wards.

The Hospital receives no support from the Toronto Federation for Community Service because patients are accepted from all parts of the Province.

ANNUAL MINISTERIAL PICNIC

The annual picnic of Centre Hastings Ministerial Association was held at the beautiful cottage of Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Scott, at Crow's Landing, Stoney Lake, last Thursday. There were forty-four ministers, their wives and children present. The meals were served in cafeteria style in the cottage and everyone enjoyed all the good things that the baskets contained. Each person present was taken for a motor trip around the islands of the lake. At the close of the gathering, Rev. Canon Swayne, of Bonarlaw, the President of the Organization, extended to Mr. and Mrs. Scott the thanks of those present for the very fine and successful picnic.

"NO PARKING" SIGNS UP

Subsequent to a resolution passed by the Village Council some weeks ago, "No Parking" signs were erected on the south side of Mill St., on Tuesday. This action was taken by the Council to relieve the congestion of traffic which prevails on the street on nights that the stores are open. The new regulations call for no parking from six o'clock p.m. until seven o'clock a.m., and Chief Constable S. Eggleston has asked us to state that the law will be strictly enforced. Motorists should take notice of the new regulations and see that they are obeyed.

AMATEUR SHOW WINNERS AT TWEED

Tweed auditorium was jammed to capacity on Saturday evening as an amateur show was held in conjunction with the Old Home Week celebration. Winners in the junior section were: Mary Bongard and Jean Watson, Belleville; Geraldine Farrar, Trenton, and Hugh Phillips, Tweed. In the senior division, first award went to the Senior Male Quartette, from Trenton; second to Ken Dougan, also of Trenton, and third prize went to Charles Cummings, of Marmora. Jimmy Armstrong represented Stirling in the competition.

NOMINEES FOR TORY LEADERSHIP

Nominated at the Conservative convention on Wednesday night for the leadership of the Conservative party, in succession to Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, were:

Hon. Dr. Robert J. Manion, 56, Postmaster-General in Meighen Government, 1926; Minister of Railways and Canals, Bennett Government, 1930.

Hon. J. Earl Lawson, 46, Minister of National Revenue in Bennett Government, 1935.

Joseph H. Harris, M.P., 50, a member of the House of Commons for seventeen years.

Denton Massey, 38, member of the House of Commons for Toronto-Greenwood since 1935.

Murdoch MacPherson, 46, Attorney-General in the Anderson Government of Saskatchewan, which was defeated in 1934.

MacMILLAN — MIKEL

A quiet wedding took place at Tabernacle United Church Parsonage at Belleville on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock when Lena M., daughter of Mrs. Mikel and the late J. R. Mikel, became the bride of Mr. Burton H. MacMillan, of Stirling, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert MacMillan, of Huntingdon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. T. McClintock. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, 31 Octavia Street, at which about twenty-five friends and relatives were present.

HASTINGS COUNTY SWINE PRODUCERS

A well attended meeting of farmers was held in the Agricultural Office, Stirling, on Monday evening, July 4, to discuss the organization of the Hastings County Swine Producers' Association. The new Federal, Provincial Bacon Hog Policies were discussed at some length. These policies have been designed to help swine producers in improving the bacon type and feeding qualities of their hogs.

The Executive officers for Hastings County were elected as follows:

President — Albert Caskey, R.R. 2, Madoc.
Vice-President — Kenneth Mumby, Harold.
Secretary — H. L. Fair, Stirling.
Directors — W. Forestel, R.R. 2, Madoc, and Jos. E. Welsh, Shannon-

LAKEFIELD GIRL IS KILLED AS CAR TURNS OVER

Elva Preston, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Preston, Lakefield, was fatally injured and Harlan Coons, 6, also of Lakefield, was badly hurt at the intersection of Highways 7 and 30 within the limits of Havelock Village on Monday afternoon when cars driven by Nelson Coons, 27, of Lakefield, and Mrs. Cecil Baker, of Kingston, collided. It was the second traffic fatality within 24 hours in Havelock. The car driven by Coons and containing his wife and three-year-old daughter, Myrna, in the front seat, and with his sister-in-law, Elva Preston, and his son, Harlan, in the rumble seat, was proceeding east on No. 7 highway when Mrs. Baker's car, in which was also her daughter, Doris, approached northward on the Trent Bridge Road, which is Highway 30 and the two vehicles met at the intersection.

McGEE — MCCARTHY

Peonies, delphinium and roses decorated St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterboro, for the wedding on Saturday of Mabel Jane McCarthy, daughter of Mrs. Edward Barnes, Millbrook, to John Clinton McGee, Port Hope, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clinton McGee, Stirling, Rev. Dr. J. V. Masterson officiating, and Rev. H. J. Farrell, Marmora, and Rev. G. T. Martin, Chesterville, in the sanctuary. The wedding music was played by Miss Veronica Scollard.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. E. H. Barnes, was attended by Miss Isabel McCarthy, Buffalo, as maid of honor, Miss Katharine McCarthy as junior bridesmaid, and Miss Peggy McCarthy and Miss Bernadette McGee as bridesmaids. Mr. Murray McGee, Toronto, was groomsmen, and Mr. R. McDonald, Ottawa, and Mr. Owen McCarthy, Millbrook, the ushers.

The bride wore a redingote robe of Alencon lace over satin with Queen Anne collar, a coronet of pearls and tulle veil extending to the end of her long train. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley.

Her maid-of-honor was frocked in coral blush net over taffeta and the junior bridesmaid wore aquamarine net over taffeta. The bridesmaids wore costumes combining the coral blush and aquamarine tones and each wore a shoulder-length veil in halo effect and carried old-fashioned nosegays. Little Mary Abigail McCarthy in a floor-length frock of coral blush net with aquamarine and coral velvet ribbon trimming and matching headband, was her aunt's flower girl and carried a quaint nosegay.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, who received in a burgundy triple sheer gown with white accessories and corsage of pink roses. Mrs. McGee, mother of the bridegroom, assisted in a flowered crystal sheer gown with white accessories and Tailsman roses bouquet.

Later Mr. and Mrs. McGee left for a trip in Northern Ontario, the bride travelling in a petunia suit of triple sheer with white and aquamarine hat and accessories. They will reside in Port Hope.

HAVELOCK MAN IS KILLED BY MOTOR CAR

Thomas Anderson, 69, single and a pensioned railway employee, who resided just east of Havelock, was instantly killed at 9.25 o'clock on Sunday evening, when he was hit by a motor car driven by Russell West, 17, of Stirling, as he was crossing Highway No. 7.

Anderson had walked along the sidewalk at the north side of the highway until he came to the end of the walk and was heading across the road to the sidewalk on the other side when the car driven by West crashed into him. He was close to the side of the road when struck. Death was instantaneous, the victim of the crash having both legs broken and suffering severe head injuries.

The accident was investigated by Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith, of Lakefield and Traffic Officers Lloyd McClure and Gordon Broughton, of Peterboro, and J. H. Hatch, of Marmora, and West was held and brought to Peterboro early Monday morning. There were five passengers in his car.

West, not the owner, was driving a 1937 car bearing a Missouri license. He said that there was a car approaching him at the time of the accident, also one following. The right front headlight of the car was smashed and the top of the hood was badly bent. The driver of the car was arraigned

MacKENZIE — LIVINGSTONE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. Dr. Yeaple, at Lake Avenue Baptist Church, Rochester, N. Y., at 3 p.m. on Thursday, June 30th, 1938, when Marion Livingstone, 968 St. Paul St., Rochester, only daughter of James Alfred Livingstone, Stirling, Ontario, became the bride of Mr. Samuel MacKenzie, 23 White Street, Rochester, son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. MacKenzie, of Toronto, Ont.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. C. A. Neitz, looked charming in a gown of white organdy with corsage of tea roses delphiniums and baby tears, and wearing the groom's gift, a beautiful yellow gold wrist watch. Miss Marjorie MacKenzie, of Rochester, as maid of honour, was attired in a gown of aquamarine crepe with corsage of gladioli, delphiniums and baby tears. Mr. James Livingstone, brother of the bride, attended the groom as best man.

A reception was held later at the groom's home, where his mother received the guests wearing a gown of white silk with blue jacket.

Following the reception the happy couple left for a motor trip to Stirling, Ont., where they will be the guests of the bride's father, Mr. Alfred Livingstone. The bride travelled in a gray ensemble with matching accessories. Upon their return they will reside in Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Farquharson, of Vancouver, B.C., spent a few days of last week with Mr. R. C. Ketcheson. Mrs. Casson, Sr., of Campbellford spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Stephens.

Mrs. Annie Perle returned to the home of her daughter at Wooler after spending the past week with her grandson, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kerr. Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Stephens and Mrs. Casson motored to Bowmanville to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Sauch. Mr. Allan Dummitt returned home with them to spend his holidays here.

Mr. and Mrs. James Briggs and family, of Toronto, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. S. Hobbs. The children are remaining for the holidays.

(Too late for last week)
The soft refreshing rain of Saturday afternoon settled the dust and refreshed the gardens for a little while. Mr. and Mrs. Burke Stephens spent Friday in Bowmanville. Mr. and Mrs. Lebauck and Allan Dummitt accompanied them home for the week-end. Several from here attended the shower for Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fry at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linn, on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kerr attended the shower for Mr. and Mrs. E. Rowe at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Kerr on Wednesday evening.

Miss Elsie Bennett is sporting a new 1938 Plymouth.

Mrs. Lamont, of Toronto, returned to her home on Monday after visiting with Mrs. Cole for the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wannamaker and Shirley spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Wallace.

Miss Leafa Linn has successfully passed her R. N. exams and graduated at Peterboro last Monday evening. We extend our heartfelt congratulations to Miss Linn.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Atkinson celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary quietly at their home on Saturday.

AGRICULTURAL SERVICE TO BE HONOURED

The Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies has announced through the secretary, J. A. Carroll, that each Agricultural Society may recommend one person per year to the District Director for an agricultural service diploma. The district director will make any investigation deemed necessary and if satisfied will forward the recommendation to the Secretary of the Association, who will fill in the names of the recipient and the Society making the award, and also place the stamp of the Ontario Association on the gold seal of the diploma. The diploma is about fourteen inches by ten inches in size.

The idea is to honour men who have given unstintingly of their time and ability in the furtherance of agricultural projects in their community with no thought of reward other than the satisfaction of having contributed to the general benefit.

It is stated that the award may go to anyone in the community and need not be confined to a member of an agricultural society.

MAIL COURIERS TO HOLD PICNIC AT WELLINGTON

The Rural Mail Couriers Association of South Hastings, Prince Edward-Lennox is holding a picnic at Wellington on Sunday, July 17th. This is the second annual picnic, the first having been held last year at Oak Lake. Five hundred may attend the event. There is to be a basket lunch at noon with a program of sports commencing at 1.30, over 100 prizes being offered. Special attractions include swimming races, tug-of-war and a baby show. All mail couriers and their families are invited.

SUMMER

(Written by Don Barton, age 11, pupil of Miss Margaret Wright, S.S. No. 12, Rawdon).

Summer is here and spring is gone! The robin sings no merry song. He has hungry little ones to feed — The pleasures he doth no longer heed. But he is proud as a robin can be Of the featherless nestlings in the tree.

The green grass is growing dry and brown As the hot sun pours its heat-flood down.

The wee sorrowing brook is dwindling fast.

TOURNAMENT BY LOCAL CLUB

EIGHTEEN RINKS TAKE PART — LOCKE'S RINK, OF CAMPELLFORD, WINS FIRST

The greens of the Stirling Lawn Bowling Club were the scene yesterday afternoon and evening of one of the best tournaments staged by the local club for some time. The event was the annual Mixed Rinks tournament and representatives from practically all the clubs in the surrounding district were present. There were eighteen rinks in the draw, one coming from Brighton, one from Norwood, one from Havelock, two from Campbellford, two from Kingston, one from Warkworth, three from Belleville, two from Madoc, one from Peterborough and four from Stirling.

The play opened early in the afternoon and from then until early this morning continued without interruption. Three 15-end games were witnessed with some of the games ending in a draw. The competition was governed by Provincial Lawn Bowling rules, with the exception that the "Jack" was placed. Two points were allowed for a win and one for a tie. At the conclusion of play refreshments were served by the ladies of the Stirling Club, following which the winners were announced and the prizes presented. The visiting bowlers were welcomed previous to play commencing by President R. A. Patterson, while the draw was conducted by T. W. Holmes to the satisfaction of all.

The honour of having three wins with the highest score went to a Campbellford rink skipped by P. Locke. Other members of the rink were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brown and Mrs. Locke. The ladies chose silver cups as prizes, while the gentlemen took Ruby glass water sets. The score of the winning rink was 6 points and a plus of 59. The second prize for three wins went to Harry Heagle's rink, of Kingston, with 6 points and a plus of 50. Other members of the rink were Mrs. Heagle and Dr. and Mrs. McBride. Silver cake plates were chosen by the ladies and flower vases with mirrors by the gentlemen.

For two wins the first prize went to a Madoc rink skipped by Jas. Watson, which had five points and a plus of 52. Mrs. R. Beatty, Mrs. Kellar and V. Jack were the other members of the rink. The ladies took silver relish dishes and the gentlemen silver ice tubs and tongs. A Campbellford rink, Mrs. W. Wiggins, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Archer and W. Wiggins, skip, won second prize for two wins with 4 points and a plus of 71. Silver sandwich trays were chosen by the ladies and marmalade jars by the men.

A Belleville rink, Mr. and Mrs. J. Shaw, Mrs. Zeran and Mr. Zeran, skip, won the fifth prize for the high score with one win, 3 points and a plus of 45. The ladies received cushions and the gentlemen Ruby glass candlesticks and candles.

The results of the games were as follows:

In the first game of the first draw, Harper, of Belleville, defeated Whitty of Stirling, 16-14; Watkins, Belleville, defeated Beech, Brighton, 15-9; Heagle of Kingston defeated Patterson, Stirling, 21-9; Bastedo, Stirling, defeated James, Kingston, 12-8; Churchill, Warkworth, defeated McDonald, Peterboro, 11-10.

G. Carleton, Norwood, 18-9; Matheson, Havelock, defeated Carleton, Stirling, 12-10.

In the third game, Heagle, Kingston, defeated Watkins, Belleville, 18-8; Whitty, Stirling, defeated James, Kingston, 20-14; Churchill, Warkworth, defeated Harper, Belleville, 17-12;

ATTEND PICNIC

Among those from Stirling who attended the Travellers' Good Will Picnic held in Cobourg on Wednesday afternoon last were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Macklin, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Waymark.

INSTAL PUMPS

Employees of the S. A. Lister Co., Toronto, are installing the pumps at the new well on the Wm. Fitchett property on Henry Street this week. It is expected that the connection with the water mains will be made some time today.

GOING TO CAMP

Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment leaves for Barriefield on Sunday, July 24th, and will be in camp for nearly two weeks, returning on August 4th. It is expected the usual number of volunteers will go to camp from this district.

CELEBRATE TWELFTH

Stirling and district L.O.L. lodges celebrated the "Glorious Twelfth" by attending the district celebration held in Madoc. The weather was ideal and a large crowd was present. Stirling Citizens' Band filled an engagement at the County Celebration which was held at Shannonville.

ROADWORK TO START

Limited operations on the construction of that part of Highway No. 2 at Gibson's Crossing, east of Belleville, will start in a few days, according to representatives of the Road Builders Limited, contractors. Only a few men will be employed in the laying of an asphalt composition, while definite plans for future work are still vague, it was reported.

BY-ELECTIONS IN FALL

By-elections in the vacant Federal ridings of London and Waterloo South will not be called until autumn, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said following Tuesday's Cabinet council. "I do not think people would want by-elections during July or August," Mr. Mackenzie King said. "Some people seem to think we are going to have a general election this fall," he said jokingly, "and in that event there would be no need for by-elections."

Pressed to say whether there was any basis for reports of a fall election, the Prime Minister replied he had already made his attitude apparent, recalling his statement some months ago that he saw no occasion for an election until the Government had run its full term, and that it desirable the present Parliament could stand until early 1941.

W. A. MEETING

Mrs. W. Maynes and daughters proved themselves ideal hostesses when on Tuesday they entertained the members, with friends, of the Women's Association of St. Paul's United Church.

Mrs. Macklin, presiding, opened the meeting with the theme song and prayer. Roll call was responded to by 23 members. Minutes of previous meeting, also financial report, was read by the Treasurer, Mrs. E. Jackman.

Letters of appreciation for various remembrances was read as follows: Mrs. Geo. Meggison, Mrs. E. A. Hagerman, Mrs. Hugh Morton, Mrs. F. Armstrong, Mr. Arthur Scott and Mr. Chas. Allen.

Visiting Committee reported nine calls for July. All members are asked to call on a shut-in. All business was satisfactorily dealt with. Mrs. C. Wright took over the meeting with the singing of hymn 575, and read the Bible lesson, Psalm 19. Mrs. W. B. Hagerman led in prayer. "Famous Canadian Authors" was given by Mrs. Geo. Meggison, Mrs. W. L. Fox and Mrs. A. Scott. Duet "Only a Smile" was given by Mrs. F. McKee and Mrs. R. A. Patterson. "Why I Believe there is a God" was given as a reading by Mrs. Hagerman. All joined in singing the closing hymn and the repeating of the Mizpah Benediction.

A delicious lunch was served and heartily enjoyed. Mrs. McKee voiced the appreciation of the members to the Hostesses.

MacDonald, Peterboro, defeated Bastedo, Stirling, 25-7; Beech, Brighton, defeated Patterson, Stirling, 18-6.

GLEN ROSS WILL ENTER FINALS

DEFEATED MOUNT PLEASANT IN DECIDING GAME OF SEMI-FINALS 18-8

Glen Ross will furnish the opposition for Springbrook, last year's champions, in the finals of the Rawdon Softball League as the result of their 18 to 8 defeat of Mount Pleasant in the third and deciding game of the semi-finals. The fixture was played on Monday evening on the diamond at the Stirling Agricultural Grounds and drew a large crowd of excited fans. The winners displayed the greater hitting strength while Smith and Pyear, who divided the pitching duties, were backed up by good defensive ball. H. Brown and J. Armstrong, with triples, A. Fraser with a triple and a double, and G. Fraser with a double and a homer, were their extra-base hitters. I. Potts occupied the mound for Mount Pleasant, but was far from being in his best form and was given erratic support by his fielders. C. Potts with a double and Hagerman with a triple, were the only members of the losing team to hit for bases. Armstrong, in centre field for the winners, gave a fine defensive play, capturing a number of hard drives during the game.

Glen Ross opened the last half of the first inning with a barrage of base hits and nine runs had crossed the plate before the side was retired. They were blanked in the second, but scored in the third on four singles and a homer, and three in the fourth on a walk, a single and a pair of doubles. They added one each in the fifth and sixth to bring their total to eighteen.

Mount Pleasant were unable to get anywhere with Smith's offerings until the fourth, when a walk, a single, a triple and a double manufactured three runs. In the fifth they again threatened when Smith gave up two consecutive walks to open the inning. Pyear replaced him and struck out Bedford to relieve the tension but another walk and four singles scored three more runs. They finished their scoring with two in the sixth.

INSTITUTE HELD MEETING

HELD AT HOME OF MRS. R. E. GOULD ON FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. R. E. Gould welcomed the members of the Women's Institute into her home on Friday afternoon last for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. W. C. West, president, occupied the chair. Community singing, led by Mrs. J. J. Wilson, was enjoyed. With the singing of the Institute Ode and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer the meeting was duly opened. The Secretary, Mrs. Bronson, read the minutes and called the roll, with eighteen members responding. Communications consisted of a "Thank you" letter from Mrs. H. Tulloch and the announcement that the achievement day would be July 27th. A number of accounts were ordered paid. The financial statement showed a bank balance of $163.03. A sick Committee was named for two months, consisting of Mrs. Gould and Mrs. A. Gerald. Property Committee will be Mrs. W. C. West, President, and Mrs. T. Cranston, first vice-president. A generous donation was provided toward the local fall fair in the line of prizes for particular lines of work. The list will be published in the local paper at a later date. Mrs. West welcomed the ladies and their families to their cottage at Oak Lake for their next regular meeting, which will be held August 3rd. Supper will be served in the form of a basket picnic. A committee was formed to provide the drinks. Mr. Barragar, Oak Lake, dance hall conductor, addressed the ladies regarding afternoon and mid-night Sunday dancing. A vote was taken, and provincial action was favored.

AGENT ON HOLIDAY

Mr. E. W. Ormiston, local C.N.R. agent, commenced his annual two-weeks' vacation on Monday. He is being relieved by Mr. H. J. Bradley, of Omemee.

MUST PAY COSTS

Ernest Hamilton, 44, and Harry Snarr, both of Stirling, were convicted of the theft of a stove from the premises of the West Huntingdon United Church upon pleas of guilty being accepted in Belleville Police Court on Monday. The pair were given a year's suspended sentence upon the payment of the costs of the proceedings, $15.60 each, and the matter of making restitution. The stove had been sold for junk after having been abandoned in the church driveway. — Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer.

CONVICT TRAIN HERE

The special train conveying prisoners from Kingston Penitentiary to Western Canada passed through here about five-thirty on Tuesday evening. There were 130 prisoners on board who are being transferred, it is alleged, owing to the over-crowded conditions at the Kingston pen. Illness of one of the convicts forced a stop at Hastings and Peterborough, where the crowds of interested sight-seers were kept at a safe distance by members of the R.C.M.P.

HEARING ADJOURNED

A charge of manslaughter against seventeen-year-old Russell West of Stirling, arising out of the death in a traffic accident at Havelock last week of Thomas Anderson, retired C.P.R. conductor, was to have been heard before Magistrate E. A. Gee on Monday morning, but the Crown was not ready to proceed with the preliminary hearing and by consent there was a remand until Wednesday, July 20. West was represented by D. F. Miller and was allowed out on $5,000 bail until next week.

HEDLEY — GUNNING

The marriage took place on Tuesday, July 1st, at 7.30, at St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, of Vera Gunning, daughter of the late Mr. William and Mrs. Gunning, to M. R. Hedley, of Stirling. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. S. McConnell, and the wedding music played by the organist, Mrs. H. H. Alger. The church was prettily decorated by the ladies of the congregation.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her mother. She looked pretty in a pale blue taffeta dress made on princess lines. She wore a small white hat and lace gloves, carrying a bouquet of Talsman roses and baby's breath. She also wore the groom's gift, a necklace.

Mrs. C. Johnston, sister of the bride, as matron of honour, wore a white hat and gown, and carried a nosegay of roses. Mr. Robert Hedley, Brampton, Ontario, brother of the groom, was best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, for the bridal party, other guests including Rev. and Mrs. A. S. McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gordanier, Miss Myrtle Woods and Mrs. C. B. Rollins.

Leaving for a short motor trip to Brockville and other points, the bride wore pink sheer with white accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hedley will reside in Stirling.

FORMER PUBLISHER DIES

Col. John R. Orr, aged about 80, who in 1877 established the North Hastings Review in Madoc before that place was incorporated as a village, died in Toronto on Sunday. Mr. Orr conducted the newspaper until 1912, when he sold out to the late A. H. Watson, first principal of Madoc High School, whose son, James Watson, now carries on the business. Mr. Orr had lately been living in Hollywood, California.

The heavy downpour of rain early this afternoon was welcomed by the farmers of the district as the grain crop was beginning to show the effects of the lack of moisture.

THE BURDEN OF TAXATION

Business throughout the country will hope that the removal of the sales tax from building materials results in stimulating the housing scheme launched by the Federal Government. But there seems to be a feeling that the government might better have adopted a plan whereby the burden of the real estate tax will be lifted. The Midland Free Press, in a recent editorial made the following practical suggestion:

"For ourselves we believe that the government would make much better progress towards putting the dormant building industry to work if it would lift a portion of the real estate tax burden. If the Dominion would assume responsibility for relief, and the Provinces would pay the complete cost of high school education, and social and health services, from ten to fifteen mills could be removed from the tax rate of most municipalities, and it would again be profitable to build and own houses. Then private enterprise would put its own money into construction and we should see a boom such as we have not experienced for many years. The abolition of the sales tax on building materials will be a great help to the industry. Would that it were possible to drop it all along the line."

DRIVERS OR DRIVEN

We still have to learn how to live with the automobile. Both as pedestrians and drivers we are much at the mercy of other drivers. At the wheel, we are also at the mercy of ourselves, when our driving skill is inadequate. And in a sense, we are at the mercy of the machine.

For one thing, many modern motorcars go faster than many modern drivers can think and act. "Cannonball" Baker, professional record-smasher, who has driven more than 3 million miles, often at forced speeds, and who has had only one accident and that when his own car was standing still, says: "The average man's reflexes are not fast enough to handle the top speeds of today's automobiles."

Each driver has a "safe" speed. It is a balance of his personal reflexes against his car's speed. It is a speed that is right for him, given his physiological and mental make-up. For some exceptional drivers this "safe" speed may be high, but for many it is certainly not more than 40 or 45 miles an hour.

But the campaign for highway safety — while it focuses chiefly on eliminating auto deaths and maimings, as, patently, it ought to — has other aspects. For instance, bad conduct on the highways can pump up the blood pressure, perhaps can harden the arteries, and surely can upset the digestion, and with it one's peace of mind.

Here is a driver — and where is he not? — who feels that that car ahead, moving a little slower than his own, must be passed at all costs, that the light must be beaten, that any other driver on the road who seems to violate the rules or infringe on his pride, must be disciplined with inner anger and perhaps with downright discourtesy and cursing. Of course, he may cause no accident. He may leave the death and injury toll where he found it. But the resultant turmoil has a price — and he will pay it, in frayed nerves, in an overworked heart.

Yes, we must not only make the highways safe for others, but we must also make them safe for ourselves. We must learn how to drive with serenity. Otherwise we are not driving the car. It is driving us. — (Rotarian Magazine).

GOOD MEDICAL CARE CONCERNS ALL

Whether social medicine ever comes or not there is a growing realization that some means must be found to secure good medical care for everyone.

At the recent National Conference on Social Work at Seattle, it was estimated that about one out of five families earning less than $2,000 a year pay more than $100 of it for medical treatment. Low standards in food, housing and clothes increased the amount of illness; at the same time, low incomes meant that medical care was less swiftly and less surely available.

These facts deserve consideration, along with the frequent warnings that early diagnosis will prevent illness. A claim that failure to call in a doctor is due to ignorance or stubbornness and not to low income evoked the following comment at the conference mentioned:

"The very poor and the very rich do not have to worry about medical care. The man earning $20.00 to $50.00 a week is denied medical services. He does not want charity and prefers to get along as best he can without asking favours.

"The very rich pay for all they need in the way of family doctors and specialists, hospitals and nursing care. The destitute can claim free care at public hospitals and clinics, charity wards and out-patient departments and the services of a visiting nurse.

"But the man who has managed to keep on paying his way during the depression, or who is able to again after a long period on relief, is not going to beg some doctor for help. He is not going to stand in line at the clinic if there is a stigma attached to it. He would rather take a chance on getting well alone. So the wage-earner does without a doctor as long as he can, perhaps until the nagging cough develops into tuberculosis or the small pain is an incurable cancer. He buys a bottle of patent medicine because it is cheaper than paying both doctor and druggist. He reads the almanac and tries the remedy of the man next door. When he finally goes to the doctor he is scolded for not having come before and then is made miserable because he cannot pay his bill."

In Canada, our relief systems make a feeble effort to provide medical care for the poor, but the social economic consequences of unmet medical needs are devastating — they point to the urging of a national health program.

CURRENT COMMENT

This is the time of year to begin the annual anti-fly campaign and from now on "Swat the Fly" will be the universal slogan. The common fly is a nuisance to good health and well-being of the people. Citizens should screen their houses and particularly food from the flies in order to eliminate the housefly pest.

To attain success there must be co-operation. This being a fact we would suggest that the local merchants organize a Business Men's Association. The individual merchants have difficulties that could be solved by such a body and the buying public would also realize some benefit. The business men should think it over and then act.

It is not too early to plan exhibits for the Stirling Fall Fair to be held in September. The Directors are working on the arrangements and the committee on special prizes is engaged in assembling prizes. With the crops giving promise of being good, it is expected this year's fair will surpass those of the past. Plan now to become a member and be an exhibitor.

Ralph Waldo Emerson once wrote: "Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy." There is more need for this sage philosophy now than when he wrote it before the motor car was invented. The automobile has made many of us into selfish bores. If drivers behaved as "considerately when behind the wheel as they do in the drawing room, the death rate on the highways would soon be sliced to a fraction of its present proportions. Let's have more courtesy, better manners, more sportsmanship on the road!

An amendment to the Criminal Code requires persons possessing revolvers or pistols to register them between March 1st and July 1st, 1939, and periodically every five years thereafter. The law has compelled the registration of all pistols and revolvers since 1934 but from the number of killings that are reported from time to time it is quite evident that there are a great many revolvers in circulation of which the authorities have no knowledge. An amendment to prohibit the sale and carrying of this type of firearm is the only way to put a stop to its use for taking human lives.

More and more it is becoming apparent that ticket-selling rackets are in disfavor with the general public. Within the past few years everybody has been pestered with salesmen selling tickets on everything from radios to washing machines and automobiles in aid of some organization or another. While many of these ticket-selling campaigns have no doubt been successful there has been a gradual increase in the number of those where the sponsors have been left holding the bag for various amounts of money. Persons thinking of trying this racket to raise funds should give it a second thought — the game is played out.

Latest reports from the Western Provinces, particularly in drought areas are that this year will see a good crop, and that this autumn will be the busiest since 1932. A bumper crop in the west will be reflected in increased business for the railways and the farm machinery industry and will do much to make everybody feel better. Following years of drought and hard times reports of a good crop will be received with gladness by citizens of every part of the Dominion and our only hope is that the Western farmers may reap a bountiful harvest.

Barrie Council is the latest to endorse the proposal made by Kitchener and Lindsay to make women who earn over $100 a year subject to the same municipal poll tax as men. The contention is that there should be no more discrimination between the sexes in taxation than there is in giving employment. So far as Stirling is concerned, the adoption of such a law would not make any difference since the authorities have ceased collecting this tax even from the men. However, until such time as the statutes concerning this tax are amended to include the fair sex, they have little cause for worry.

ELECTED AS LEADER OF CONSERVATIVE PARTY

Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, 56, Ottawa surgeon, war veteran, ex-minister of railways and canals, long-time member of Parliament for Fort William, Ont., and a native of Pembroke, Ont., was elected Leader of the Conservative Party on the second ballot on Thursday at the National Conservative convention held in Ottawa. Manion's nearest rival was Murdoch McPherson, 46, native of Grand Anse, Cape Breton Island, adopted son of Saskatchewan which he served as Attorney-General from 1930 to 1934, a war veteran and a lawyer, living in Regina.

TWEED MAN DIES

Buried in a cave-in at the new Scenic Highway east of Ivy Lea, Morris Martin, 29, of Tweed, died in an ambulance en route to hospital at Brockville on Thursday. He was engaged in building a cattle pass beneath the highway when part of the bank collapsed. Several other workers had narrow escapes.

WOOLER MAN IS GYPPE

Provincial Police are in search of two gypsy women, who are alleged to have stolen $70.00 from a man in Wooler late Friday afternoon. The women sought were said to have been traveling in a green-coloured Oldsmobile sedan and after accosting an elderly man in Wooler, relative to telling his fortune, disappeared. Later the man discovered he was short $70.00 police stated. Provincial Constables Wm. McBrien and D. Carruthers, who investigated the Wooler complaint, carried out an extensive all-night search of the highways and by-ways throughout the Central Ontario area but found no traces of their queries.

HERE TOO!

(Winchester Press)

There are still a number of residents in this district who insist on driving in a horse-drawn vehicle at night with no light showing. One of these days there will be a big smash-up with horse, buggy and bodies scattered all over the highway. This will be followed by funerals, an inquest and big newspaper stories — all because somebody neglected to light a lantern. A word of advice to those who drive without lights — the funeral we refer to above may be yours!

WEDDING RINGS FOR MEN

A society for the "Prevention of Married Men Posing as Bachelors" has been formed by the fair sex of Oklahoma City. The object is to enforce a rule that bachelors must wear wedding rings and the fair president of the organization says, "Most of the girls I know don't have much time to waste. We need to know right off whether a man is married or not." This seems to dispose of the old time theory that it is easy to spot them by a somewhat subdued look. — Alliston Herald.

THEY COULD DO IT

We have watched with interest the efforts to the big wigs to get this country out of its financial tangle. We have read and heard of the big dinners and big councils these much-decked ones have sat in at and talked frothy nothings, while every minute they dined and talked the public debt was rolling up at so many thousands per minute.

Why not ask the costly and ineffective big wigs to take a holiday, meanwhile turning the matters of finance over to some preachers' wives we might mention? These ladies have done financing that the big wigs never can do and never will do because driven by the sharp spur of necessity guided by saving common sense. "But," the big wigs reply, this is different. The ladies could not do the job." All we have to say is that we do not see any medals about any public man's neck for brilliant achievement in finance of any sort. The ladies have won out in their sphere whereas the big wigs are conspicuous for their failure. — Exeter Times-Advocate.

THE MEN WHO WILL NOT GO TO WORK

(Simcoe Reformer)

With the arrival of summer and the speeding-up of activities throughout the countryside, one might have thought that the transient problem would be finished until fall. On the contrary we have heard numerous complaints from householders that they are still being bothered by transients. Not only that, but some citizens have given board and lodging to strangers who claimed to have secured work in this vicinity and would pay later, but who failed to do so.

Generally speaking the man who honestly wants work but cannot find it and is without resources, commands our sympathy. But there can be little excuse at this time of year for a man failing to secure work. Any able-bodied man should find employment in the tobacco fields or in hoeing field crops, and failing that, he can at least earn enough to buy meals and a night's lodging by picking berries. The trouble is that quite a few of these men are not anxious to exert themselves to the extent of a day's hard work. It may be that several years of unemployment have softened them up or perhaps they just naturally prefer to beg from door to door rather than spending their time in useful activity. We have seen a number of these gentry around town lately and we have come to believe that it would be a good thing if our town police became more rigorous with them.

The Reformer realizes that local police have had a difficult problem to handle in taking care of the transients. They have implored citizens not to hand out money to them, pointing out that it only made the situation that much more difficult. The police have given meal tickets and lodging to every deserving case, at the same time warning all transients not to loiter about the community. Lack of co-operation on the part of citizens has probably caused them some discouragement. We believe today, however, that the vast majority of householders would give their whole-hearted approval to police action that would rid the town of parasites who will not work.

Friendship Develops

"My Aberdeen boy friend sent me his photo yesterday."
"How does he look?"
"I don't know yet. I haven't had it developed."

Easy One

"Daddy!" exclaimed the little boy.
"One more question, then," sighed the tired father. "Only one."
"How far is it," inquired the tot, "between to and fro?"

Less Expensive Role

Movie Director: "The star wants five hundred pounds for playing the part of an Indian in our new film."
Manager: "Offer him two hundred and fifty. Tell him he's only got to be a half-breed."

According to His Station

Mrs. Berkowitz looked down at her eight-year-old with a disgruntled look. "Throw me down a hunka bread 'n' butter?" she echoed viciously. "Nice language you're using! Why can't you talk like Freddie Bartholomew?"
"Don't be silly, Mom," he rasped. "If I was Freddie Bartholomew, would I be satisfied with a hunka bread 'n' butter?"

More Than He Bargained For

Mr. Miffle was endeavouring one evening to cut up an orange in such a fashion as to represent a pig. After strewing the table with about a dozen peels, he gave up the futile experiment, saying, "Phoebe with the pig! I can't make him at all!"
"Nonsense, honey!" said his wife, pointing to the table. "You have done splendidly! Instead of a pig you have made a litter!"

Defined

A woman entered a bank to make a deposit. She had some bills and checks to deposit, so she procured a deposit slip, which required the listing of bills, specie, and checks. She listed her bills and checks in their respective places, but was in doubt what to list under specie.

After a few moments' thought she wrote after the word specie "Female" and handed in her deposit.

Hm-m!

"Dad, how can guns kick when they have no legs?" asked Bertie.
"Don't ask absurd questions," declared his father.

"Guns haven't any legs, have they?"
"Certainly not."
"Then what's the use of their having breeches?"

The First

"I've struck a wonderful idea. I've arranged to give a man $10,000 on condition that he shall relieve me of all future worries."

"Where are you going to get the $10,000?"
"Ah, that will be his very first worry."

A Real Vacation

"I've just had the most delightful holiday!" related Hutchins. "No regular hours for meals! No extra charge for baths! As much as you want of food, with plenty of fresh fruit! No tips for waiters!"

"Good gracious! Where did you go?"

"I just stayed home!"

One night, two men were driving furiously in a car along a road that ran side by side with a railway track. Suddenly an express train traveling in the opposite direction flashed by them.

Nothing New

When Charlotte Bronte wrote "Jane Eyre," during 1846-47, crooning was not unknown apparently, for when Jane makes some disapproving remarks about a song Rochester has sung, the authoress causes him to observe, "Any other woman would have been melted to the marrow at hearing such stanzas crooned in her praise."

In a Nutshell

He was at his club and he had talked politics for an hour and a half. "That's the situation in a nutshell," declared at the close.

"Good gracious!" exclaimed a member to his neighbour. "What a nut!"

Quite Regular

After the service on Sunday morning the pastor shook hands with the stranger, a young foreigner.

"And are you a regular communicant?" asked the preacher.

"Oh, yes," said the newcomer, "I take the 7:45 every morning!"

Horticultural Note

The minister had illustrated his sermon by saying that a beneficent wisdom knows which of us grows best in sunlight and which of us must have shade. "You know you plant roses in the sunshine," said he; "but if you want your fuchsias to grow, they must be kept in a shady nook."

After his sermon which he trusted would be a comforting one, a woman came up to him, her face glowing with a pleasure that was evidently deep and true. "Oh, Dr. Throckmorton," she said, "I'm so very grateful for that splendid sermon!" And she clasped his hand and shook it warmly.

His heart glowed for a moment, while he wondered what tender place in her heart and life he had touched. But it was only for a minute.

"Yes," she went on, fervently, "I never knew before just what was the matter with my fuchsias!"

Garden Slug Control

Garden slugs are frequently numerous on heavy land where they do considerable damage to beans, lettuce, cabbage, cauliflower and similar crops. Like other pests, slugs can be more easily controlled if remedial measures are applied when the animals are small and few in number. To control them, the infested plants (and the slugs) should be dusted with hydrated lime in the evening when the sun has gone down and feeding has commenced. Care should be taken to cover the upper and lower surfaces of the leaves and the soil immediately surrounding the plants. Hydrated lime is effective only when in the form of a light, dry powder.

Lime becomes hard when subjected to moisture and in that condition is non-injurious to the slugs. For this reason, a few light applications of lime at intervals of three or four days are much more effective than one heavy dose. Another method of control frequently recommended is to spray the infested plants thoroughly with Bordeaux mixture. This material is repellent to slugs, and if the foliage of the plants is completely covered by the mixture, the slugs will confine their attention to weeds growing in the field.

Current Crop Report

Haying operations have been completed over a considerable section of the province, with reports of good quality hay being general. Prospects in Halton county for an alfalfa seed crop are practically negligible and most alfalfa will be cut for hay. Alsike however, is filling out well. A much-improved quality of hay is noted in Haldimand, where grain crops are also doing well. The alsike acreage being left for seed there is much above normal, almost equal to that of 1929. The red clover acreage is also quite large there. Lambton reports its corn crop well-advanced and showing a good growth. Pastures there are in fair shape and there is an abundance of white clover in pasture and on roadsides. The hay crop is lower than expected in Lincoln. Spring grains are going to be short in stalk there and a report of an outbreak of army worm in wheat fields and meadows has been received. Livestock in Middlesex have splendid pasture, though many of the western cattle are heavily-infested with warble flies. Several loads of dairy cattle have been brought in from Eastern Ontario, largely for replacement of herds being T. B. tested in the London district. Tobacco is making rapid growth in the Norfolk area and conditions so far have been ideal, with no hail damage reported. Crops are looking fine in Oxford, with wheat beginning to turn and showing a good stand. Corn and root crops are coming along well under favourable conditions. Earlier varieties of oats are well out in head in Wentworth and are of fair height. The strawberry crop there has been very light and the price firm.

The yield from canning peas will be below average in Hastings. There is a much higher percentage of clover this year than last in the Muskoka and Parry Sound District. Prince Edward county enjoyed rains which were badly needed, in fact most of Eastern Ontario profited by an abundance of moisture which fell two days in early July. The strawberry crop in Lennox and Addington dropped off very short at the last, with prices holding around 10 cents per box. Prospects for peas in that county do not look too good owing to dry weather. The hay crop in Renfrew was the heaviest on record, alfalfa and red clover on many farms running from 3-4 tons per acre. Two heavy rains greatly revived crops of spring grains on light fields and heavy clay, where the crops were suffering for lack of moisture.

Poultry

"To avoid possible congestion on the poultry market during the present year it is advisable that poultry producers should market a portion of their chickens at between three and five pounds dressed weight and take particular care to see that they can be exported if necessary."

This was the conclusion arrived at by a widely representative meeting convened under the auspices of the Poultry Industries Committee of Ontario to consider steps to be taken to handle the 1938 crop of dressed poultry. Last year the American market took upwards of six million pounds of Canadian poultry. This year it appears that this amount will be very materially curtailed on account of lower prices.

Notwithstanding the lower prices on the American market this year, a good deal of confidence was expressed that, with the small stocks of poultry in storage this year and the favourable outlook on the British market, there is an outlet to take care of all the well finished poultry Canadian producers have to offer. Canadian chicken, as result of previous exports, is in good demand on the British market and prices there are higher than they have been for many years.

To bring the best prices poultry has to be well fleshed and fattened to the point of grading Milkfed A or Milkfed B. It was pointed out that a substantial premium is offered by the trade for well finished chickens. With feed costing less this season it appears that it will be more profitable than ever for producers to properly finish their chickens.

The best demand on the export market is for a medium weight chicken. It was felt that it would be advisable to market as many cockerels as possible at a dressed weight of three to five pounds. Producers present at the meeting said this could be done with good finish on the birds, by keeping them on full feed until they reached the desired weight.

Translated in terms of the individual producer's operations, the marketing of a certain percentage of his chickens at export weights is a form of insurance of the balance of his crop.

Gather Eggs Often

Eggs should be gathered at least twice a day, and three times daily is better during hot weather. The time of one gathering should be just before dark or as near to it as possible. This last gathering may not produce a great number of eggs, but since the broody hens will commonly search out the nest containing eggs after the day's laying has ceased, failure to gather late in the day is a common source of distinct deterioration. Each gathering should be placed in the coolest part of the cellar if no other cool spot is available, as soon as gathered. Eggs should not be put in cartons or cases immediately if this can be avoided. The ideal container for cooling eggs is a wire tray.

MOUNT PLEASANT

W. M. S. Entertain

On Wednesday, July 6th, Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, Women's Missionary Society entertained the members of the Sunbeam Mission Band with their leader and several mothers and babies and young children of the community. Over sixty were in attendance for this service. The service opened with quiet music played by Mrs. Ross Hoad. The president, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, presided, and based the "Call to Worship" on "Loving the children of every nation". All joined in a hymn, followed by prayer.

All were heartily welcomed to the service and fifteen members answered roll call. Mrs. Kenneth Weaver read the June minutes and the treasurer reported $5.22 for June and over forty-eight dollars remitted to Presbyterian Treasurer. The August meeting will be in charge of the Temperance Secretary and the W.M.S. will have charge of the service at the church on July 24th. It is hoped to have some quilts ready to complete the end of the month. Miss Marion Phillips, president of the Mission Band then presided and Miss Marion Rose presided at the piano. All joined in a hymn, "Take time to be Holy" and prayer. Miss Anna Sharp read the Bible lesson and Miss Vera McAdam outlined the worship story "Seventy Times Seven". Miss Gladys Summers read the minutes and called the roll of membership. Misses Ruth Rose and Lois Weaver sang a vocal number, with Mrs. Kenneth Weaver as accompanist. Ross and Ralph Jeffs contributed a piano duet. A splendid missionary alphabet was given by Marion Rose, Marion Phillips, Gladys Hay, Irene Calvert, Lois Weaver, Ruth Rose, Ross and Ralph Jeffs. Misses Irene Calvert, Joyce Johnson and Marion Johnson sang a number with Miss Gladys Summers taking the solo part and Miss Frances McKeown as accompanist. Mrs. Cyrus Summers outlined the study story on "Korea" dealing with costumes, a trip of one of the Missionaries, and outlining their Sunday school. In Korea the Christians put first things first. Two letters written by Korean girls were read by Miss Helen Johnson and Miss Gladys Hay. Miss Lois McAdam sang "Sunshine Maker," with her sister, Vera, as accompanist. The offering was gathered by Jack Rose and Dave Calvert and the Mission Band received $1.46 and the W.M.S. $5.75. A vote of thanks was tendered the Band for the splendid programme. Pictures were taken of the group and the members of the W.M.S. served an appetizing lunch topped off with lemonade. Since the meeting the Treasurer of the Band remitted nineteen dollars to the Presbyterian Treasurer.

Several attended the Orange sermon at Wellmans United Church on Sunday evening when the Orange members occupied the centre seats and Rev. J. E. Beckel gave the address.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon McMullen, Sidney, Messrs Percy White and Norman Holmes, Rednersville visited Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White on Sunday.

On Sunday afternoon at Mount Pleasant, Miss Vera McAdam rendered a vocal selection and Rev. Beckel preached his last sermon before taking his month's holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Series, Ivan, Norma and Mae, of Salem, visited Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sine on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rosebush, Stirling, Miss Esther Cummings, Bisbee, Arizona, visited Mrs. Frank Smith and Mr. J. A. MacMurchy on Thursday.

Ira David and Bride Honoured
On Wednesday evening, July 6th, over two hundred relatives and friends gathered at Mount Pleasant Hall to honour Mr. Ira David and his bride, formerly Miss Mona Barron, of Bethel.

Rev. J. E. Beckel was master of ceremonies, welcoming the bride to Mount Pleasant. The opening number on the programme was a guitar solo by Don Spencer. Miss Eva Robertson of Uxbridge contributed a piano solo. Mrs. Percy Hubbel and Miss Vera McAdam contributed a duet with Miss Frances McKeown as pianist. Mrs. Percy MacMullen read "Amenda's Wedding." Ross and Ralph Jeffs rendered a piano duet and were tendered an encore. Miss Marion Rose read "A Recipe for Preserving Love." Misses Ruth Rose and Lois Weaver sang "Little Old Cathedral in the Pines," with Mrs. Kenneth Weaver as accompanist. At this juncture Ira and Mona were given seats of honour and Mr. Willie Jeffs read the following address:

Mount Pleasant,
July 6th, 1938

Dear Ira and Mona—
Once again shy Cupid has thrown a dart, so here we are, your friends and neighbours, out to celebrate the victory.

We rejoice tonight over this wedding bringing to our community a bride who is held in high regard by all who know her. As for you, Ira, we have known you since earliest childhood, and have always found you four-square both in business and pleasure.

We are sincerely happy that you are to make Mount Pleasant your continued home. You will not always find life's sea calm, for many will be the troubles that arise, but may God's own hand guide your ship to the harbour of success and happiness.

Tonight we offer our best wishes and congratulations together with this gift and may each link that forms this chain of friendship serve to bind you and we your friends, closer together, is the wish of your friends at Mount Pleasant and surrounding community.

Mr. John Coggins made the presentation of an upholstered studio couch. Both Ira and Mona graciously replied, thanking their friends for sponsoring this event and inviting one and all to visit them in their home. All joined in singing "They are Jolly Good Fellows". A dainty lunch was served at the close and all wished the newlyweds much happiness on their matrimonial voyage.

Hikers Prepare for Rockies' Sky-Line Trails

INVADEING the domain of the mountain goats, adventure-loving Canadians and Americans will tramp the Sky-Line Trail in the Yoho Valley district of the Canadian Rockies this summer from August 5 to 8. The Sky-Line Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies have a unique organization. It is open to the world at large. The only qualifications are a love of beauty, a sturdy pair of boots, and the will to leave the main roads for the undiscovered charms of the back country.

Indications are that a gay band of adventurers will invade the beautiful Yoho Valley this summer from Banff Springs Hotel, Chateau Lake Louise and the several attractive Canadian Pacific chalet-bungalow camps in the Canadian Rockies. From one central camp spectacularly situated half way between Yoho Lodge and Emerald Lake north of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the hikers will explore along the high line, visit the fossil beds on the slopes of Mount Burgess, inspect the snowy moraine of the Yoho Glacier and pick flowers in the bird-haunted alpine meadows of Little Yoho Valley. The district has much to offer. The hikers will have opportunities to fish for fighting mountain trout, to hunt big game with camera, to get away from the ordinary humdrum for four glorious days of mountain life.

This type of holiday, so unusual and yet so inexpensive because of the organization formed by hiking enthusiasts, is attracting more people every year. The secretary-treasurer, J. Murray Gibbon, Windsor Station, Montreal, reports that the number of inquiries already received indicates that there will be a record turn-out of old and new members this year. The picture layout shows highlights of a typical hike.

Several attended the Orange sermon at Wellmans United Church on Sunday evening when the Orange members occupied the centre seats and Rev. J. E. Beckel gave the address.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon McMullen, Sidney, Messrs Percy White and Norman Holmes, Rednersville visited Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White on Sunday.

JUDGMENT OF COUNTY COUNCILS IS SOUND

The judgment of the majority of County Councils in Ontario in supporting the Live Stock Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in its efforts to have every county in Ontario made a T.B. restricted area for cattle has proven sound in view of the recent action taken by the United States Department of Agriculture governing cattle being shipped to that country.

These regulations in substance state all Canadian cattle being exported to the U.S.A. other than those for immediate slaughter, must have a qualified veterinarian's certificate showing they have been tested within 30 days of date of shipment and found free of bovine tuberculosis. This, however does not apply to cattle exported directly from an accredited area. It means that a veterinarian's certificate is not required for cattle in the Ontario counties already tested and the owners will be able to export freely.

The reason given by American officials for the new law is that practically all United States cattle are tested and they wish to maintain this status and keep T.B. out of their herds.

This new ruling will probably require the testing of at least 100,000 Canadian cattle annually sent to the U.S. for feeding purposes.

MADOC JUNCTION

On Wednesday afternoon, July 6th, the ladies of the local W.M.S. and W.A. entertained several auxiliaries. The church presented a pleasing appearance with a profusion of flowers and gay potted plants. The President of Eggleton W.M.S., Mrs. Geo. Pidgeon, welcomed the guests and the following programme was presented: opening hymn, "Break Thou the Bread of Life," followed by prayer by Mrs. J. Wilson, of Stirling. The Scripture lesson, Psalm 145, was read by Mrs. Clarence Fitchett. "Thoughts on Praying" was given by Mrs. Foster Wilson of West Huntingdon. A solo "Father in Heaven" was sweetly sung by Mrs. Don Rose, of Holloway. Miss M. Currie of Stirling then favoured with a solo "In the Secret of His Promise." Hymn "All for Jesus was then sung and Mrs. Warren Harlow read a letter from Mrs. Dr. Hayward, of China. Mrs. Hayward spoke of her interest in our church and society as both her parents attended Eggleton church in their childhood days. Mrs. Andrews was then called on to sing and she spoke of the joy it had always been to see the younger W.M.S. women making such a success in all their undertakings when they were so few in number and she expressed her feelings in the following poem:

I love a little church house
On a lovely little hill,
I love a little school house
With a flowering window sill.
I love a little white house
That stands near by,
I love them all so dearly
And I'll tell you why.
Because the little church house
Is a beacon on the hill,
Because the little school house
Is a guide post, if you will;
Because the little church house
That rests upon the sod
Is another of the builders
That keeps building folks for God.

Mrs. Andrews, a former President of the Society, then sang by request, "Can the World See Jesus in You?" The special speaker for the day, Mrs. E. Munro, President of Stirling Society, was called and delivered a very fine address, "Is Youth interested in Missions today, and if not, why not?"

No representative was present from Marsh Hill, one of their members being very ill and passing away the same night in the Belleville Hospital. Rev. W. R. Tristram gave a few remarks on the hymn which had previously been sung. The offering was then taken and the meeting was closed with the Mizpah Benediction. The following ladies, all charter members, were given seats at the front of the church at little tables adorned with flowers and a silver tea service at each, where they poured tea for the visitors — Mrs. William Fitchett and Mrs. Arthur Members, Stirling, and Mrs. Geo. Cook, West Huntingdon. Three popular young ladies served the guests — Misses Dorothy Pidgeon, Marion McMullen and Lenora Stapley. Stirling auxiliary was especially well represented at the meeting, there being twenty members in attendance from that branch.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Harlow, Messrs. Gordon Wilson and Bill McMullen, and the Misses Helen and Marion McMullen attended the shower for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kelley at Darford on Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown, of Toronto, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McMullen. Several from here attended the celebration of the Glorious Twelfth in Ma-

MRS. GARDINER MITTS

After an illness of three weeks' duration, Mrs. Gardiner Mitts, late residence in the 7th concession of the township of Sidney, passed away in the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday.

The late Mrs. Mitts was born 75 years ago at Round Lake in the township of Belmont, county of Peterborough. Prior to her marriage she was Miss Ellen Holcomb, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holcomb. For some years she resided at Ivanhoe and for the past 24 years she made her home on the 7th concession of the township of Sidney. She was most highly esteemed in the community and was a faithful member of the Marsh Hill United Church.

Surviving to mourn her loss are her husband, Mr. Gardiner Mitts; two daughters, Mrs. James Dettlor, of the 4th Concession of Sidney township; and Mrs. Stanley Prest of Ivanhoe; one son, Mr. Berson G. Mitts, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Annie Wilde, of California; and Mrs. Mina Wilde, of Campbellford; one brother, Mr. J. W. Holcomb, of Havelock, Ont.

The funeral took place from the family residence on Friday afternoon, to Marsh Hill United Church, where service was conducted by the pastor of the circuit, Rev. E. M. Cooke. Interment was made in White Lake Cemetery. The bearers were Messrs B. Bleeker, C. Prest, E. Horton, B. Finkle, J. Frederick and R. Vanderwater.

TYENDINAGA FARMER FOUND DEAD IN BARN

Robert Henry, 55-year-old Tyendinaga farmer, was found dead in his barn late Monday evening. Chief Coroner Dr. J. J. Robertson declared no inquest was deemed necessary. The late Mr. Henry who resided on the second concession of Tyendinaga Township, a few miles north of Deseronto, was reported to have been dependent of late and it was during one of his despondent spells that he is supposed to have taken his own life, Coroner Dr. Robertson announced.

IVANHOE

Master Ray Burns, Madoc, and Raymond Downey, of White Lake, have been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Kilpatrick.

Mr. Ralph Ackerman, of Prince Edward is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palmer.

A large number from here attended the funeral of the late Gardiner Mitts, of Holloway, on Friday. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the Ivanhoe parsonage recently when the congregation of Beulah United Church gathered to honour their pastor, Rev. H. H. Lackey, his mother, Mrs. James Lackey, and sister, Miss Mary Lackey, before their departure to their new charge at Enniskillen. During the evening Mrs. Lackey was presented with a black purse and white sash scarf from the Women's Bible Class. The following address was read by Mrs. Clifford Mitts:

Dear Mrs. Lackey,—
We as a Sunday School Class wish to take this opportunity of showing our appreciation for your faithfulness to our class. We have always found you willing to help in every way you could and always doing your share and more to further the Christian work in the neighborhood. Now as the time draws near for your departure from our midst, we realize that there will be a gap in the community that your going has left. Again as a slight token of our appreciation and friendship we ask you to accept this small token.

Sincerely yours,
The Women's Bible Class

Mrs. Lackey made a suitable reply, thanking the ladies for their kindness.

Miss M. Mutton then read the following address to Mary and she was presented with a set of leather book-ends —
Dear Mary,

Although you have not been with us for some time, yet we feel that your home has been at Ivanhoe, and we are very much pleased that you can be present tonight. Your cheerful, happy disposition has been an outstanding characteristic remarked and appreciated by all. As a little token of remembrance and affection we ask you to accept this gift. Signed on behalf of all your Beulah friends—
Mary Clement, Marion Mutton, Sidmer Reid and E. Rollins.

Mr. Geo. Wood was called on to read the following address to Mr. Lackey and Frank Palmer presented him with an electric lamp:

Dear Mr. Lackey—
We realize with many regrets that you are soon to depart from our midst and we are taking this opportunity of spending a social time with you and to bid you farewell. The Y. P. Union will never forget that you have always been ready to help them and lead them. You have given freely of your time, especially when you so willingly took us in your car to the Rallies and Conventions of the Young People's Union. We wish to show our appreciation and thanks, but our sentiments cannot be expressed in words. The best wishes of the Church and Young

By Luke Short

Seventh Instalment

Synopsis

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Single Shot. Both are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train, which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action foils a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff tells Dave he is not wanted. Quinn defends Dave but Dave and Rosy go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by nesters and involved in a claim dispute. Suddenly a shot from the darkness topples Dave from his horse. Rosy fires and kills the unknown assailant and they rush to the ranch to treat Dave's severe scalp wound. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands — a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to deliver a corpse to the sheriff and see the town banker.

Dave slapped his knee. "Then that's the hombre! He's the only man we know that wants both our spread and your mine. He's the only jasper that we know of."

"Where is he now?" Rosy cut in.

"Gone," Hammond said. "He took the morning train out. He come in here around seven o'clock, about ten minutes before the train went out, and made me an offer for the mine. Said he just came on a hunch."

Rosy broke in. "What did he look like?"

Hammond thought a moment before replying. "Short, dark. Got a thin face and dark eyes. Wears dark city clothes. Got a funny habit of lookin' at your tie or your collar. Don't weigh more'n a hundred and thirty."

Rosy rammed his hands in his pockets and paced the floor, smoking furiously. Suddenly, he turned on Hammond and Dave.

"And he'll be back," Rosy said decisively. "If I got this figured out right. While he thinks you and Dave are fightin' mad and when everything looks hopeless. He'll be back and he'll be back with cash!"

Hammond looked around on a side table, then asked Dorsey:

"Get my pipe, will you honey?"

Dorsey went to the closet and opened the door. Hammond's clothes were inside and Dorsey fumbled around in his coat pocket. Rosy idly noted that Hammond wore half-boots, the tracks of which could not possibly jibe with the track he had seen up by the lake. And Hammond was smoking a pipe too, not tailor-made cigarettes.

"And that ain't all," Rosy said, still pacing the floor. "How could Crowell have been around these parts and kept hidden long enough to drill them holes for the dynamite? There was lots of them, and in hard rock."

"He couldn't," Hammond said.

Rosy looked at him a long time. "That means that Crowell ain't done the dynamitin' at all. It was done by some one he hired, some understrappers that could travel around in this country and not be noticed much."

Rosy paused in his pacing and leaned on the bed.

"Gents, we've walked into something that'll take a lot of blowin' up. I aim to start right now. There's tracks up there at that lake. I'm hittin' for the lake."

Dave thought a moment. "There's no reason why we shouldn't split up."

They separated. Rosy headed back to town. Another horseman was looking at the crowd and as Rosy pulled away, he saw the man pull his horse and head for the road toward Single Shot.

They took the road at about the same time. The stranger was a small man, mounted on a big roan gelding that made him look like a wizened, monkey-faced little jockey. He had a great sandy mustache that was generously shot with gray.

"Howdy," he greeted Rosy.

"Dave Turner's new boss, ain't you?"

Rosy nodded.

"I'm Laredo Jackson. Boardman's foreman. We're neighbours." They shook hands. Jackson scowled. "That is a coyote's trick. Who done it?"

"You might's well make a guess," Rosy said carefully. "Yours is as good as the next one."

"My guess ain't fit to speak," Jackson answered.

Rosy looked at him, secret amusement in his eyes. Here was probably some crank of an old cowpoke that had a pet solution for every crime.

They rode on in silence.

"You said back there a ways you had a guess as to what's behind all this. Mind tellin' me? I'm about as interested in this as you are," Rosy said finally.

"Mind tellin' you? You won't be here very long before you begin guessin' the same thing. I'm one of those hombres that's careful with his guesses."

When they reached the Mile High, Jackson reined up. "Have a drink?"

Rosy shook his head. "I've got some business. Later, if I see you around."

"Sure. I'm gittin' drunk. You'll see me all right, but if I can't see you and I don't remember it, Boardman wanted me to ask Turner for the loan of a man day after tomorrow."

He thought he saw a smile start on the smaller man's face, then disappear. Jackson nodded and swung off his horse. Rosy watched him dismount, stretch and swagger into the Mile High. Rosy urged his horse on thoughtfully. He swung down before the Free Throw. He hadn't seen Quinn for a while. Maybe the gambler would have supper with him.

As he shouldered he saw that the gambling was slack, but there was a small crowd around Quinn's table. He saw Rosy and motioned him over.

"Can Winters afford to lose a thousand dollars at poker?" he asked irrelevantly. Rosy looked quickly at him, wondering what he was driving at.

"No," he answered.

Quinn drew an envelope from his pocket and handed it to Rosy, who could feel the limpness of well-worn bills.

"Keep it," Quinn said.

Rosy looked at him. "It's yours. If Winters can't take care of himself he shouldn't gamble."

Quinn laughed quietly. "Be sensible man. That money wasn't honestly come by."

"You mean you used a cold deck?" Rosy asked slowly.

Quinn nodded. "I figured he could not afford to lose it. You see I'd heard about his wife."

Rosy didn't comment.

"I used marked cards," Quinn went on casually. "I figured I'd clean him and then talk to you. If he could afford it, all right. I'd let him win it back and then play him on the level. If he couldn't, it went back to his wife. It's better than lettin' him lose it at the other saloon, isn't it?"

"I reckon," Rosy said.

"Ever since I got into town two weeks ago," Quinn continued, "Winters has been ridin' me. I reckon he thought I was a tin-horn." He laughed. "He's wasted a lot of money findin' out I wasn't."

"How'll you get it back to Dave? He won't take it."

Quinn frowned in thought. He drew a clean slip of paper from his pocket and wrote on it. Finished, he handed it to Rosy, who said:

"Dick Turner staked me once when I didn't have a dime. It's taken twenty-five years to pay it back. Here it is. I'm hiding, but the munny's clean. Good luck."

a friend."

Quinn took the paper, slipped it in the envelope with the money and then addressed the envelope to Mrs. Ted Winters.

"They can't question that," Quinn said.

Rosy nodded. "When did Winters lose it?"

"Last night, early. He came in late in the afternoon and wouldn't play with the house men. I'm dealin' faro, but when things are slack I can sit in on a poker game. He waited for me."

"Early last night, you say? What time did he leave?"

"Eight-thirty or so."

"Uh-huh. Why?" Quinn looked at him.

"Nothin'."

Quinn had to be back at the faro table at seven-thirty, so Rosy left him and walked up the street to the hotel which was three doors past the Mile High. He engaged a room, went upstairs and washed. Winters kept forcing himself into his mind. If Winters could lose a thousand at poker, where was he getting the money? He couldn't get it from Mary's share of the ranch.

He left the room. As he was going down the stairs he met the same strange still-eyed man that had come in the restaurant.

Was this jasper following him? He dismissed it with a shrug.

Downstairs, he inquired of the clerk: "Anyone by the name of Crowell registered here?"

"A. J. Crowell? No, he left this mornin'."

Outside, he decided to look in the Mile High to see if Jackson was in a talkative mood.

Once through the swinging doors, the rank smell of alcohol and cheap tobacco struck him in the face like a thick, miasmic fog. A glance around told Rosy that here was where the hard-cases of the town and surrounding country hung out. In one glance he took in the faro and monte tables and finally the bar. He grinned.

Planted smack in dead center of the bar was Laredo Jackson, five feet of elbow room on each side of him. The bartenders were eyeing him with silent disapproval.

Laredo was facing the bar and mirror and saw Rosy's reflection in it as the younger man joined him.

"Two whiskeys," he said to the bartender without turning his head. Then to Rosy: "How's things, Red?"

"Good," Rosy said the customers watching them. "Don't you like the company or don't they like you?" he asked.

Laredo turned and faced the room, hoisting his elbows on the bar.

"I got throwed out of this stinkin' potfhole five years ago," he announced loudly. "I git drunk once a week here hopin' somebody'll try it again."

Rosy decided it was useless to try and talk with him. The little foreman was well on his way to being drunk now. Out of courtesy Rosy bought a round, examining the room behind him in the bar mirror. As he was watching, he saw the swinging door open in the same man Rosy had seen watching him in the Free Throw, the restaurant and the hotel came in.

He leaned over to Laredo. "Know that jasper that just came in?"

Laredo turned, and with difficulty singled out the man. Then he turned and grinned. "Sure I know him," he said loudly. "He's an understrapper for a coyote named Sayres."

"Easy," Rosy warned in a low voice. "Some of these hard-cases have got ears."

The talk at the bar dribbled off into silence, and the customers stared at the two.

"Wally Sayres, this jasper's boss —" Laredo began loudly.

"Let's go over to the Free Throw," Rosy said easily.

"Jerry Boardman made Wally Sayres a present of fifty head of Three B steers last year," Laredo continued, his voice booming through the room. "They call it makin' a present in this country when you turn your back."

Rosy half turned. He saw the stocky man walking slowly toward the bar. The man stopped some ten feet from the bar, feet planted solidly.

"What was you sayin' about Sayres?" he asked.

Laredo spat precisely. "What was I sayin' about Sayres? Why nothin' much, 'cept he's the forkedest jasper west, east, north, south or in the middle of the Rio Grande."

Rosy swiftly calculated the lights. His gaze swivelled back to the man standing before them.

"And that ain't all," Laredo continued, his elbows coming slowly from the bar. "He feeds and runs the damndest crop of buzzards that ever forked a bronc."

The man was leaning forward a little, and Rosy could see his features bloated with anger.

FARMHAND CAPTURED AFTER A FOUR-DAY SEARCH

William Gunning, 21-year-old farmhand, sought in connection with the death of Miss Irene Mott, was captured in a hay mow near Brockville early on Saturday. Gunning had been sought by police for questioning since Tuesday, when Miss Mott and her mother were brutally attacked by an unknown person. The arrest came after Provincial Police stationed at Toledo received a tip on Gunning's whereabouts at six a.m. They rushed at once to Frank Eaton's farm near Frankville village and found Gunning in the hay loft of a barn. He was taken to the police station at Brockville under an assault warrant issued three days previously.

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Seasonal fruits and vegetables were offered on Belleville Market on Saturday. Buyers and shoppers reacted to the splendid display, crowding the various booths at an early hour, leaving with well-laden baskets as they took advantage of the many bargains offered.

Sweet corn, making its bow to the buying public for the first time this year was eagerly "gobbled" up by the lovers of this vegetable. Selling at 40c per dozen ears, the available stock disappeared rapidly as avid buyers crowded the booth where the corn was being sold.

New potatoes noted a sharp decline from mid-week quotations with bushel lots selling at $1.25 and pecks at 35c each. New home grown cabbage and cauliflower attracted the attention of buyers with choice heads selling at from 5c upwards. New green peas were plentiful with quarts offered at 20 and 25c. Basket lots of unshelled peas were quoted at 30c each.

New onions, carrots, beets, lettuce and radishes selling in bunch lots at 5c rounded out an attractive vegetable display.

Predominating in a lavish fruit display were new raspberries that were offered at 25c per box. Strawberries nearing their seasonal end were fairly plentiful with little or no change being noted from previous week-end quotations. Boxes were quoted at 10c each, although in some quarters three boxes for 25c were offered.

New cherries were quoted at 90c per basket with Early Richmonds and Montmorencies selling at 75c and 45c per basket respectively. Blueberries descended on the market with prices dropping to $1.00 for 11-quart baskets while a choice variety was quoted at 15c per berry box. Red and White Currants found favour in the eyes of potential jam makers, and sold fairly briskly at 10c per box.

Eggs noted a sharp increase with prices 27c per dozen for "A" selects, a two-cent rise over quotations of last week. Mediums were offered at 23c and a few pullets at 21c while ungraded stocks sold at 25c per dozen. Farmers' butter showed no price change with two-pound rolls offered at 65c.

Chicken was plentiful, with young broilers, although in smaller quantities than a week ago, sold at from 60c per pair. Other chickens and fowl were offered at from 90c to $1.10 each.

Whitefish and lake trout comprised the fish offering, with the former selling at 18c per pound and the latter demanding 20c, with a slight additional charge for filleting and slicing.

CAMPBELLFORD BOY CATCHES BASS WEIGHING 4 1/2 LBS.

To twelve-year-old George Boyd Jr. goes the honour of catching the largest black bass which has been taken out of the canal in Campbellford for many years. George was fishing from the railroad bridge at the south end of the town using a crab on a pearl spinner when he landed the fish which was 20 1-2 inches long and weighed just under four and a half pounds.

This is the second large fish which has been taken from the canal recently, with Walter Sutton taking a twenty-four pound lunge at the north end of the town on June 20.

Nova Scotian Lights and Shadows

A lesson in the value of preserving natural beauty is written plainly across Nova Scotia's 21,000 square miles which retain an old-time charm not to be found in as great a degree anywhere else in Canada.

Three-quarters of the province remain forest clad, literally webbed with rivers and lakes; the eternal Atlantic and the mighty tides of the Bay of Fundy lap its sun-kissed shores; a wise programme of fish and game protection ensures sport for years to come; an inexhaustible supply of salmon from the ocean affords the world's best fishing in the coastal rivers each year.

The remaining one-quarter of the province is a beautiful blending of sleepy farmland, bustling cities, and secluded resorts, toned by the mellowness of age. The province is rich in historic sites, which, because of their association with the early days of the Continent, are of peculiar interest to visitors. Annapolis Royal, Fort Anne, and the fortress of Louisbourg are among the carefully preserved places where important pages of history were written. The Park at Grand Pre shows the land of Longfellow's Evangeline as it was in the days of the Acadians.

Nova Scotia has still further appeals to the visitor—good railroads, modern roads, and splendid hotels where provision has been made for all types of summer sport. Of these hotels, the best known are The Pines at Digby, open from June 24 to September 14; Cornwallis Inn at Kentville, open all year; and Lakeside Inn at Yarmouth, open from June 23 to September 8.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES

OTTAWA

(By Dean Wilson)

Why is it that experienced observers along Parliament Hill believe that the current trade agreements between the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations are not merely the routine commercial arrangements that they are supposed to be according to all official announcements given out by the authorities? This is a question that is being asked by the man in the street in all sections of this country from Nova Scotia to British Columbia.

In last week's column, the historical background was supplied in order to point out that sentiment, tradition and racial origin play an important role in all relationships between the great English-speaking powers. It was shown that regardless how the English-speaking races may look upon their own little disputes, the other peoples of the globe have always refused to believe that they were anything but "family quarrels". However there is another essential point and it is based upon economics, with the additional fact that the procedure is not in strict accord with the usual routine in such matters.

When the trade negotiations between the United States and the Motherland were started, an immediate outcry went up that the Motherland was changing its policy towards Imperial Preference and it was feared that whatever was agreed upon between Uncle Sam and John Bull would be at the expense of the various sections of the Commonwealth, including especially Canada's major interests in the markets of the United Kingdom. That point is now weakened by a number of events and statements. Great Britain seems to be working closer and closer with the United States in all international affairs. These close working arrangements involve closer commercial and political actions. Naturally, such tactics and diplomacy require a greater degree of secrecy for the mutual protection of both powers, and hence, the citizens of Canada have been misled by the foggy atmosphere of the negotiations. But, the mere fact that such extreme and unusual precautions were adopted in regard to all the negotiations between London and Washington has created the justifiable belief that it is not merely trade that was involved in the transactions. Commercial negotiations between nations are made in this manner, especially between highly-civilized powers where there may be many interests that should be consulted before even the experts of the Government can be in a position to determine the policy that should be followed in the negotiations. This is a particularly strong argument in view of the fact that in both the United States and the British Commonwealth, there are no extreme economic nationalistic tendencies.

The main point, however, is that the trade relations between the United States and the Motherland have been continually losing its importance to both powers from an economic point of view. Both highly industrialized states have shown the tendency to become alike. They have become less important customers of one another and their purchases from one another have been brought down to mere raw materials or specialties that cannot be produced by one or the other. This has been going on for many years, and it is clearly shown by a careful study of the trade relations between them. For instance, during 1901, the percentage of the United States exports to the United Kingdom was 38.3, but today it is about 19. Likewise, in the same period the percentage of the United States imports from the United Kingdom was 10.1, about 8.6 per cent, but today it is about 5, while the United Kingdom imports from the United States in 1901 was 24.3 and today it is about 11 per cent. These figures illustrate definitely that the relative importance of trade between Uncle Sam and John Bull has been very much on the down grade during the past half-century. Consequently, it could not be merely trade that involves so much negotiation and momentous talk between high officials of these two English-speaking nations. Then again, it is no secret along Parliament Hill that many a headache of a politician and an economist in Canada has been cured recently with indirect assurances from semi-official sources that Canada's interests are not being sacrificed in these negotiations between the United States and the Motherland.

In fact, it is known that British capital is too heavily invested in many of colonies throughout the Commonwealth to risk the chance of seriously damaging the trade of any British colony, including Canada, Australia, or any other section of the commonwealth. For instance, it has been repeated time and again that the trade agreements between the United States and Great Britain would grand a huge concession to United States' cotton in the markets of the United Kingdom. How is that possible when such an action is certain to cause a serious damage to the tremendous British investments in India and Egypt, which now supply the cotton in this field? It is typical of the many exaggerated statements that have been published about these commercial arrangements.

If these so-called negotiations are really not important, or at least not as important from an economic angle as it is claimed in certain quarters, what then accounts for the secret and serious manoeuvres of the Governments at Washington, London and Ottawa at the present time? What is hidden behind the scene of these history-making discussions? These momentous and grave questions will be answered in next week's column. — (Reproduction Prohibited, 1938, Educational Features Syndicate).

REPORT SHOWS TEXTILES AGAIN STAND SECOND

The latest report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows that the textile industry, which is of such vital importance to Hespeler, continues to occupy a leading position among all Canadian industries. This recent report, like the one issued last year, classifies textiles under more than a score of headings: the sum of the figures under these headings designates primary textiles as providing employment for the second largest group of wage earners in Canadian industry. The Bureau's figures are for 1936, when one hundred and fifteen thousand employees were paid a total sum of ninety-five million dollars. The only industry standing ahead of textiles in numbers employed is wood and paper products.

MARMORA COUPLE STILL FARM AT 81 AND 82

In Marmora Township, not far from the boundary line between that township and Madoc township, reside an interesting old couple in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Reynolds.

The former, who was 81 on the 24th of January this year, is a son of the late Sidney and Margaret Jane Reynolds, and most of his life has been spent in the 77-year-old dwelling that he regards with affection at his home. He was born on Lot 1 of the 10th Concession of Marmora township and practically all the days of his manhood have been spent at farming. The call to go to the lumber camps or river driving were unheeded by him, but he is known to tell some good hunting stories as a result of his fondness for a gun.

He received his education at a school in Huntingdon township, Kate McCarthy being the teacher best remembered by him.

Mrs. Reynolds was formerly Elizabeth Margaret Neal, daughter of the late John and Jane Neal of the 14th Concession of Rawdon township. She is 82 years of age and still very active in her home duties. Her chief hobby has been knitting and quilting. She remembers her school days in Rawdon with great clearness and among those best recalled was a Mr. Brown, her first teacher, who later became a Methodist preacher, and a Miss Eliza Melnich.

Seven children have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds — four daughters and three sons — of which number one daughter is deceased. With the exception of one son, all surviving children are married and grandchildren number twenty-two. In the years of their early married life Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds often used to drive to Belleville market and back in one day. — Peterborough Examiner.

AGENT AT TWEED GOES TO COBOURG

W. A. Donnelly, former Canadian Pacific Railway agent at Tweed, who in later years served in the same capacity at Whitby and Port Hope has been named to the same agency at Cobourg to succeed Milton Minore who has been placed on the retired list. Mr. Donnelly's duties will commence on July 15th.

CAMPBELLFORD WOMAN HAS TAUGHT FOR 66 YEARS

Mrs. E. Vermilyea last week celebrated her 82nd birthday. One of the most unique persons that has ever lived in the town of Campbellford and in fact she can probably claim a record that cannot be equalled any place in the world. She has been actively engaged in teaching both in public school and of late years doing private tutoring since she was sixteen years of age, having in all taught a total of 66 years. For many years she conducted both day and night classes at her home on Camrobert street and has been known to countless children as Auntie Vee. She is still carrying on her work although during the past two years illness had forced her to limit her classes; she is at present tutoring one child five days a week. Unfortunately she shrinks from publicity and asked that nothing more than the mere mention of her birthday celebration be mentioned. With regard to her method of teaching she told the press that one of the most important things was to really like the person you are teaching. I have spent more time in studying my pupils than in actually teaching them," she declared. Following the conversation which the press had with this fine old lady during which she forbade any notes being made, she kindly consented to pose for the picture which by no means does justice to the sparkle in the eyes which carry with them a tender sympathy and understanding revealing one of the finest persons we have ever known. — Peterboro Examiner.

HE PLAYED THE WRONG INSTRUMENT

"The trouble with your boy," said the Judge, "is that he played the wrong instrument. If, instead of letting him waste his spare time and money playing the nickel in the slot gambling machines in billiard rooms and dance halls, you had taught him to play the piano, the violin, the trombone or some other instrument, he might have kept away from bad company and he would not now be facing a two-year sentence in the penitentiary."

"That hurts, Judge," said the father. "His mother wanted me to give him music lessons, but somehow I thought it was silly for a boy, again I guess I was too mean to lay out the money. Gosh, Judge ain't there something that can be done, he's only seventeen?"

"Well," said the Judge, "I could put him under parole. He looks as though he had good stuff in him; and I will do it under one condition, and that is that you buy him the best instrument you can afford and get him a fine teacher and arrange to have him come to my home once a month and let me judge how hard he is working at his music. You see, I was brought up with music in my home; and I know what it means."

This story was told to us by a band conductor who refused to have his identity revealed. This much we do know, boys and girls who are deeply engrossed in music study have not the time for dangerous nonsense. As Cervantes put it, "Where there is music there is no mischief." Even in practical experts have found that those who play in the band and the orchestra offer fewer disciplinary problems than those without these privileges.

Millions and millions of dollars are spent each year upon the manufacture of gambling slot machines, which like all gambling devices prove dangerous attractive to you. They are the kindergartens of vice. A fraction of their cost spent upon music would reduce the potential prison population of tomorrow very greatly. The reason why such machines do exist is that parents fail to do anything to counteract them.

Our prisons are filled with young men and young women, many of whom are there because of the neglect of their parents, just as though the parents had led the youths to the prison gates as a kind of human sacrifice in this "age of don't care." Let us stop it! Do your share! — Exchange.

TWENTY TONS OF EXAM PAPERS BEING MARKED

A ribbon of ink encircling the Province of Ontario gives some idea of the amount of exhaustive reading which confronts the 9,000 teachers of Ontario who are engaged in marking departmental examination papers.

Something like twenty tons of examination papers are in the process of being marked, officials at the Department of Education estimate.

These include the papers written by the 70 or 75 per cent. of the pupils who failed to secure the recommendation for certificates of their teachers. From 25 to 30 per cent. of the pupils did not have to write the departmental examinations in June.

CARE OF RUGS

When you are using a carpet sweeper or vacuum cleaner, sweep along the border parallel to the end and not backwards and forwards across the edge, thus avoiding rubbing the pile off the edge of the carpet.

If the ball-bearings of a vacuum cleaner are examined by a good electrician every two and a half or three years, they will not burn out and a heavy repair bill will be prevented.

Most stains will come out of a rug if they are washed at once with Lux and warm water. The stain should be rubbed with a cloth or nail brush and the soap should then be rubbed out with a cloth wrung out of clean, warm water. A second rinsing water may be necessary. When the rinsing water is done, the wet part should be rubbed as dry as possible with a dry cloth and then left to dry. When it is quite dry, the pile will probably be a little rough and matted. It should be brushed gently with a clothes brush until it is soft and the pile looks like the rest of the rug. Ink stains will come out better if they are washed first with milk.

Furniture should never be dragged across a carpet, but always lifted.

If newspapers are laid under a rug moths will not attack it. They do not like printer's ink.

To wear a rug evenly, turn it round at each spring cleaning, or oftener. A stair carpet should be cut a little longer than necessary so that it can be shifted up or down at the spring cleaning and the wear thus be spread more evenly over it.

DOES IT PAY?

Does it pay, I wonder, to toll for gold
Till the back is bowed and bent,
Till the heart is old and the hair is white,
And life's best days are spent,
Till the eyes are blind with the yellow dust,

That we strive for day by day,
Till all we hear is the coin's dull clink
I wonder does it pay?

Does it pay, I wonder, to strive for naught

But the pleasure life will give,
To dance all night and to dream all day,

To be merry while we live,

To work and worry and fume and fret
Over what we shall wear today,

What we shall eat and what we drink,
I wonder does it pay?

Does it pay, I wonder, to give our strength,

The treasures of heart and brain,
The gift of the gods and the skill of hand

For that which brings no gain,
To labour for that which is bread alone

And the things that pass away,
Till the heart is full of an aching void,
I wonder does it pay?

Does it pay, I wonder, to never stop
In the ceaseless rush and care

And list to the song of birds and brook,

Or wander through woodlands fair;
To never think of what lies beyond
The narrow sphere of today,

Till the new life dawns on our untired souls,

THE ORDER OF MERIT

The casual reader of the recent British honors list might not realize that the most eminent distinction the King of England has to bestow has nothing to do with the paraphernalia of knighthoods and baronies and coronets. In a country of ancient history famed for its hierarchical organization of society it is perhaps surprising that the most impressive of British honors is an order that is modern and confers no precedence whatever. Yet The Times of London, speaking of this year's honors, remarks that "the most important, as always", is the Order of Merit, which has now been given to Sir Arthur Eddington, the Cambridge astronomer.

The O. M. was instituted in 1902, and its membership is confined to twenty-four. So high is its standard maintained that Sir Arthur's appointment brings the present total only to sixteen. The O. M. has been accepted by men who, like Thomas Hardy and John Galsworthy, would take no other honour; and this fact adds notably to its distinction. It is at present held by such people as Wilson Steer, the artist, and Ralph Vaughan Williams, the musician. But it is not confined to men eminent in the arts. Lord Baden-Powell is a member; as are Sir Charles Sherrington, Sir John Joseph Thomson, and Sir William Bragg, all three being Fellows of the Royal Society.

Knighthoods are conferred on merely popular actors and writers; but popularity is no passport to the O. M. Neither is it, of course, a bar, for Mr. John Masfield, the poet Laureate, holds this distinction. But work that is recognized by the O. M. must have in it an element of permanence; and it is gratifying it should now have been awarded to so distinguished a man as Sir Arthur Eddington, — Christian Science Monitor.

ARCHDIOCESE LOSES OLDEST PRIEST

Oldest priest in the Kingston Archdiocese, Right Rev. M. J. McDonald, cleric of St. Patrick's Church, died at Nanapan on Monday afternoon following a lengthy illness. He was born in Kingston eighty-five years ago, a son of a former well-known merchant, the late Peter McDonald and his wife, Ann Baker. He was appointed parish priest there ten years ago, but Rev. Father Healey has assisted as church curate since 1934.

Entering the Regiopolis College at Kingston when seven years of age, he in turn attended St. Michael's College, Toronto, and Laval University in Quebec where he graduated before he was twenty-four years old and was ordained in Kingston in 1879 by Bishop John O'Brien. He served as curate under the late Father McCarthy at Brockville, and the late Dean O'Connor at Perth before he assumed his first charge at Kemptville where he was stationed for twenty years. During this time he was mainly responsible for new church edifices being built for the Church of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross at Kemptville and at the Parish of South Mountain.

ANNUAL KELLY FAMILY REUNION

On Thursday, July 7th, the ninth annual Kelly family reunion was held at Crescent Beach, Oak Lake, with about one hundred in attendance.

The day was all that could be desired, and by noon a large number had gathered, and after the ladies had laden the tables with all the good things procurable at this season of the year, and grace being sung, everyone did justice to the same after which registration took place, and a collection lifted which was very generous.

The president, W. Kelly, called the gathering to order and gave a short address, after which the general business and sports followed.

The secretary, Mrs. A. Lowery, read the report for 1937 showing there had been two deaths, Mrs. Mary Kelly, of Belleville and Mrs. Nancy Kelly, Holloway; three marriages, Zella Grooms and Clarence Parks, Mildred Elliott and Harry Morrow, Olive Searles and Everett Elliott; two births, Harold S. Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kelly, Foxboro, and William W. Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Elliott, West Huntingdon.

The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison after two minutes' silence in honour of the departed ones.

Addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Beazer and Mrs. Beazer, also Past Presidents W. H. Kelly, Madoc, and Thos. Elliott and others.

Election of officers followed for a two-year term: President, Samuel J. Kelly; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Annie Lowery; Press Secretary, Mrs. Gardner Welsh; Sports Committee, Mrs. Murray Morgan, Mrs. Blake McMullen, Mrs. Everett Elliott and Mrs. Arthur Emerson, with Clifford Elliott as chairman of sports.

It was decided to hold the next picnic at the same place on the third Wednesday in July, 1939.

Votes of thanks were tendered Rev. Mr. Beazer and Mrs. Beazer, also the retiring president.

The sports next followed with prizes for the winning parties, after which

AGED HAVELOCK MAN ROBBED OF $350

Provincial police are searching for four gypsies, two men and two women, who are accused of stealing $350 from Frank Davidson, an aged resident of Havelock, Tuesday. The authorities have as yet no information as to how the 80-year-old Havelock man was robbed. The gypsies were travelling in a maroon car when they visited Havelock and so far the police have been unsuccessful in tracing the machine.

DIONNES DRAW CROWD 20 P.C. LARGER

Tourist-attracting ability of the quintuplets seems to be on the increase. The North Bay Board of Trade reports inquiries are 20 per cent greater than last year's record and there is a constant relationship between inquiries and tourists who actually visit here.

CAN'T BUILD ON HIGHWAYS

No buildings may be erected within 150 feet of the boundaries of King's highways within Ontario without a permit from the Department of Highways, according to word received a few days ago by municipal clerks throughout the province. The department letter pointed out that at the last session the Highway Improvement Act was amended to give the government power to limit building next to highways. Now, the letter added, an order-in-council has been passed, commanding that all buildings or other structures, within the 150-foot limit receive approval before erection. The amended statute also permits restrictions to be established on the planting of trees, shrubs, hedges, etc.

RIVER VALLEY STUDY GROUP

The June meeting of the River Valley Study Group was held at the home of Mrs. J. Sager with an attendance of 14. The meeting was opened by singing the hymn "Faith of our Fathers", followed with prayer by Rev. W. J. Scott. The minutes were read and approved. Mrs. George Heasman kindly offered her home for the next meeting. Mrs. Roy Bush will act as programme convenor. Mrs. Norman Rosebush then took charge of the program. Hymn "True hearted, whole-hearted" was sung. Mrs. Don Donohoe gave a reading "The Need of Jesus". The roll call was responded to by reading a verse of the Bible with the word "Servant". A solo was then given by Mrs. Macklin. Rev. W. J. Scott gave explanations of several questions in our Bible study. Mrs. Clarence Chard gave a short talk. The hymn "More Love to Thee" was sung and the meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. W. Lindenfield. Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by some of the members.

MOORE — EGGLETON

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Belleville on Tuesday, June 21st, at 8.30 p.m. by the Rev. Wm. J. Walker, 271 George Street, when Trenelda Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Eggleton, Stirling, became the bride of Mr. John Nickle Moore, son of Mrs. T. A. Moore and the late J. N. Moore, Springbrook.

The bride wore a gown of Robin's egg blue sheer chiffon with white accessories and was attended by Miss Margaret Moore, sister of the groom, dressed in yellow crape with white accessories, while Mr. Fred Davis supported the groom. The young couple will reside on the groom's farm at Springbrook.

21,000,000 BUSHELS OF GRAIN HANDLED AT KINGSTON

J. L. Cross, Superintendent of the Kingston Elevator, stated that so far this year 21,000,000 bushels of grain have been handled at the elevator, which is an all-time record.

In 1937, 25,000,000 bushels passed through the elevator, which clearly shows that there is a big increase for the first six months. It was stated that for the time being it was expected that about 1,000,000 bushels would be handled weekly. With the bumper wheat crop in the West prophesied, the elevator company looks for a good year. The large shipments of corn from United States ports for overseas has tended to increase the business.

HISTORY OF ONTARIO ROADS

Although revealing spectacular achievement in ancient, old world civilizations, the romance of road-making has known a common history in all lands. In the beginning were man and beast, restless creatures, treading out hunting trails and game tracks.

Before the arrival of Europeans in the America that is now Ontario, the Indians had well-defined routes of travel. Some of these routes are the congested highway arteries of today. An unending flow of humanity, still restless, sweeps along. The paths of centuries ago are today luring swiftly travelling tourists to Ontario's holidayland.

The native routes took the Indians on long journeys northward and westward across this province before the white man came. By canoe, as much as possible, the expeditions were made but many well-travelled trails were noted by the early explorers.

Often these paths were found to be worn six inches to one foot into the ground. They took direct courses from one body of water to another and were used by the earliest French explorers and traders in their travels.

The Humber Trail was regarded as one of the most important of these routes. As early as 1615 the Huron Indians led Etienne Brule across this portage from Lake Simcoe to Lake Ontario and probably proceeded southward to Niagara. One historian observes — "For, from the mouth of the Humber a Mississauga trail was well beaten where the present Lake Shore Road runs and the path continued to the Falls of Niagara and beyond."

Now, more than three centuries later the Department of Highways has turned to this same route and along it the Holiday Highway of this province — to the Northland, to the wonder playgrounds of America, to Muskoka and the 30,000 Islands — is now taking form.

Seven miles west of Toronto on the new Middle Road, the especially designed tourist cut-off streaks north along Brown's Line to Barrie and the picturesque vacation land. When completed it means money-saving miles eliminated for the countless thousands of American tourists entering Canada at the Niagara Portal; and for all western Ontario it means short, faster and safer week-end jaunts into the North.

PREMIER HEPBURN TO TAKE AIR TRIP

Ontario's air-minded Prime Minister, Mitchell F. Hepburn, takes off next Saturday on a sky-jump of some 8,000 miles.

Before he returns to his Queen's Park office he expects to have twice crossed the Rockies, to have paid his respects to Aklavik and other almost inaccessible points around the mouth of the Mackenzie River, to have inspected the new Yellowknife mining country, and to have flown down the Pacific Coast line all the way from the Yukon to Vancouver — one of the riskiest hops chartered on aerial navigation maps.

Mr. Hepburn will fly in the big twin-motored machine owned by J. P. Bickell, mining magnate, in which he recently hopped to Quebec and subsequently to Moosonee. Mr. Bickell will accompany him. The only other on the plane, during the long and eagerly-anticipated trip to the Far North, will be Pilot Towne.

PERFUME OF STOLEN BLOOM

(Chesterville Record)
A few weeks ago The Record noted the fact that flowering shrubs had been stolen from graves in Maple Ridge. This week we were told of peony roots having been stolen in the Grantley district and later found planted in a cemetery plot. There used to be an old story of a Canadian asking a Chinese, whose custom it was to place food on the grave of a buried member of the family, when the Chinese expected the corpse to come up and partake of the food. The quick reply was: "Allee same time when yours come up to smellee your flowers." It would be interesting to know what would be the reaction after smelling stolen flowers.

WHO PLANTS A TREE?

What does he plant who plants a tree?

He plants a house for you and me; A house with children, dear and coy. The nation's pride, the nation's joy. What does he plant who plants a tree? He plants a ship that sails the sea; A ship with sturdy timbers, tough. That rides the rolling billows, rough. What does he plant who plants a tree? He plants a church for the years to be; A church with slender steeple high. That points the pilgrim to the sky. What does he plant who plants a tree? He plants a school with its rule of three;

Instilling in the minds of youth, A love of country, God and truth. What does he plant who plants a tree? He plants a fire, for bond and free; A fire for warmth, a fire for light. A fire for cooking, morn and night. What does he plant who plants a tree?

GLEN ROSS WINS FIRST GAME

DEFEATED SPRINGBROOK IN THRILLING GAME BY 8-4 SCORE

Glen Ross "Red Shirts" drew first blood in the finals of the Rawdon Softball League, when they defeated Springbrook, the winners of the regular schedule, in the first game of a two-out-of-three series, on Tuesday evening. The pastime, which was one of the best games of the season, was played on the home diamond of the Springbrook team and marked their first defeat of the season. Close to three hundred fans were on hand and were treated to a good exhibition of ball.

"Chuck" Smith, speed-ball artist, was on the mound for the winners and outpitched G. Broadworth, the Springbrook star. He showed good control and plenty of speed to hold the heavy-hitting Springbrook players to seven hits, which were well scattered. He had four strike-outs to his credit and gave out two walks, both in the seventh inning. Broadworth had eight strikeouts to his credit but gave up thirteen hits and two walks.

Glen Ross opened the scoring in the first inning, a two-base hit by H. Brown, a walk to J. Armstrong, and a long single by G. Pyear accounting for two runs. They went out in order in the second inning, but added one to their total in the third on an error to D. Broadworth and hits by Brown, Armstrong and Pyear. An error by the pitcher and two hits shoved another run across in the fourth and an effort by McKeown, a walk to G. Pyear and a hit by G. Fraser produced another in the fifth. They went out in order in the sixth, but shoved another three runs in the seventh when A. Fraser, pinch-hitting for R. Pyear, G. Pyear and McDonnell hit safely, followed by an error by Gibson on Brooks.

Springbrook were unable to do anything with Smith's offerings and they were blanked for the first three innings. In the fourth successive errors by Brown and G. Fraser on hard hit grounders gave them their first run. They scored another in the fifth on an error to Fraser on Holland's bid for a hit and a single by McKeown. In the sixth the Glen Ross defence cracked and errors by Brown, G. Pyear and hits by Thompson, Bateman and McKeown gave Springbrook two runs. They threatened again in the seventh when a hit by D. Broadworth and successive walks to G. Broadworth and Gibson put Smith in a hole. However, after having three balls on Thompson he struck him out and tagged Burkitt out on his way to first for the final out. The final score was 8 to 4.

The lineups:

Springbrook — M. McKeown, c; M. Heath, 3b; D. Broadworth, ss; G. Broadworth, p; M. Gibson, 1b; C. Thompson, 2b; C. Burkitt, cf; C. Burkitt, cf; H. Bateman, lf; A. Holland, rf.

G. Fraser, 2b; Harry Brown, ss; J. Armstrong, cf; R. Pyear, 3b; G. Pyear, 1b; McDonnell, cf; C. Smith, p; H. Brooks, rf; B. Hagerman, c. A. Fraser replaced R. Pyear in the 7th.

Score by innings:

Springbrook 0001120—4
Glen Ross 2011103—8
Umpires — W. Jones, plate, A. Warren at first and Burton Morton at third.

Fair Board Meeting

A meeting of the directors of the Stirling Agricultural Society was held on Tuesday evening in the Agricultural Rooms, with President J. B. Thompson occupying the chair and Messrs F. R. Mallory, E. J. Pyear, Wm. Fitchett, Wm. Patterson, Thos. Solmes, C. F. Linn and H. P. Ellis present. President J. B. Thompson gave a report on the meeting of the district fairs held in Campbellford recently, at which all the fairs, with the exception of Marmora, Tweed and Wooler were represented. Matters of routine were discussed and a general admission price of thirty-five cents agreed upon by the organization.

William Patterson reported sixteen new members as a result of a canvass made by his committee. A further canvass will be made later. E. J. Pyear, chairman of a similar committee, also reported.

Owing to Wm. Fitchett being unable to act, Chas. Linn was appointed to assist Wm. Patterson in making a canvass of the village.

T. W. Solmes addressed the meeting and gave a full explanation of the existing contract between the local Hydro Commission and the local Fair Board. A committee composed of J. B. Thompson, Wm. Patterson, H. P. Ellis, F. R. Mallory and T. W. Solmes, was appointed to inspect the matter of repairs to the lighting system at the Fair Grounds.

The judging of the oats entered in the Field Crop Competition being sponsored by the local Agricultural Society was discussed and was left with Secretary Mallory to arrange for. The meeting adjourned until a later date when it is hoped that full reports will be heard from the various committees.

TRANSFERRED TO WEST

Word has been received this week of the transfer of Mr. Don Morton to the Edmonton offices of the Commercial Credit Corporation. Don, who has for the past two years been in the offices of this organization, has many friends in this district who will join in wishing him every success in his new field activity. This week he has been at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morton, and on Friday leaves for his new duties.

Mrs. Jas. Campbell

LIBERALS WIN ELECTION

H. Louis Hagey, 31-year-old barrister, retained the Brantford riding for the Liberal Party when he was elected to the Ontario Legislature in a by-election yesterday, with a majority of 1,146 over his nearest opponent, Reginald Welsh, Conservative candidate. The election was necessitated through the death of Labor Minister M. M. MacBride. Final returns were: H. Louis Hagey, Liberal, 6,284; Reginald Welsh, Conservative, 5,138; Walter J. Dowden, Labor-Progressive, 2,344; Paul Debragh, Toronto, Socialist-Labor, 58.

By his victory Mr. Hagey becomes one of the youngest members of the Legislature. He withstood last-minute attacks by his three opposing candidates, although his majority was 1,146 less than that accorded Mr. MacBride.

Directors Will Meet

A meeting of the lady directors of the Stirling Agricultural Society will be held in the Agricultural Rooms on Monday afternoon, July 25th, at 2:30 o'clock. Aged Resident Dies

An aged and highly-respected resident of Stirling and Hastings County, in the person of Mrs. Samantha Dix, passed away at the home of her brother, Mr. William Hanna, on Friday last, following a brief illness.

The deceased lady, a daughter of the late Tyler Hannah and Mary Ann Cruller, was born in Sidney township, two miles south of this village, and was in her 95th year. She received her early education in Stirling and spent the greater part of her life in the district. She took an active interest in the happenings of the community and was a charter member of the River Valley Branch of the Women's Institute. She was a member of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, of Stirling, and a member of St. Paul's United Church. One brother, William F. Hanna, with whom she resided, is left to survive.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon from her late residence to St. Paul's United Church, and was attended by a large number of sorrowing friends. Members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge attended in a body and conducted the last rites of the Order at the graveside. Rev. W. J. Scott conducted the services in the church and at the graveside. Interment was made in Stirling cemetery.

The pallbearers were Messrs Frank Stapley, George Belshaw, W. L. Anderson, Henry Bell, Geo. Luery and J. S. Morton.

SUMMER SCHOOL IN SESSION

OVER SEVENTY YOUNG PEOPLE IN ATTENDANCE AT OAK LAKE CAMP

The annual Summer School of the Bay of Quinte Conference is in session at Oak Lake this week, opening on Monday. Practically every part of the conference from Almonte and Brockville in the East and Whitby, Columbus and Tyrone in the West, is represented in the attendance of some seventy young people and their leaders.

From the hour of 7:00 a.m. until 11 p.m. those in attendance are kept busy with Bible Study Groups, Teacher Training Groups, Mission studies, vespers services, camp fire services and recreation. The school closes on Sunday evening, July 24th, with a farewell camp service being held at 7:30.

The study training courses are taken by four ministers, "Christian Teaching for Youth," Rev. G. A. Pattenham, B.A.; "The Message of Jesus for the Life of Today," Rev. J. G. McKee, B.A., B.D., and Rev. W. J. Scott, M.A., B.D., S.T.M.; "The Bible in the Church," Rev. D. M. Stinson, M.A., B.D.

PAY ON TIME

Citizens of Stirling will receive reminders this week that the first instalment of their taxes is due on Tuesday, August 2nd. For a number of years the first instalment of the taxes was made payable on July 1st, but for the last two years a change was made to allow a payment being made on the current year's assessment. This has worked to the advantage of the municipality and will be continued. The village is required to pay quite a large sum of money each year in interest on money borrowed to meet current expenses, but the early payment of taxes by the citizens will be a big help to the officials. The reduction of five mills over last year's rate is most welcome to the ratepayers and it is to be hoped that they will show their appreciation by paying their first instalment promptly.

WEEK-END HOLIDAY

A suggestion has been made by "Canadian Business," that all National holidays be celebrated on week-ends. From the employer's point of view, it is a costly proposition to halt the production of a large factory for a single day. From the standpoint of the employee, it means a long week-end, and the possibility of a trip instead of just a break in the usual routine. From the standpoint of the hotels, railways, buses, garages and others interested in the tourist traffic, it would be highly satisfactory for tourist figures always jump on "long" week-ends. It's a good idea to let the holidays fall where they may, but celebrate them on the week-end. If we are going to have the holidays any way, let's have them where they will do the most good. Here is a suggestion that merits the consideration of the government at Ottawa and should appeal to the great majority of citizens.

"BE WISE WITH SPEED"

Early in the 18th century, Edward Young, an English poet, wrote these lines:

"Be wise with speed;
A fool at forty
Is a fool indeed!"

Young's twelve simple words sum up very neatly what many safety experts have been trying to put across all during the twentieth century.

We know that excessive speed is always dangerous.

But we must also realize that any speed, if combined with a foolish violation of the traffic law or a reckless flouting of the rules of common sense, may be just as dangerous.

Here are the principal driving errors committed by motorists in 1937, which were the cause of 245 fatalities and 4,513 accidents:

Speed too fast for road or traffic conditions; on wrong side of road; did not have right of way; cutting in; passing standing street car; passing on curve or hill; passing on wrong side; failed to signal; car ran away — no driver; drove off roadway.

SOME ACTION NEEDED

So far as we can learn nothing has been done in the matter of the erection of a suitable band stand for the use of the Citizens' Band. The summer is gradually slipping away and unless something is done soon it will be too late. Members of the Band are always willing and glad to turn out on occasions when their services are required during the year and now is the time for the Village to show its appreciation of their services by providing them with a proper stand from which they may render open-air concerts. We believe the majority of citizens would be in favour of the Village Council making a substantial donation towards such a project, and if enough public support can be aroused some action will result. If the Council would start things moving we believe there are enough public-spirited citizens in the Village and community to see the project through to a finish. The Band boys deserve it. We urge the citizens to consider the matter and write and let us know what they think. Our columns are open for your suggestions. Your name will not be published if you do not wish it. Who will be first?

CARNEGIE'S EIGHT RULES

Dale Carnegie, whose book on "How to Win Friends and Influence People" has focussed attention on what he has to say, has penned an interesting article entitled "Grab Your Bootstraps." Therein he gives eight rules which he claims will help to get rid of some of the "imaginary" fears that are retarding progress at present. Probably we can all benefit by following the advice handed out in at least some of the rules. They are as follows:

1. Analyze your fears. When you realize the basis of your fear you will be on the way to conquering it.
2. Determine what your next step will be. A soldier who knows where his second line of trenches is — is not defeated.

3. When your friends talk discouragement, talk encouragement.

4. Determine how much of your thinking is directed toward solving your problem and how much is going over and over the same thing.

5. Act as if you were not afraid.

6. Don't think about your troubles at night.

7. Keep physically fit. The more discouraged you are the more golf you should play.

8. Remember the present recession will pass. Others always have. If carried out, these rules are guaranteed by Carnegie to cure all ailments.

CHECK THEM UP

Motorists who speed through the streets of this village should be checked up by the local Chief of Police. For a number of years the local authorities have more or less overlooked the matter of speed on the streets and it may be because of this that some motorists are taking too much liberty. While the maintenance of a speed trap in a municipality is a very poor advertisement, and a practice which we do not favour, there are times when motorists go through here at an excessive rate and unless a check-up is made there is bound to be an accident, with perhaps fatal results. Traffic enters the business section on the down grade on both highways, and if motorists are proceeding at an excessive speed, there is little chance to avoid an accident were a child to dart out into the street. Similarly vehicles pulling out from the curb or backing out of garages on these streets are liable to figure in an accident. The erection of "checkerboard" signs on Front and North Streets for the warning of traffic approaching the business section would no doubt help considerably and the local authorities should consult the Department of Highways relative to having the same erected at an early date. After an accident occurs will be too late. In the meantime we hope that definite action is taken to check the speeders. Operators of cars should drive with extreme caution within the village limits in order to eliminate any chance of a fatality.

CURRENT COMMENT

One of the most essential factors in the life of any small town, and particularly those adjacent to large cities, is a hearty spirit of co-operation among the citizens. Stirling citizens should keep this in mind when canvassed by representatives of large business concerns in an effort to draw trade away from the local merchants.

The death of a young man in Northern Frontenac County from being struck by lightning after he climbed a tree for refuge should serve as a lesson to those who are tempted to act in a similar manner when caught in a storm. While the most natural thing for one to do under these circumstances seems to be to run for shelter under a tree, it is the most dangerous thing to do.

Not infrequently we hear of teachers losing their jobs because of their lack of ability but it is not often one hears of a teacher being so good that she taught herself out of a job. However, it appears that a teacher in a Western Ontario School is the exception. All the pupils in the school passed their entrance examinations and the school will be closed until enough of the younger children in the district become of school age to warrant its re-opening.

There may be a depression, or a recession, or whatever you have a mind to call it, in the industrial trades just now, but the farmers have little fault to find with the prices being received for their produce. The price of cheese has been holding up well and on Saturday last was over the fourteen cent mark, while the price of hogs at $11.65 per cwt. is the highest price paid since 1930. The only trouble, according to one farmer of the district, is that a great many farmers have no hogs.

The annual report of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, which has recently been published, contains a wealth of information concerning the blind people of Canada and what is being done for them. In some parts of Canada it is a rare thing to see a blind person on the street, but this report discloses that there are now in the Dominion 9,450 men, women and children who must get along without the use of their eyes. There are 734 in British Columbia, 443 in Alberta, 583 in Saskatchewan, 581 in Manitoba, 3,057 in Ontario, 2,748 in Quebec, 105 in Prince Edward Island, 438 in New Brunswick and 748 in Nova Scotia. Of this number approximately 2,000 were in receipt of government pensions at the time the report was compiled, last March.

In an effort to reduce the toll of accidents to pedestrians on the Highways of the Province, Hon. T. B. McQueen, Minister of Highways, has issued an appeal to the pedestrians for their co-operation. "Too many pedestrians have their minds anywhere except on the job of walking on the streets and highways in a manner that will prevent an accident involving themselves and possibly others," says the minister. The 1938 automobile is a marvel of speed, power and safety, but the pedestrian is the same plodding individual he was one hundred years ago. He hasn't an all-steel body; nor has Nature streamlined him so he can move any faster in this age of speed. He has one advantage, however, if he will use it. He can make up for his slow feet by his quick wits. He can avoid making the same mistakes which brought death to 297 pedestrians and injury to 3,452 others last year on Ontario's streets and highways.

What Others Say

WHERE MONEY GOES

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

The C.N.R. deficit takes $8.45 of every $100 expended by the Dominion Government, according to Mr. Dunning. Relief exceeds it by $4.47, or something over 50 per cent.

TUT! TUT!

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

A traveller was telling us the other day that Premier Hepburn is punishing the folks of this district for voting Tory at the recent election by delaying the repair of Highway No. 2 east of Belleville. If the premier could keep the Grits off this bad piece of highway and only permit the Tories to use it, we might have reasons to believe the traveller's statement, but otherwise — No! Probably the Ontario Government, like most business men just now, is short of the hard-earned to go ahead with the work.

SO MANY INSPECTORS

(Fergus News-Record)

There's a good deal of complaint from many businesses about the number of inspectors who call around, looking over this and that, costing money which the businesses pay, telling the owners what they must and must not do — often trivial things — and apparently considered as expensive nuisances. Of course, they are not so considered by the government departments who send them out.

For instance, every six months or so, the printing offices are visited by an inspector who takes a look around, leaves a few orders for changes that have to be made, and departs, returning again later to see if the changes have been carried out. There is usually some correspondence as well. We have never known one of them to suggest a really important change, and we have heard both editors and printers say that some of the changes were a nuisance, far from promoting safety.

We're not arguing that point, but what we do want to stress is that these men seem to come around fairly often, that their visits must cost money, that their salaries are being paid, partly at least by the men they are visiting.

Turning to the other side of the picture, we can't recall that the News-Record has ever cost the Compensation Board anything for twenty years or so. We may be mistaken, but the last accident that we recall, happened about that long ago — and it was caused by something that we never heard any inspector mention. It was not a serious expense either, for the doctor got his bill paid, some $12 if we recall after all these years, but the injured workman was back on the job next morning and he drew nothing at all. In those twenty intervening years payments have had to be made, as usual, which is quite proper, but we do wonder sometimes, how much of the money paid in by printing office proprietors goes to pay inspectors' salaries and expenses, and how much goes to those who are injured.

ACCIDENTS CAN BE AVOIDED

(Ottawa Journal)

No doubt there are those who disagree with the opinion frequently expressed in these columns that the vast majority of motor-vehicle accidents could be avoided by the exercise of care, courtesy and common sense. But every word we have said in that connection is proved by an exhaustive analysis of last year's accidents in Ontario just issued by the Department of Highways.

In 1937 there were 13,906 traffic accidents reported to the department and analyzed for its records. Of all these, 4,234 occurred at street intersections, or almost one-third of the total. Will anybody claim that every last one of them — and the 95 deaths they added to the casualty list — could not have been avoided by the use of greater care?

The grim list grows with 3,313 accidents between street intersections, the 129 deaths from this class being those of children hit while at play in the streets, pedestrians who stroll out in front of cars. Adequate caution would have saved most of them. And 3,012 accidents go into the record as having occurred on straight rural roads, with 344 deaths, or more than one-third of the total. This classification includes the speeders, drivers who pass and cut in dangerously, drivers who just seem unable to keep out of trouble. And nobody seriously would suggest that it is inevitable that accidents should occur in a smooth, paved, straight road.

Rural intersections accounted for 3,655 accidents, all of them preventable. Curves accounted for 935 and hills for 582, bridges for 160 — not one of them inevitable. Railroad crossings added 198 to the list, and six accidents occurred.

The Majority of the accidents occurred in daylight and 78 per cent. of the drivers involved had driving experience of five years and over. Usually it is not a case of a green driver — but of an experienced man or woman who takes a chance or lets down for a moment the incessant caution that is the price of safety.

Mr. and Mrs. Booth for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Palmer, River Valley, and Mr. and Mrs. Miles Palmer of Frankford spent the week-end in Lindsay as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garret Palmer.

A short time ago at Castle Loma, Toronto, the beautiful home of Sir Henry and Lady Pellatt, presentations were made to 3 Girl Guides, one of whom was Miss Dorothy Alger, the popular daughter of Col. and Mrs. H. H. Alger. Miss Alger received a silver medal with the motto inscribed "Be prepared." Last summer at the Trent River she saved Mrs. Green, wife of Major Green, from drowning.

Miss Maud Bailey, "Maple Grange" Stirling, rendered a very touching solo in Bloomfield Methodist Church at Mr. Lambert's farewell service.

Master Wilbert and Miss Muriel Kingston, of Campbellford, who have been visiting their grandmother, Mrs. John Kingston, returned to Campbellford on Thursday. Mrs. Kingston returned with them and is spending the week there at the home of her son, Mr. George Kingston, Editor of the Campbellford Herald.

Recipe

Dinner, to Walter: "Could I see your menus for the past week? I'd like to get the recipe for this wonderful hash."

Credit Where Due

"You didn't have a rag on your back when I married you," he said.
"Anyway," she replied sweetly, "I have plenty now."

Torture

A long-winded lawyer defended a client unsuccessfully, and during the trial the judge received the following note: "The prisoner humbly prays that the time occupied by the plea of the counsel for the defense be counted in his sentence."

His Money's Worth

Recent correspondence about land-ladies reminds a reader of the story of a landlady who, alarmed at the huge appetite of her lodger told him she would have to increase the price of his board from 30s. to 42s. 6d.
He replied: "Oh, don't do that. It's taking me all my time to eat the 30s. worth."

Speaking from Experience

The boy had been spending the afternoon getting into all kinds of trouble until finally a neighbour collared him and asked him why he did not go straight home after school, with the other children.
Boy (in surly tone): "I'm locked out."

Neighbour: "Why locked out? And where's your mother?"
Boy: "Down at the Mother's Club meeting, telling them how to raise children."

Forgotten

A coloured caddy on the golf links at Gulfport, Mississippi was recently asked whether President Wilson, for whom he had once, caddied, tipped him well.
"No, suh," he replied, "he didn't tip me no tip at all; he just sent me a little ol' book wid his name writ in it."

She Can Dream Later

He: "I know you didn't dream I was going to propose."
She: "Well, what time have I had to dream?"

Written by a Yale Man

The Harvard club received rather a nice little note the other day from a gentleman in Brooklyn. "Dear Sirs," it said, "I am interested in your club. Kindly send me some information about its functions."

The secretary is still trying to draft a suitable reply.

Faster Town

The teacher called upon Marjorie, aged six.

"I have a question for you," said the teacher. "When it's 3 o'clock in Peoria, it's four o'clock in New York. Do you know why?"
"Of course I do," asserted Marjorie wisely. "New York's a faster town!"

Common Complaint

"Did you see that there are some people in the poorer districts who can count up only to four?"
"Oh, that's nothing. I know lots of golfers just as bad."

Down on the Farm

College Man (who had come to work in the harvest): "I have only one request to make."

Farmer Frown: "What is that?"
College Man: "Please let me stay in bed long enough for the lamp chimney to cool off."

PHILOSOPHY OF MAN

Man comes into this life without his consent, goes out against his will and the road between is a rocky path.

When he is young the big girls kiss him; when he is older the little girls kiss him and the big ones won't.

If he is poor they say he is "a good"; if he becomes rich he is a "grafter".

When he needs credit he can't get it; if he does not need it every one tried to extend it to him (even the bank).

If he enters politics, it is for what he can get out of it. If he keeps out of politics he is not public spirited enough to do his part.

If he gives to charity, it is just for show. If he does not he is "stingy and miserly."

If he takes an active interest in church work he is a hypocrite; if he does not he is a hardened sinner.

If he is affectionate he is "soft"; if he is not, he is "cold blooded."

If he spends money he is a spend-thrift; if he saves it he is a tightwad.

If he dies young he had a wonderful future ahead of him; if he lives to a ripe old age he never amounted to much anyway. So why worry. — The Telephone Echo.

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Prices held generally firm with a sharp increase in the price of eggs on Belleville Saturday Market.

"A" select eggs were quoted at 28c per dozen in most quarters with a few vendors holding out for 30c. Mediums were offered at 25c and some ungraded stocks at 26c a dozen.

Chicken offerings were fairly heavy in the inside market where four-month-old birds were offered at $1.00 each. Choice broilers were quoted at from 70c to $1.00 per pair. New honey brought a fairly heavy demand from marketers with combs selling at 20c each. Strained honey was available in various weights. Farmers' butter quotations were fairly steady with two pound rolls selling at 60c and 65c.

Red and blue raspberries in heavy quantities featured a good fruit display with boxes selling at 10c each for the blues and reds at two boxes for 25c in some quarters, although cheap prices were available. Canning factory prices were quoted at 8c per box by some vendors who added that market prices would likely stabilize at a few cents above that price.

Strawberries were scarce with an inferior quality selling at three and four boxes for 25c. Montmorency and Early Richmond Cherries were quoted at 55 and 40 cents for 6-quart baskets, the O-Heart variety sold at 80c and 90c for the same quantity. Red and white currants were available at 10c per berry box.

New peas noted a decrease, as increasing quantities appeared on the market. Quarts were offered at 15c and 20c each with buying being sluggish during the early hours. New potatoes were likewise plentiful with bushel lots selling briskly at $1.00 each, while peck lots sold at 30c. New cauliflower in choice quality were popular with shoppers selling at from 8c per head. Cabbage, grown in local gardens, sold at from 5c per head upwards.

New beets, onions, carrots, lettuce and other spring vegetables were plentiful, selling in bunch lots at 5c each.

Yellow transparent apples made their appearance with pecks selling at 35c and half-pecks at 20c. Huckleberries were abundant in basket and box with the former selling at from $1.00 to $1.25 for six-quart quantities, while boxes sold at varying prices.

Trout and whitefish were the only fish varieties offered, both at 20c per pound with a slight additional charge for filleting and slicing.

CHEESE BOARD

Of a total of 2,535 white and 33 coloured cheese offered on the Belleville Cheese Board, 263 white and 33 coloured were sold at 14 and one-eighth cents, the rest selling at 14 and one-sixteenth cents. The buyers were McCreary, Morton, Cooke, Murphy, Fraleigh, Myers, and Stiles. Forty-eight factories boarded cheese.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Must Be T.B. Tested

The judgment of the majority of county councils in Ontario in supporting the Livestock Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in its efforts to have every county in Ontario made a T.B. restricted area for cattle has proven sound in view of the recent action taken by the United States Department of Agriculture governing cattle being shipped to that country.

These regulations in substance state all Canadian cattle being exported to the U.S.A. other than those for immediate slaughter, must have a qualified veterinarian's certificate showing they have been tested within 30 days of date of shipment and found free of bovine tuberculosis. This, however, does not apply to cattle exported directly from an accredited area. It means that a veterinarian's certificate is not required for cattle in the Ontario counties already tested and the owners will be able to export freely.

The reason given by American officials for their new law is that practically all United States cattle are tested and they wish to maintain this status and keep T.B. out of their herds.

This new ruling will probably require the testing of at least 100,000 Canadian cattle annually sent to the U.S. for feeding purposes.

The Tobacco Crop

Weather conditions during the month were very favourable for establishment and early growth of the tobacco crop except for some wind damage on the lighter and poorly protected flu-cured fields in the Norfolk area. Approximately 5,000 acres of flu-cured tobacco were blown out by high winds in the Norfolk district and about 5,000 additional acres were damaged to some extent. These blown-out areas were practically all replanted but the rest tobacco started rather slowly due to dry soil at the time. As a result some of the fields in the Norfolk district appear rather patchy.

The tobacco crop as a whole got a very good start and growth in the majority of fields has been particularly rapid. A large proportion of the crop will be harvested early this year. Some flu-cured tobacco has nearly reached the topping stage and priming will commence about the middle of July.

While planted acreage of all types is somewhat lower than the allotted acreage, the total acreage will be considerably greater than in 1937. No accurate figures are yet available on the actual acreage planted, but it is estimated at approximately 70,000 acres as compared with some 58,000 acres in 1937.

Damage from insects and diseases in the crop is practically normal to date. White cut worm damage was below average this year, the injury caused by wire-worms was slightly more than usual. Root-rot diseases have occurred in many fields but the loss to date is slightly less than in 1937.

Current Crop Report

Crop conditions in Ontario at the first of July were average to above average, according to reports received from representatives in all parts of the province. Fall wheat has ripened rapidly and harvesting has commenced in many districts, with prospects favourable for an above-normal yield. In Kent and Lambton counties, an average yield of 28 to 30 bushels per acre is indicated. Last year the yield for Ontario was 24.5 bushels.

Barley and early varieties of oats are now in and are reported as average to above average in condition, with the exception of several counties in Central Ontario where crops have suffered from lack of moisture. Crops are about four to seven days in advance of usual. In Northern Ontario the precipitation during June was fairly plentiful with the result that all crops have made very satisfactory growth and prospects are quite favourable.

Cutting of hay, clover and alfalfa has been about completed in Western Ontario and is nearing completion in Eastern Ontario. The yield is reported to range from only medium to average, but the quality is excellent, and the feeding value will be much higher than last year. In Northern Ontario growth of hay was rapid during June and production is expected to exceed that of 1937.

In Western Ontario growth and development of tree fruits, grapes and raspberries has been good, but hot, dry weather adversely affected strawberry production in many areas. Sour cherries suffered from a heavy June drop of fruit and yellowing of foliage.

Some scab infestation is showing on apple foliage and fruit in most districts, but is chiefly confined to poorly-sprayed or unsprayed orchards as yet. Otherwise, insects and fungus pests have been well controlled by good prospects for fruit crops in Ontario at present are estimated as follows: Apples, slightly below average to aver-

Hulless Oats for Weanling Pigs

Young pigs have high efficiency for the conversion of nourishing food into weight increase but low efficiency for the utilization of fibre. Kept for this latter fact, ordinary oats would be a suitable grain, but the hulls dilute the food too much, and, unless very finely ground or else coarse enough to be rejected during mastication they irritate and clog the digestive tract. It is often advised to screen oat chop for weanling pigs, but this is a laborious task frequently neglected.

Unless mechanical means can be found to dehusk ordinary oats, the simpler way is to grow a variety that threshes free of the hull. Years ago the late Sir (then Dr.) Chas. E. Saunders bred two such varieties, Liberty and Laurel, for the express purpose of feeding young pigs and chickens for making oatmeal porridge. Laurel proved slightly the heavier yielder, but is rather short-strawed for droughty seasons. In 19 years' tests at Beaver-lodge Liberty proved about three and a half days earlier than Banner and yielded nearly 85 per cent. as much meat. In a brief comparison Laurel matured practically with Banner, yielding 53 bushels per acre as against 51 for Liberty.

Both varieties of hulless are prone to smut infestation and are easily injured by formaldehyde, but careful treatment with copper carbonate or mercuric dusts ensures a clean crop.

Hulless oats cross readily with ordinary oats. It is important to take pains to ensure purity and then it may be necessary to go back from time to time for re-selected foundation stock.

Hulless oats are rather tough to thresh and summer storage in bulk is sometimes a problem.

Feeding trials at Beaverlodge years ago indicated that when hulless oats constituted a large percentage of the grain ration for pigs and poultry there was a pronounced tendency to overfatness, but this does not apply to a few weeks use for the weanlings. The hulless oats may be creep-fed whole on a clean board floor or in a flat trough.

GROUNDHOG RESPONSIBLE WHEN MILK SUPPLY DROPS

Puzzled for some days for the reason of one of his dairy cows showing a decrease in her giving of milk, A. Maynard, a Brockville district farmer, recently discovered the reason. On going to the pasture to bring the cows to the barn for milking, the farmer found the cow that had been causing the worry lying down. He went over to investigate and found a groundhog enjoying an evening meal of fresh milk, a practice that had been going on for some time past.

PRESENTATION TO RAWDON TEACHER

On Thursday evening, June 23rd, the members of the Rylestone Community League met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mumby in honour of Miss Margaret Wright, who at the end of the term will be severing connections with the community, since she has been engaged as Principal of West Huntingdon Public School.

Mr. Lawrence Melkielejohn acted as chairman and after a programme consisting of solos, readings and music Miss Vera Stewart read an address and Miss Pearl Stewart presented Miss Wright with an Adrienne set.

Miss Wright, although taken by surprise, replied briefly, thanking all for their gift and for the kindness shown her.

The gathering sang "For she's a Jolly Good Fellow" and afterwards luncheon was served and a social time spent. Following is the address read: Dear Margaret —

In view of the fact that you are leaving our community we League members have met here tonight. We felt that we couldn't let you go without letting you know how much we appreciate your willing service in our League. We will certainly miss you. We ask you to accept this little gift, not for its value, but just to show you we will always have happy memories of the two years you have spent in our midst.

Signed — Rylestone Community League.

On Wednesday afternoon the homes of the school section were well represented at a gathering at the Ninth Line School to bid farewell to the teacher, Miss Wright. After Miss Wright had distributed the report cards and presented each child with a souvenir, Marie Melkielejohn read an address and Don Barton, on behalf of the school, presented Miss Wright with a silver flower bowl filled with roses, and a table reflector.

Miss Wright replied with deep feeling, thanking the pupils for their lovely gift. She spoke of her enjoyment in working with the school board and pupils and how she especially valued the co-operation of the parents.

Several of the ladies served a delicious lunch and a social time was spent. Following is the address which was read:

Campbellford, Ont., R. R. 2, June 29, 1938

Dear Miss Wright,—

We the pupils of S.S. No. 12, Rawdon, and our parents, feel that we cannot let you leave us without in some way showing our sorrow at your departure and our appreciation of all you have done for us in the two years you have taught in our school.

We shall surely all miss you very much and your kind ways and thoughtfulness of others will not soon be forgotten.

We are giving you this little gift in hopes that you will remember us all. Please accept it with our best wishes, wishing you every success in your next school.

Signed on behalf of the Pupils, Parents and Young People of S. S. No. 12, Rawdon.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

(Winchester Press)

Talking about defense — five British bombers flew from England to the Persian Gulf and back to Egypt in a non-stop flight of over 4,000 miles the other day, with a full load of bombs and equipment. With the development of such planes and the possibilities they hold for spreading death and destruction, the Atlantic Ocean does not seem to be half wide enough to make Canada safe from the air.

REMEMBER THE SABBATH

(Port Hope News)

No one can quarrel with the Attorney-General for suggesting that the Sabbath law be revised! People today do a lot of things on the Sabbath that our forefathers would never think of doing. In fact it was an unwritten law, although a Divine one, that men should remember the Sabbath Day to keep it Holy — and they remember the Day in those former years.

BEAUTY PROBLEMS

Discussed by Barbara Lynn

(Eminent Beauty Authority and Adviser who writes weekly articles on Beauty Problems for many Canadian Newspapers)

I make my bow to the readers of this paper with pleasure. My daily mailbag already testifies to the tremendous interest in the subject of Beauty, and after all, who can be surprised at it?

Where is the girl or woman who doesn't wish to improve her appearance? Not all of us can achieve outstanding beauty, but we CAN make the most of what we have. Care and regular attention to one's appearance will enable even the plainest woman to look nice.

What ARE the problems that worry most women in regard to beauty? There are no end of them, if my mailbag is any criterion! Some of them, of course, recur far more than others.

Slimming

Obesity, for instance, seems to trouble a multitude of women. The demand for slimming guidance never falters. There are so many amateur slimming methods that it is no wonder women who are troubled with excess poundage get baffled, and are eager to write a beautician for some simple straightforward advice.

Then there are those who whilst not corpulent, wish to reduce in one part of their body — perhaps the hips, or the thighs, legs or arms.

Superfluous hair is a very real blemish and a gnawing worry to those afflicted by it. Skin blemishes, wrinkles, hair troubles, undeveloped or sagging busts; I could go on recapitulating them indefinitely.

And how often do we read of Underweight? Not often, and yet it is a grave problem to quite a number of women.

In these weekly articles I shall take up the various beauty problems one by one.

Write for Advice

Won't you please write and let me know how you like them? I never tire of receiving letters from readers. And don't hesitate to ask my help in your personal beauty problems.

Sometimes there are problems that are too intimate to be dealt with in newspaper articles, others that can be broached in only a general way. By writing to me you can be quite sure that your letter will be treated confidentially and a personal reply sent you direct under plain cover if you enclose a 3c stamp.

The following special leaflets have been prepared and you may obtain any of them by sending a 3c stamp for each one required: How to Slim; Underweight; The Face — and Its Care; Superfluous Hair; Reducing in Spots — Thighs, Legs, Hips, etc.; Hand Beauty; Bust development; Caring for the Feet; Your Hair; Eye Beauty. These leaflets are up-to-the-minute and deal exhaustively with their subjects. When writing please mention name of this paper.

Address your letters to:

AFTER FREE PUBLICITY

(Paris Star)

Considerable amusement was caused at a recent gathering of weekly newspaper men when A. D. McKittrick, editor of the Orangeville Banner, presented a tabulated report on requests for free publicity received in a period of ten days. The combined space ran to over 500 inches, which, if printed at regular rates, would amount to $150 or more, and would take up twenty-five columns or four extra pages. The same story could have been told by every weekly newspaper in Ontario. Space in a newspaper means exactly to the publisher what a can of salmon or peaches or any other commodity does to a grocer. If he cannot sell them he is out of luck. Yet all sorts of people and organizations who would not dream of walking into a store and helping themselves, have no hesitation in panhandling when it comes to newspaper space.

GEORGE R. POST

Following an illness of some weeks' duration, one of the most respected and widely-known residents of Huntingdon Township passed away at his late residence, West Huntingdon, in the person of George R. Post.

The deceased, who was a son of the late Mr. Eliza and Mary Elizabeth Post, was born on the fourth concession of Huntingdon township on September 10, 1860. He spent his entire life in this township. His painful illness was borne with great patience and cheerfulness.

His parents were descendants of the United Empire Loyalists and he had inherited the sterling qualities of his loyal parents. He always stood firmly for those things which he knew to be right and good and true.

Early in life he joined the organization known then as Orange Young Britons and a little later the Orange Lodge at Beulah, of which he remained a valued member until taking up residence on the corner of North and Church Street, when he became a member of L.O.L. No. 300, West Huntingdon. He was honored by this lodge as an honorary member and senior committee man.

In religion Mr. Post was for many years a faithful member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon, and held the office of elder for many years. At the time of union he transferred his membership to the United Church at West Huntingdon where he was made elder and held that position until the time of his death.

In politics Mr. Post was a staunch Conservative and was deeply interested in all the work of his party. The confidence of his neighbours was evidenced by the fact that for a number of years he was township councillor and held the office of township treasurer for twenty-six years. He was also secretary-treasurer of the school section for 14 years. The words of Samuel Walter Foss seemed to be the motto of the late Mr. Post:

"Let me live in a house by the side of the road, and be a friend to man."

Left to mourn his loss and to whom the sympathy of the community is extended are his widow (formerly Miss Sarah Rollins), four daughters, Mrs. Lorne Brough, of Zion's Hill; Mrs. Harry Lee of 240 William Street, Belleville; Mrs. W. J. Tuft, of Zion's Hill; Mrs. Sandy McCurdy, of West Huntingdon; one son, Elmer, at home. One daughter predeceased him 2 years ago. Eleven grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Jane Madden, of Lacombe, Alta., also survive.

Stop and let the train go by,
It hardly takes a minute.
Your car starts off again intact,
And better still — you're in it!

HEAD-ON CRASH INJURES FOUR

Two persons sustained serious injuries and are in the Belleville General Hospital, along with two others, following a head-on motor crash, that occurred three miles east of Kaladar on Highway No. 7, shortly before midnight Sunday night.

The more seriously injured are Bruce Powers, R.C.A.F., and Donald Garrison, R.R. No. 5, Belleville. The others injured in the accident are Archie Sprange and J. Paul Desloges, both of the R.C.A.F.

The three members of the R.C.A.F. were proceeding westerly on Highway No. 7 in an automobile driven by Desloges, according to information received by Motorcycle Patrolman Hatch, Marmora, who investigated, when the vehicle driven by Desloges is alleged by the officer to have collided with a car driven in the opposite direction by Donald Garrison, R.R. No. 5, Belleville. The injured men were attended by Dr. George of Madoc, at the scene of the crash and later removed to the Belleville General Hospital.

ACCIDENT NEAR CHATTERTON PUTS SIX IN HOSPITAL

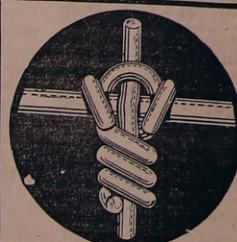

Six persons were in the Belleville General Hospital suffering from severe lacerations following a motor accident, which occurred a mile west of Foxboro on Highway No. 14 shortly after 3.00 a.m. on Monday, while the automobile in which they were riding was completely demolished, after having crashed into a tree.

The injured persons include Harvey Bailey, 25, of Trenton, leg injuries and facial lacerations; Mrs. Peggy Aubin, Belleville, head cuts and shock, Miss Gladys Aubin, chest, face and arm lacerations and internal injuries, Miss Ruth Marsh, Belleville, head lacerations and bruises, Judson Mallory, Trenton, broken nose and facial cuts, and Lansing Hudgin, R.C.A.F., facial injuries. All of the injured persons were taken to Belleville by passing motorists and admitted to the hospital.

Motorcycle Patrolman Sam Ervine investigated the accident and reported that a Trenton taxi, driven by Harvey Bailey, was proceeding easterly when the car collided with the rear wheel of a westbound motor car, driven by Earl Thompson, Shannonville, who escaped injury. The Bailey-driven car continued its course on the highway for a distance of 170 feet, before crashing into the ditch and colliding head-on with a large tree. The car was completely demolished, while the occupants sustained their more severe injuries as the result of flying glass and general shock.

Motorcycle Patrolman Ervine stated charges were pending in the matter, but no action would be taken against the driver until the return to the city of B. C. Donnan, K.C., County Crown Attorney, who is at present in Northern Ontario on business.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

TENTH INSTALMENT

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Single Shot. Both are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action and straight shooting fells a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by nesters and involved in a claim dispute. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands — a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to see the town banker, Mr. Pearson. Mortgage is renewed and Dave decides to get enough money to pay off the mortgage by raising alfalfa and selling it. Following night, the lake is blown up, and Dave inwardly accuses Hammond. The latter blames Dave. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions.

Rosy's guns spoke in three lances of flame, the last shot bringing darkness. Rosy pushed Laredo from him, then moved quickly after the little foreman. As Rosy expected, the insulted outlaw had drawn his guns and was shooting in the dark. He shoved the door open and fell forward. A white of slugs sank over his head. He rolled out of range, dragging Laredo, and lunged to his feet.

Across the street fronting squarely on the alley was the sheriff's office. Rosy made for it. He remembered the room contained a cot and without striking a match he found it. Laredo was sleeping peacefully as Rosy laid him on the cot. He left the building, closing the door carefully behind him.

He drew a deep breath. Things were shaping up. He knew now that the understrapper in the saloon had been following him, and that the fight with Laredo had merely been a pretense to shoot it out with him. Rosy. The man had wanted to kill him. Why? Who was Sayres? Laredo had told so little about him that Rosy was curious.

He fished around for a stub of a pencil in his pocket, tore the back off a soiled envelope and wrote: "Quinn: If I was you, I'd change my room to-night. Rand." Maybe it was unnecessary, but this understrapper had seen him talking to Quinn, and Rosy didn't want the gambler pulled into the trouble.

He flagged a young Mexican, gave him a dollar and told him to deliver the note to Quinn.

Then Rosy ducked back into the alley and headed for the livery stable. The office of the livery stable was lighted and Rosy strolled in. An old man was sitting at a desk, poring over a feed catalogue. Rosy sized him up at a glance. The man had good eyes, a kind, homely face, and was slow in movement as he looked up at Rosy while still leafing the pages. "Oh," Rosy said. "The other feller ain't here?" "The night man? Louie? No. I give him the night off. Anything I can do for you?" "Where does this Sayres hang out at?"

"Used to be up in them badlands behind Old Cartridge, but they tell me he's pulled out of there. You got to ride up the valley a ways, then turn east into them mountains. They say you can get across them, but I'm danged if I know how. Sayres does. Leastways, people think that's where he hangs out."

"Much obliged, old-timer," Rosy said. "I reckon I'll look somewhere else." He swung out the door into the night. That helped. Could it be Sayres was the man who had done the dynamiting?

He didn't know, but he was going to find out. He heard a train whistle far off and headed for the station. "You on the morning run out of here?"

"Sure. Every other morning. Why?" "Was there a little short jasper got on here this morning? Dark, in black clothes, city clothes. Had black eyes, and pretty mouthy in his talk."

Hoagy snapped his fingers. "I remember him. I never did find out where he got off. I never seen him and I didn't get his ticket."

"Then he got off?" Rosy said eagerly. "Where?" "Before Walpals, the first town east."

"That's all I wanted to know."

He jogged up the alley, turned at the bank, walked over to the Free Throw and got his horse. As he swung past the hotel, his bay was at full gallop.

Rosy reached the ranch well after one o'clock. The house was dark still, and he wondered if Hank Lowe had stayed all night.

He let down the corral bars, unhooked his hull and slung it off his bay, whistling in a minor key the while. He heard a sharp object strike the barn and he stopped.

"That cinch buckle," he groaned softly. "If I don't find it tonight, I never will."

He slung the saddle over the corral bars, then strode straight over to the barn. Squatting, he struck a match and started to look for the buckle.

A low cry escaped him. There, in the soft dirt of the corral, was the same footprint that he had seen at the lake.

He stared, unbelieving, his mind racing. The match burned him and died, and he struck another. This time he measured the track, but he knew it was the same. Whose could it be? His? No. Mary's or Dave's? No. The sheriff's? Hardly. Winters'... Yes! Now he remembered. Winters wore army boots, or eastern riding boots.

Rosy squatted against the barn, his heart numb. It was Winters all right. Whether he wanted to believe it or not, Winters knew about the lake being dynamited. This, together with Quinn's evidence, was damning. And the cigarette butt.

Sick at heart, he turned into the stable, crawled up into the loft to wait for dawn.

Rosy sat erect with a lunge. He had been asleep and it was already daylight. Was he too late? No. There was the sheriff's voice below, and Winters' genial laugh. He found a crack in the boards and could look down into the corral. They were saddling up.

"You like an early start, don't you?" the sheriff drawled amiably. "Sure. I'm up every morning before the rest of them are," Winters said.

Rosy saw Winters let down the corral gate, and both men led their horses through.

"Say," the sheriff said. "I might ride down with you at that. It's early yet."

"I've got to ride over and tell those nesters about the lake," Winters said. "Maybe it'll crowd you."

"Yeah. Guess I better not at that. It'll put me in town pretty late. Well, so long."

Both men mounted, the sheriff heading up the long slope to the notch, Winters to the south toward Soledad.

Winters had done a smooth job of getting the sheriff out of the way, Rosy thought bitterly. With a sinking heart, Rosy admitted that it looked as if Winters was expecting Crowell, and had gone down to meet him.

He climbed down into a stall and sat on the feedbox.

He built a cigarette to steady his nerves before he saw Mary. What was he going to tell her?

Finally he hitched up his belt and walked toward the house.

Inside, Mary looked up from the table. She had been sitting staring out the window.

"Hullo, Rosy." She forced a weak smile. "Where's Dave?"

"He stayed in town. He had some business."

"I didn't hear you come in."

"I'm part Injun," Rosy grinned.

"Reckon you got any cold hotcakes I can have?" He cursed himself for not brushing the hay off his clothes better.

"Sure. And the coffee's hot." She rose.

Suddenly Mary whirled.

"What will we do, Rosy? What's it all about?" she cried.

"Why don't you tell me? Isn't it half my spread? Are you afraid I can't bear to hear the truth?"

"What did Hank tell you?" Rosy asked.

"Nothing! Except that the lake had been blown out on top of Hammond's mine, and both it and our spread are ruined."

Rosy shook his head slowly, preparing his lie. "It's no wonder Hank didn't tell you any more. He couldn't. None of us can. We don't know who did it. But one thing we're sure of — Hammond didn't."

Mary sighed and turned to the stove. That was over, but the worst was to come, Rosy thought. He put it off until fresh hotcakes were before him and he had put away a plateful.

"Some jaspers comin' to try and buy the ranch this mornin'," he announced.

"Who?"

"Dunno," he lied coolly. "Just heard. Dave heard about it too. He says not to sell just in case he wasn't home when this jasper got here."

"I want you to hid me so I can hear what this jasper says that wants to buy the ranch. I got to." His serious tone impressed Mary, for she nodded mutely.

"It's none of my business, understand," Rosy said, knowing that he was blushing, but persisting anyway; "but I've got to hear him."

"Can you tell me why, Rosy?" she asked him.

"Wait!" Rosy commanded, holding up his hand. They were quiet. The steady beat of hoofs came to them and Mary ran to the window.

"Why it's Ted — and a stranger. Is that the man Rosy?"

"I reckon," Rosy said shortly. "Where can I hide? And you better get these dishes cleared away."

Mary ran to the front room, Rosy following her. He picked the low davenport, over which a huge Navajo rug was thrown, for his hiding place.

Mary held it up while he crawled under. As he was on his knees, he looked up at her. "Remember. Don't sign anything. And believe me, I'm trying to help you."

He heard the two men enter the kitchen, the sound of voices, then Mary saying distinctly: "Come into the front room, Mr. Crowell."

Rosy heard them enter the room and take chairs around the fireplace, which was cold now. Crowell offered Winters a cigar, which he accepted with thanks, and lighted.

Winters spoke now, his voice thick with cigar smoke. "I met Mr. Crowell on the way to Soledad, darling, and he asked me to come back with him. I think he's going to give us some money, so listen carefully."

"Mrs. Winters," Crowell began, and Rosy noticed his voice was confident and smooth, "perhaps you don't remember my name. I'm the Crowell that's written you about selling the ranch."

"But I thought — I — I thought those letters were written by Hammond, and just signed 'Crowell'."

"Hammond?" Crowell asked vaguely.

"Yes. He owns the Draw Three mine in Single Shot. Frankly, I was sure it was Hammond because none ever came to inquire in person."

Crowell laughed genially. "I was merely feeling you out because this ranching syndicate I work for wasn't quite sure it wanted the property. We are now, however."

"I'm sorry," Mary said. "I don't want to sell."

"That's strange," Crowell said. "When I talked with your brother last night, he was sure that you'd want to sell, too."

"Too?" Mary said.

Rosy heard some papers rustle. "Yes. In my hotel room last night when he signed this deed, he told me he thought you'd be willing to let your half go at a reasonable price, now that the water's gone."

The paper rustled again and Rosy heard Mary gasp. "But — it's signed. Signed by Dave?"

"Is there anything the matter?" Crowell asked politely.

"No. I'm sorry," Mary said. "It — it was just such a surprise. When did you see him, Mr. Crowell?"

"I can tell you exactly," Crowell said. "He had to run to catch a train."

"I presume so."

Rosy raged silently. Where had Crowell got Dave's signature? A forgery?

PEDESTRIANS MUST LEARN TO REDUCE HIGHWAY TOLL

"Highway accident tolls will be sharply reduced when pedestrians learn to think of themselves as a distinct group in the highway traffic stream," Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario minister of highways, stated in an appeal issued today asking for co-operation from all users of the streets and highways in the press campaign of advertising now being carried on throughout the province, aimed at cutting down the toll of fatalities and injuries.

"Pedestrians have remained strongly individualistic through all the years of rapid growth in vehicular traffic," he explained, "while motorists are increasingly conscious of themselves as a class. Motorists have trained themselves, and are being trained, to keep their minds on the job of driving, while they have a wheel in their hands. Too many pedestrians have their minds anywhere except on the job of walking on the streets and highways in a manner that will prevent an accident involving themselves and possibly other travellers on the highway."

daughter, Josephine, of Haldimand Township, near Cobourg. The boy was arrested a few hours after the assault, hiding in a grain field on the nearby farm of his uncle, Wilbert McMann. Bert Oliver, the youth's father, said the boy had been worried by being ordered to stay away from the girl by Mrs. Parker.

About dawn on Monday, an assailant, using a ladder, entered the second-storey bedroom in which Mrs. Parker and her daughter slept. The women lived alone. Waving an axe the man threatened to kill both women and did strike one blow, felling Mrs. Parker with the side of the axe. The woman's pleas for mercy were granted, but he pulled Josephine out into the hall and ordered her to drink something he had in a dipper. She refused and he left, saying he was going to drown himself in a little lake close by. After the girl helped her mother into bed, she ran downstairs when she smelled smoke and found the couch and part of a wall in flames. She put the fire out with water from the kitchen. She then tried to telephone police, but the wires were cut and she had to run to a neighbour's. Contents of the dipper have been turned over to Dr. W. E. Wilkins, of Cobourg, who is sending it to the Provincial Analyst, Prof. Joslyn Rogers.

UPS AND DOWNS OF LIFE

How many of us realize the dependence of modern civilization upon vertical transportation or that the elevators of a great city like New York, carry more passengers per day than all street cars, bus and urban railway services combined? The Empire State Building is equipped with 58 main passenger elevators, designed and scheduled to transport 15,000 people between 5 p.m. and 5.30 p.m. daily.

Another surprise. In Canada there has sprung up a novel industry which not only supplies the domestic market but also exports its product to thirty-two foreign countries. And that particular product is steel doors for elevators, an important item when it is remembered that a modern elevator is just as good as its doors.

It began this way. When an architect in Shanghai, China, came to get doors for his 102 elevators in the great Joint Savings Bank Buildings, he had two things to consider. First they had to be fireproof, rot-proof, non-shrinking, unaffected by heat or humidity and impervious to vermin. Secondly he had to design them in a way so as to fit in with the colour schemes of the fourteen different floors. So the Shanghai bankers came to Canada and in Hamilton they found doors — steel elevator doors upon which Canadian craftsmen made play with blacks, browns, reds, tans, greens and creams to intrigue the eyes of Chinese mandarins in Shanghai.

Today steel doors from Hamilton are carried on mule pack trains through the Andes passes to the interior of Columbia in South America. They are in service in Panama and Peru, Bolivia and Chile. They have been used to withstand the humidity of Bermuda and the dryness of Morocco, Europe, France, England and Roumania are using them. They go to Japan, Australia and New Zealand and nearer home to Newfoundland, Cuba and Mexico.

In Canada at the last census there were between four and five hundred elevator tenders whose safety, as well as that of the passengers depends upon the reliability of elevator doors.

DIED FROM EXPOSURE

Robert Doxtator, 33-year-old cripple of Shannonville, who was found in a church shed on Thursday night after wandering for a day and two nights in the marsh lands and woods south of the village, died at his home on Friday afternoon from extreme exposure.

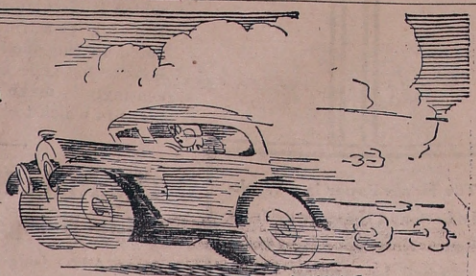

The young man was the object of a search by a posse of nearly 200 men, women and children Wednesday night and Thursday. Doxtator was placed under the care of Dr. E. H. Eckardt, who would not permit anyone outside his immediate family to see him. He succumbed to cardiac failure due to exposure shortly after 1.30 o'clock on Friday. Mr. Doxtator suffered from infantile paralysis when a boy and since that time has never been in good health. Paralysis left the boy crippled in his left leg. Last winter he was operated on for appendicitis and was just recovering.

Wednesday afternoon the young man left home to get the family cow and failed to return. A posse was organized by Provincial Police and the woods and swamp land in the district was combed for nearly twenty-four hours. Surviving the deceased are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Doxtator, and one sister, Mrs. Cecil McCarthy, of Shannonville. He was a member of the Anglican Church at Shannonville.

COVERING THE WORLD OF SPORT

In a sense it is funny. We mean the way England has taken to baseball in the past few years, referring to it as a "new game" when it is really but a combination of Cricket and Rounders as played in England for centuries. True, a vast number of rule changes have divorced baseball completely from both of these British sports, but nevertheless its origin can be traced back to the British Isles.

This year baseball is reaching a new high in the Old Country, with many Canadians taking leading roles in the increasingly popular pastime. One of these is Danny Wright, of St. Thomas, Ont., who is earning the plaudits of the fans (or should we say supporters) in and around Halifax, Yorkshire. Danny is manager and star pitcher of the Halifax line and his feat in leading the club to the top of the English League has pleased the Halifaxians "no end." Here is what one T. T. Dickinson has to say in an English newspaper:

"Danny Wright and his boys at the Shey continue to make headway. Before the game with Rochdale Greys, I was told by a prominent league official that Halifax would do extremely well to win, for Rochdale is one of the strongest clubs in the league and play with a zest which is not often seen even in a snappy game like baseball. But Wright was again in his best form on the pitcher's mound and has the support of some really first-class fielding. Each match teaches us something new about this new game. For instance, spectators saw what was known as a double-play by the Halifax infield. When Webster fielded a ball away from first base, Wright ran to first to take his throw and then threw to second, where Adams tagged out the man who was endeavouring to get across from first to second. It was all done very quickly and went to show that Halifax is becoming a very smart team in the field. Rochdale failed to get a man home and suffered a shut-out and it was a credit to Danny and his team that Halifax was the first team to do so this season."

All of which sounds quite naive to the rabid Canadian ball fan. It reminds us of the story of the late King George V. and the late John "Muggsy" McGraw. McGraw, then manager of the New York Giants, had taken a team to England for a series of exhibitions and the King attended, requesting McGraw to sit in the Royal box and explain the game to him as it progressed. Following a certain play, McGraw elucidated that it was a "sacrifice hit." "How very sporting!" was His Majesty's typically British rejoinder.

QUESTIONS DEPT. — What is the greatest sporting country in the world? (Answer at foot of column).

SPORTS ODDITY — A crowd of 110,000 attended the annual U.S.A. corn husking championship at Newton, Indiana, on Nov. 8, 1935.

It took a war to bring it about, but Finland is going to have its opportunity to prove to the world that the Olympic Games can be staged in simplicity and in natural settings without losing an iota of their appeal as an international sports gathering. When the international committee met in Berlin two years ago, the Finns made a strong bid for the 1940 games, pleading for a chance to return the tourney to the spartan-like simplicity and purity of their origin. But the learned and bearded solons turned a deaf ear and awarded the next series to Japan, whose representatives spoke in terms that outmoded the utterings of the most voluble Hollywood publicity agent.

But the aforementioned learned and bearded solons reckoned without time, which has slipped in a grim joker in the form of the Sino-Japanese war. Ever since the outbreak of hostilities, with Japan in the role of aggressor, nations of the world have clamoured for a change of venue, arguing that the staging of the games in a nation at war would be travesty on the noble objectives of the Olympics. The Committee refused to act in an arbitrary manner, however, and it remained for Japan to voluntarily withdraw, with the result that the 1940 games will be staged in Helsinki, capital of the little nation at the head of the Baltic.

The Finns, a hardy race by national heritage, will offer little in the matter of grandiose spectacle. There will be none of the national parading of "kultur" such as was evident at Berlin two years ago when storm troopers outnumbered athletes and swastikas were entwined in the ancient laurel wreaths of victory. No immense stadia crammed with humanity in its thousands, no super-super accommodations for the athletes, no ultra-Broadway methods in the staging of the various events. In fact, all the trimmings will be thrown into the discard and there will be left — the Olympic Games.

—Twas ever thus. The ambition of the great majority of schoolboys to be either heavyweight champion of the world or a detective. Today we have with us a boy who has achieved one of the pet ambitions, who has scaled the ladder of fistiana, climbed rung by rung until he surveys the realm from the topmost peak. Money is beyond the dream of his boyhood, fame such as no other man of his race has achieved. But is he happy? Is he content to sit back and consider himself a success? No, he still wants to be a detective. Joe Louis is, of course, the hero of this stirring little narrative, and if he is sincere in his professed desire to quit the ring and go into the sleuthing business we can only say that it would be tough on any second-storey men that the Brown Bomber might meet in a dark alleyway, but cause for loud cheers from the second-stringers in the fight business. Cynamagine Joe with meerscham pipe and magnifying glass?

ANSWERS DEPT. — Australia is recognized as the greatest sporting country in the world. There are about 7,000,000 inhabitants, of which 3,000,000 are adults, yet the combined attendance at all sports contests annually is beyond 25,000,000.

DIAMONDS SOAR AGAIN

Precious stones are again in demand in Europe and prices are advancing. Paris reports important buying by people who want to guard against falls in the value of the French franc. London has received reports that Americans abroad are purchasing worthwhile stones as investments, paying up to $50,000 each for solitaires. Lloyd's has had a large demand for diamond insurance recently, in spite of the organization's new rule that owners can no longer insure against war risks. This is expected to cause uneasiness among gem owners in Spain or Shanghai, for Lloyd's will not reimburse for stones lost during the fighting there.

FLIES ARE A MENACE TO EVERY COMMUNITY EVERYWHERE

Here is something for every mother to ponder over. According to a leading recognized medical authority, diarrhoea and enteritis (which are synonymous with summer diarrhoea) was the first cause of deaths among children, from the second to twelfth months of life, in Ontario during the period 1925 to 1929.

It is acknowledged in medical and scientific circles that common houseflies harbour germs in, and on, their bodies and may, therefore, introduce infections into foods on which they crawl.

How important it is, then, to protect milk and other liquids, feeding bottles and other receptacles from these filthy pests that threaten the lives of children with typhoid, diarrhoea and other dangerous diseases.

The dirtier the surroundings, the more flies will swarm and multiply in their myriads. Out-of-doors breeding spots such as uncovered garbage should be tightly covered; all refuse, manure, rotting matter, etc., should be cleaned up; all food and drink should be protected with coverings, and windows and doors carefully screened. If, however, with these precautions taken, flies should find their way into your home, a few Wilson's Fly Pads, placed around the house in convenient places, will soon kill them all. And, if the pads are kept in place during fly-time, they'll go a long way towards protecting your children from summer epidemics and your family and yourself from the dangers and irritation that are caused by flies.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES

OTTAWA

(By Dean Wilson)

If it is true that the so-called trade negotiations between the United States, Great Britain and Canada are in reality not as important in themselves as it is claimed in certain quarters, what then accounts for these secret and serious manoeuvres of the Governments at Washington, London and Ottawa? What is behind the scene of these history-making discussions that have been going on for many months? This momentous and grave subject is a topic that is now one of the main items of whispered conversation along Parliament Hill, and well-informed circles believe that it will be the basis of an interesting chapter in Canada's role as a secret leader of a vital effort to bring world peace to the international scene.

There are three points in this discussion. First, it seems that Canada's so-called sacrifices in this political expediency are grossly exaggerated. It must be mentioned that many press gossips have been without facts for their stories in regard to Canada's trade sacrifices in the present efforts of affecting a commercial union between the English-speaking nations of the globe. Canada's trade preferences in the United States and the Motherland will not be surrendered for mere sentimental reasons and the standards of living will not be lowered in this country as result of these new treaties. In fact, the very secrecy which has covered the movements of the Canadian officials of the Department of Trade, of External Affairs and of Finance are responsible for these exaggerated stories since experienced observers of national and international affairs know that such tactics always manage to arouse extreme curiosity on the part of newspaper reporters. If these events were to take place with less conspicuous actions, there would have been much less conjecture and a greater degree of secrecy than now is possible under these elaborate precautions. In other words Canada's trade will not be seriously jeopardized, nor will there be any major blow to Canadian preferences in the British or American markets in face of the mysterious movements of the authorities.

The second point in this discussion along Parliament Hill centres around the attitude of the Motherland. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is making supreme efforts to revive world trade as one medium to enter negotiations for world peace with every other power in Europe, but in this expansion he does not intend to sacrifice inter-imperial trade. His conception is based on a broad theory, not a narrow one, and in this national policy, Great Britain plans to uphold the spirit of the Ottawa agreements, though there is no doubt that there will be a union of an extensive and effective kind between the forces of the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations.

The third point is that if the present policy of the English-speaking nations of the world to demonstrate to all other powers that peace is profitable and war ruinous does not obtain the expected results, they will embark on a display of armed and economic force that will surpass the best efforts of any aggressive power of today. This united demonstration on the part of Uncle Sam and the British Commonwealth of Nations will command respect and experienced observers predict that a new chapter may be written in modern history, especially since the United States is slowly but surely coming out of the shell which has isolated that nation in recent years.

International gangsters have been trying to throw dust in the eyes of the democratic peoples of the world by displays of militaristic strength, but a strong reaction is now going to prove very costly and perilous to the whole well-being of these powers, with the United States leading the parade alongside of Great Britain. They plan to unite their forces for certain purposes only, and the present trade treaties are nothing but a start in this direction. Although press reports have tried to insinuate that many obstacles have stood in the way of these agreements, that is not correct. Important treaties always require more time and it is still another sign that trade alone is not the only consideration of these dealings, which involve peoples of a common language, tradition and racial origin. Modern history has shown clearly that any large army, navy, or other force cannot win a speedy and decisive victory over another force of similar strength and modern warfare causes conflicts to drag out until the economic resources really decide the winner. It is apparent in Spain, China, and United States and Great Britain are now acting on these experiences. While every section of the British Commonwealth has been arming, it is a comparative late development. However, the United States has been doing it for the past four years, with a billion dollars spent on rearmament during the time for each year, including 1938. They have united their Departments of State, War and Navy, and today every other power in the world meticulously and carefully respects any display by the armed forces of that country. Ever since it became obvious that no power intended to uphold the Washington Naval Treaty and the London Naval Treaty, United States has been preparing. The Roosevelt regime has been following a policy similar to that of Theodore Roosevelt, who held that righteousness should prevail between nation and nation as between man and man. Lately, the American people and the British masses have shown that when the choice lay between righteousness and peace, they chose righteousness, just as they chose righteousness when the choice lay between righteousness and war in the last Great War. In fact, it is the Governments of these two powerful democracies who have time and again urged a calmer attitude on the peoples of these countries, while the leaders were endeavouring to find a substitute for war in the settlement of international disputes.

In this international drama for the preservation of world peace, Canada is playing a leading and effective role which only future generations will learn in their history books. — (Reproduction Prohibited, 1938, Educational Features Syndicate.)

YOUR DONATION MAY SAVE A LIFE!

The use of modern health appliances and many other costly but vitally necessary items cannot be provided out of the Hospital's fixed allowances for needy patients.

Your donation makes sure that no child seeking a normal chance for health or escape from deformity will ever knock in vain at the door of this institution.

And it makes sure that no needed expense is spared when a little patient's future depends on treatment and attention costing more than is contemplated by the fixed grants made by Provincial and Municipal Governments. Remember, over 400 of our 420 beds are in Public Wards.

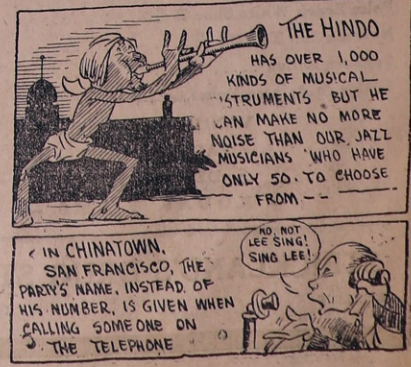

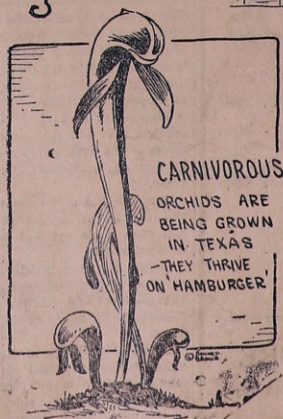

The Hospital receives no support from the Toronto Federation for Community Service because patients are accepted from all parts of the Province.

Please mail your gift to the Appeal Secretary, 67 College Street, Toronto.

STIRLING DRIVER IS BAILED FOR ASSIZE TRIAL

Although his counsel, C. A. Payne, of Belleville, made a strenuous claim that the crown had not made out a prima facie case to justify committal for trial either for manslaughter or criminal negligence, Russell West, 17, of Stirling, was bailed for trial following a preliminary hearing in a manslaughter count, by Magistrate E. A. Gee on Wednesday, the magistrate reducing the charge to criminal negligence.

West will be tried at the fall assizes and bail was fixed at $5,000. The charge arose out of a highway accident in Havelock on the night of July 3 when Thomas Anderson, retired C.P.R. conductor was killed on the outskirts of the village.

D. F. Miller, of Havelock was associated with Mr. Payne in defending West while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

The evidence offered by the Crown followed closely that given at the inquest held in Havelock although there were several new witnesses. Dr. Holdcroft, of Havelock, told of Anderson's injuries which included compound fractures of both legs and head injuries.

Jean McNabb, 15, of St. Louis, Missouri, in whose father's car West was driving when the accident happened, testified to seeing Anderson on the road just before he was hit, and of the man being struck by his car. She said that two other cars were approaching from the other direction and one was passing at the time of the accident, with its lights very bright. The car West was driving was being driven at a moderate speed, she said.

James Baskin, of Norwood, and G. W. Varty, of Havelock, were walking along the sidewalk near the scene of the accident and testified to hearing the brakes go on and of hurrying to the scene of the accident.

Baskin said the car driven by West was going at from 30 to 35 miles an hour and Varty stated that there could not have been anything reckless or unusual about the speed of the car or he would have noticed it.

Leo McGillen, newspaper reporter, identified four photographs of the scene of the accident and evidence as to hearing the brakes applied just before Anderson was hit was given by Dean Kelly who lives near the scene of the accident.

Tests are Made

Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton told of investigating the accident and taking measurements. There were skid marks for 98 feet, he testified, and Anderson's body had rested on the side of the road 22 feet further on. Together with Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure he had tested the car driven by West and had found that going down grade at 50 miles an hour it could be stopped in 100 feet, while up grade it stopped in 67 feet at 50 miles. On another test nearer the scene of the accident the skid marks continued for 69 feet on one wheel and 79 on the other.

This concluded the Crown evidence and Mr. Payne argued that no case had been made out and West should be discharged.

Crown Attorney McElderry pointed out that a man had been killed on a village street and that there were evidences of negligence on the part of the driver.

Magistrate Gee said that while a prima facie case might not have been made out on a manslaughter charge, there was sufficient evidence to justify committal on a charge of criminal negligence.

RIVER VALLEY W. I.

The July meeting of the River Valley W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. N. Rosebush on July 7th, with an attendance of ten and several visitors. The meeting opened by singing the Opening Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The minutes were read and approved. A financial report of the District annual was given by the Secretary. The proceeds were $15.25. The August meeting is to be held at the River Valley School in the form of Children's Day. Each director will be responsible for two numbers from the children. It was decided that the Institute spend $2.00 in candies and peanuts for the children. Each member is to bring either cake, sandwiches or lemonade. It was also decided to take a special collection to take care of the expenses. Means for making some money were discussed and all were in favour of dispensing with the Garden Party and having a chicken supper and dance later on. The roll call was taken, each member answering with some simple home remedy in case of an accident. Mr. A. Barrahar then spoke concerning the midnight frolics at Oak Lake. He pointed out that he was willing to close down the midnight frolics if all pavilions in the province were forced to do likewise. The meeting was then handed over to Mrs. D. Donohoe, who had charge of the programme on "Health". This part of the meeting opened with community singing, followed by a reading on "Fractures, Wounds, Burns and Dog Bites" by Mrs. P. Utman. Miss A. Hanna read a very interesting paper on carbon monoxide. A quartette then sang "O Promise Me", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. P. Utman. Miss Evelyn Bush gave some interesting facts concerning the pasteurization of milk. Mrs. Geo. Heasman told of different poisons and antidotes for each different type. Mrs. D. Donohoe gave the topic on "Health", concluding with a poem "We Moderns". All enjoyed a spelling match in which the words were in some way connected with "Health". A vote of thanks was given by Mrs. Rosebush for her home, after which a dainty lunch was served by some of the ladies. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

FOXBORO AND SHANNONVILLE MEET IN SEMI-FINALS

With two postponed games yet to play, the Foxboro club conceded Cannifton first position in the South Hastings League standing and will open the first round of the play-offs on their own diamond against the third-place Shannonville nine on Friday evening in a best two out of three series to decide an opponent for Cannifton in the finals. This was the decision arrived at when the league executives met in Cannifton Tuesday evening to determine positions and arrange play-off dates.

"Although it was still possible for the Foxboro team to gain a tie for first place honours had they won their two remaining games against the leaders. In order to get the league play-offs under way as quickly as possible they conceded first position to Cannifton and accordingly will fight it out with the Shannonville "Hawks" for the right to enter the final series. This marks the first occasion that the Shannonville team has made the play-off grade since the year of the league's inauguration, and in that year the teams finished in the same relative position that they are in at present. Cannifton finished in first place with Foxboro holding down second position, while Shannonville also finished in the money when they nosed out the Melrose nine. Upon that occasion the "Hawks" were eliminated by Foxboro with the latter team going on to defeat the Cannifton team in two straight games for the league championship. If history repeats itself Foxboro will again take possession of the silverware in the forthcoming series.

The first game will be played on Friday evening of this week at the Foxboro diamond with the return game being scheduled for next Monday at Shannonville, and if a third game is necessary, the two teams will get together as to what diamond it is played on, but it will be played on the following Wednesday. The final series with Cannifton will start either on Wednesday of next week or on the following Friday.

DEFEATED GLEN ROSS IN TUESDAY'S GAME 10-9 — FINAL PLAYED FRIDAY

Behind the stellar pitching of G. Broadworth, their speed-ball hurler, Springbrook defeated Glen Ross on Tuesday evening by the score of 10-9 and evened the series for the Championship of the Rawdon Softball League. The game was played on the home diamond of the losers and drew a couple of hundred fans who were treated to a display of both good and bad ball. Glen Ross were much below their usual form in fielding, with no less than nine errors being charged against them, while Springbrook had four. In hitting the winners also topped their opponents, gathering twelve hits off the offerings of R. Pyear and C. Smith, who shared the pitching duties for Glen Ross, while Broadworth held the losers to seven hits and had eleven strikeouts to his credit. Pyear and Smith each had one strikeout to their credit. McDonnell was the heavy slugger for Glen Ross with a homer, a triple, a double and a single to his credit.

Springbrook opened the scoring in the first inning when hits by M. Heath and Gibson, coupled with R. Pyear's error on G. Broadworth accounted for one run. They were blanked in the second but scored five in the third. Heath again started the rally with a single, D. Broadworth doubled to centre and when A. Fraser threw wide to third both runners scored. Gibson walked and Smith went to the mound to replace R. Pyear. Thompson singled and Burditt cleared the bases with a long single which went for a home run when Glen Ross were slow in fielding the ball. Springbrook added three more in the fourth on errors by Brown and Pyear and four hits, one a double by G. Broadworth. They were blanked in the fifth and sixth and scored what proved to be the winning run in the seventh on a walk to Sharp and hits by Holland and Heath.

Glen Ross scored two in the second on hits by G. Pyear and A. McDonnell and when Thompson made a bad throw home, both runners scored. In the fourth McDonnell hit a homer for their third run and G. Fraser tallied in the fifth to bring their total to four. A rally in the sixth which netted three runs brought them within striking distance of their opponents, a double by McDonnell, singles by A. Fraser and Smith and errors by D. Broadworth and McKeown being responsible. Down three runs in the seventh, Brown opened the inning by striking out, C. Pyear singled, Armstrong fanned, but McDonnell came through with a triple for a perfect average for the evening, scoring Pyear. A passed ball scored him from third and A. Fraser filed out to D. Broadworth to end the game.

The teams:
Springbrook — M. McKeown, c; M. Heath, 3b; D. Broadworth, ss; G. Broadworth, p; M. Gibson, 1b; C. Thompson, 2b; C. Burditt, cf; D. Sharpe, lf; A. Holland, rf.

Glen Ross — G. Fraser, 2b; R. Pyear, p; 3b; H. Brown, ss; G. Pyear, 1b; B. Hagerman, c; A. McDonnell, lf; C. A. Fraser, cf; J. Armstrong, lf; H. Brooks, rf; Smith replacing Pyear in the third.

Score by innings —
Springbrook 1053001—10
Glen Ross 0201132—9
Umpires: M. Fraser at plate, W. Jones 1st base, B. Morton 3rd.

THIRD PLAY-OFF GAME

The third game of the finals of the Rawdon Softball League will be played on Friday evening on the diamond at the Stirling Fair Grounds between Springbrook and Glen Ross. Each team has won one game and tomorrow night's game will decide the championship and the holder of the beautiful Faulkner Trophy for the coming year. Both games played have been thrilling contests with Glen Ross winning the first 8 to 4 and Springbrook taking the second by the close score of 10-9. Both teams are playing a sparkling brand of ball and the fans who journey to the Fair Grounds will be assured that in the final game they will find plenty of excitement.

Achievement Day

Hastings County Girls' Achievement Day was held at the Stirling Community Hall yesterday with a large attendance of girls and visitors from Madoc, Eldorado, Chatterton, Shannonville and Plainfield. Two projects were judged, "Being Well Dressed and Well Groomed" and "Cottons may be Smart," with thirty-four girls taking part. Throughout the day girls contested in judging and demonstrations which proved of keen interest to all those present. The program was in charge of Miss Greta Pollard, of the Institute Branch, Toronto, who has acted as coach for the leaders of the different Clubs. Miss F. P. Eadie, Assistant Director of the Institute Branch, was also present and assisted with the programme.

In each project the contestants were judged on their record books and on demonstrations, as well as their judging. As a result of the day's program Helen Whytock, Edith Morrow and Gladys Aylsworth, of the Eldorado Club, were chosen to represent Hastings County in the Judging and Demonstration Competition at the Peterborough Exhibition the latter part of August. Eileen Mitts, Bessie Frederick and Margaret Irvine, of the Chatterton Club will represent the County in the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, while Lillian Pigden, of Eldorado and Eileen Mitts and Bessie Frederick of Chatterton will be the County representatives in the Judging Competition at Toronto.

Mr. H. L. Fair, local Agricultural Representative, presented certificates to the members and badges to the leaders.

Announcement was made of a canning demonstration under the direction of Miss Pollard, to be held at Wallbridge on August 20th, under the auspices of the Wallbridge Garden and Canning Club.

Loses Barn and Hay

In one of the worst storms to pass over this district in some time, Angus Farrell, 4th concession of Rawdon, farmer, lost a large barn and some fifty loads of hay by fire caused by lightning on Friday afternoon. The storm was accompanied by hail said to be half the size of hens' eggs, which did considerable damage to standing crops. The windows in the Minto United Church and several farm houses were also broken by the hail.

The Farrell barn, situated on another property than the family homestead was struck shortly after five o'clock. Flames quickly demolished the frame structure that contained in the vicinity of fifty loads of hay. The building and contents were not covered by insurance and the loss is alleged to be in the neighbourhood of $1500.

Shower Is Held

Mrs. Nina Morton and Mrs. Nora Wescott entertained about twenty-five ladies on Wednesday afternoon at their lovely cottage, "Sharanook," at Oak Lake, in honour of Miss Betty Burch, a bride-to-be of the near future. The early part of the afternoon was spent at Bridge, Mrs. Pedley having the highest score, while Mrs. Burch starred at a game of "Star". Bach was the recipient of an attractive prize. A very dainty lunch was then served, after which a tea wagon laden with parcels was wheeled in by Isobel Dobbie, of Smiths Falls. Amid much gay repartee the guest of honour opened the boxes, which proved to contain a variety of beautiful cups and saucers.

The many friends of Miss Burch, over their teacups, wished her many long years of future wedded happiness.

GONE TO CAMP

Eight members of "B" Company of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment left here for camp at Barrie field on Sunday last. Transportation was by bus, leaving here about 8 o'clock for Marmora and Madoc. The camp opened on Saturday and will continue until August 3rd. Those going from here were: F. J. Turner, C.S.M.; Jack Hamilton, Ernest Hamilton, Frank Turner, Harold Alcombrack, Elgin Fitzgerald, Geo. Stoneburg and Frank Woods.

JUNIOR FARMERS ENJOY ANNUAL FIELD DAY

MADOC GIRLS WON THE FAULKNER TROPHY — SIDNEY BOYS WIN CUP

The Junior Farmers of Hastings County held their Annual Field Day at Stirling Fair Grounds on Thursday last. Rain which fell in the morning failed to dampen the spirits of the picnickers and several hundred boys and girls were on hand when the program finally got under way shortly after noon. The Faulkner Trophy, emblematic of the girls' championship of the County, was won by Madoc girls, who downed the Sidney team by a score of 25-14 in the first game, and eliminated Rawdon, last year's champions, in the final by 14-8.

In the Boys' tournament Sidney again had too much class for their opposition, and won the County Championship for the third consecutive year. Thus they become permanent holders of the beautiful silver trophy.

At the conclusion of the softball tournaments a picnic supper was held at Oak Lake, followed by a dance in the Casino Dance Pavilion. During the evening presentation of the trophies was made by Mr. H. L. Fair, Agricultural Representative, to Miss Keene, of the Madoc team, and to W. Shortt, of the Sidney team.

Boys' Games
In the first game of the tournament Sidney defeated Huntington by the score of 10 to 8. The all-round play of Shortt and Thrasher featured the play of the winners.

Huntington: Leslie Adams, Joe Kerby, L. Collins, C. Irvine, E. Jordan, F. Brough, M. Shaw, S. Collins, Wm. Redcliffe.

Sidney — L. Casidy, W. Shortt, Ray Thrasher, B. Cassidy, G. Miller, R. Rodford, C. Wood, R. Campbell.

The second game was played on the Glen Ross diamond and was between Rawdon Calf Club and Hungerford, with the former emerging winners by the score of 9 to 6. Starting carefully they split four runs in the first innings, gaining two each. Rawdon moved forward in the next two, gaining a total of eight runs and another before the game ended, at the same time holding the Hungerford crew tight to not more than one run an inning.

Rawdon — Art McDonald, Jeffs, D. Richardson, Ralph Richardson, Russ Pyear, E. Reynolds, H. Bedford, Carl Heath, Irvin Potts.

Hungerford — L. Gunning, B. Edwards, B. Maines, D. Bateman, B. Coulter, Eaton, W. Bateman, R. Price, E. Jones.

In the third fixture in the boys' division Rawdon defeated Madoc, former champions of the loop by a score of ten to four in a game that was much closer and harder fought than the score indicated. Broadworth and Meraw gave a fine display of pitching in their duel for supremacy. Rawdon gained two runs in the first, two in the second and six in the fourth. Madoc got two of their counters with Morick and Woods scoring in the second and Meraw and E. Woods in the fifth for the only counters of the day.

Rawdon: Bill Heath, Harry Brown, M. McKeown, Gerald Pyear, R. Barnum, G. Broadworth, F. Fraser, C. Thompson, D. Stapley and C. Burditt.

Madoc: C. Bailey, A. Montgomery, H. Meraw, E. Woods, G. Morick, C. Woods, S. Meraw, Elmer Woods, G. Luffman.

Sidney proved themselves superior when they rolled up a lead of seven

New Traffic Signs

In future all traffic proceeding east on Front St. will be required to come to a complete stop before entering on to Highway No. 14. On Monday employees of the Ontario Department of Highways erected a stop sign and painted a similar sign on the pavement at this intersection, and we have been asked to state that the regulation is to be rigidly enforced. The stop sign on James Street, where it meets Front Street E., was moved from the side to the centre of the street, while a number of road signs were also erected.

runs in the first half of the first innings in their game against Rawdon and climbed steadily to a total of 12 runs as against Rawdon's four. By virtue of this win the former champions again moved into the final and Rawdon took the count and elimination. Broadworth and Shortt were the duelling pitchers of the series, both playing up to their usual good form, with Shortt having a slight edge in the pinches.

Sidney: B. Johnston, J. Ray Thrasher, McMurter, Cassidy, Miller, Shortt, C. Wood, Campbell, Ketcheson.

Rawdon: Hagerman, M. McKeown, C. Thompson, D. Rodgers, G. Broadworth, C. Burditt, F. Fraser, D. Barnum, G. Pyear, D. Stapley.

Fourteen to six was the final score of the final championship game with the youthful crew of the Rawdon Calf Club giving a sparkling display against the more-experienced but tired champions. Sidney gained four in each of the first and sixth innings, five in the second and one in the fourth. Rawdon got one in the first, one in the fifth, and two in each of the sixth and seventh.

Girls' Games

In the first of the girls' games Madoc romped home easy winners over Sidney girls by a score of 25-14. Sidney had a decided edge in the early stages of the game, but Madoc broke out on a batting spree in the fourth and no less than fourteen runners crossed the plate. Sidney had five runs scored in the first and eight more in the second and looked like easy winners going into the fourth.

Sidney: Margaret Wood, Laura Sine, Evelyn Sine, Neta Woods, Mae Shorey, Audrey Nicholson, Marie Fisher, Jean Badgley, Olive Sine.

Madoc: Lorna Keene, Betty Stewart, Beulah Keene, Doreen Bassett, Gladys Keene, Violet Freeman, Mary Smith, Mary Tummon, Marjorie Tummon.

Fourteen to eight was the score of the final game of the girls' division as Madoc continued their winning streak to take the championship from Rawdon girls in a game that held the interest of the largest crowd of the afternoon. Madoc scored one in the first, three in the second, five in the fourth, three in the fifth and one each in the last two. Rawdon scored twice in the third and fourth, three in the sixth and one in the fifth.

Madoc: Lorna Keene, Betty Stewart, Beulah Keene, Doreen Bassett, Gladys Keene, Violet Freeman, Mary Smith, Mary Tummon, Marjorie Tummon.

Rawdon: Irene Tucker, Eileen Stuart, Millie Morrison, Monna Wright, Marjorie Richardson, Pearl Stapley, Ella Sutherland, Frances McKeown, Ruby Stapley.

With the Bowlers

A number of Stirling Bowlers took part in the District play-offs of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association, which were held on the greens of the Kingston Club on Friday last. Messrs W. J. Whitty and T. W. Solmes competed in the doubles competition but were eliminated by P. Gunn and J. Watson, of Madoc. In the rinks competition Messrs C. F. Linn, P. W. Long, A. Heyworth and Dr. E. A. Carleton, skip, were eliminated by a Belleville rink skipped by C. Sulman.

Two rinks represented the Stirling Club at the mixed rinks tournament held by the Madoc Club yesterday afternoon and evening. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Whitty comprised one rink and Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Long, Mrs. Geo. Lagrow and Mr. J. S. Morton the other. Neither rink reached the charmed circle.

At the Men's Rinks Tournament held in Warkworth yesterday, Messrs C. F. Linn, F. R. Mallory, T. W. Solmes and Dr. E. A. Carleton represented the local club. Fourteen rinks competed and the locals won two games out of the three played, but failed to finish among the prize winners.

P. O. HOURS MONDAY

Monday, August 1st, being Civic Holiday, the public wicket at the Post Office will only be open from 8 to 9.30 a.m. Holders of lock boxes however, will be able to procure their mail throughout the day, while the rural routes will be served as usual.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ross, of Cobden, Ont., announce the engagement of their daughter, Irene Margaret, to Mr. Clarence A. Bailey, B.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bailey, of Harold, Ontario. The marriage will take place the middle of August.

Field Crops Judged

Fifteen farms in the Stirling area were visited last week in connection with the field oat crop competition being held in this section by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and sponsored by the Stirling Agricultural Society. The inspection was made by William Mikel, of Belleville. The crops are judged on a basis of freedom from weeds and other grains, general appearance, purity and development of head and quality.

MRS. SAMUEL E. FARGEY

On Tuesday afternoon at her home in Rawdon Township funeral services were held for Sarah Ellen McKinnon Fargey, widow of the late Samuel Fargey. She was born near Queensbury in 1866, the second daughter of the late Farquhar and Ellen Swales McKinnon and has lived for forty years near Stirling a life of quiet Christian influence, winning the respect of all for her estimable character. For seven weeks she had been confined to her bed and died peacefully on Sunday evening. She was a life-long Presbyterian and the service was conducted by Rev. Walker of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, who spoke words of comfort on the text "In My Father's House are many Mansions." Mrs. Robert Williams, of Stirling, was in charge of the music and Miss Catharine Simpson of Brooklyn sang "Crossing the Bar."

TO CELEBRATE CENTENNIAL

S. S. NO. 8, RAWDON WILL OBSERVE ONE HUNDRETH ANNIVERSARY

Plans are complete for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of School Section No. 8 of Rawdon Township, to be held at Wellmans Corners on Sunday and Monday, July 31st and August 1st. For weeks the Board of Trustees, under the leadership of Chairman John Heagle, have been busy working out the details of the celebration and have prepared a programme that should prove attractive to the general public. Given fair weather and the support and co-operation of the citizens of the district, the success of their efforts is assured. It is expected that many former residents of the school section will be present to renew old acquaintances and join in the celebration.

The programme opens on Sunday with service in Wellmans United Church at 11 o'clock a.m. The minister for the occasion will be Rev. John W. Totton. A memorial service will be held at the Cemetery in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. F. G. Joblin, former pastor of Rawdon Circuit, as the special speaker. Stirling Citizens' Band will be present and render appropriate music for the occasion. There will be evening service in the church at 7.30, with Rev. W. E. Honey as preacher.

School bells will ring once again for former pupils on Monday morning at 10 o'clock, when it is expected many of the Old Boys and Girls will attend. One of the old teachers will be in charge. A cafeteria lunch will be served at the noon hour. A program of addresses has been arranged for the afternoon with J. B. MacDougall, B.A., D.Paed., Assistant Chief Inspector of Public and Separate Schools for Ontario; A. A. Martin, I.P.S. of Northumberland, and A. W. McGuire, I.P.S., Hastings County, being among the speakers.

Lovers of softball will also be entertained by two games, the winners of Seymour League and the winners of Rawdon League meeting in the first game, while the second will be between Crow Bay and Mount Pleasant Girls. The opening game will commence at 2.15 p.m.

The day's activities will be climaxed with a dance to be held on a platform on the school grounds in the evening. A good orchestra will supply the music, and a good time is promised all those who attend.

There were beautiful floral tributes and the pall-bearers were neighbours: Messrs Arthur Wilson, Harold McGee, Frank Hammond, Phillip Carr, Alex McCurdy and Volney Richardson. Mrs. Fargey was buried in West Huntingdon cemetery and leaves two sons, Donald, at home; Samuel in Detroit; three daughters, Mrs. J. A. Lowe, in Toronto; Mrs. F. J. Cosbey, of Campbellford and Mrs. R. R. Sprague, of Demorestville, and four grandchildren; one brother, Mr. F. A. McKinnon, Toronto; five sisters, Mrs. F. Parker, Winnipeg; Mrs. Chas. Thompson, Mrs. T. L. Douglas and Miss Beatrice and Miss Bessie McKinnon, all of LaRiviere, Man., survive, one brother and two sisters predeceasing her in recent years.

COMING EVENTS

THE REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING of Stirling Branch of the Women's Institute will be held at Mrs. W. C. West's cottage, Oak Lake, on Wednesday, August 3rd, at 2.30 p.m. The meeting will take the form of a basket picnic.

WELLMANS CENTENNIAL — Sunday, July 31 — 11 a.m., Service conducted by Rev. John Totton; 2 p.m., Memorial Service at Cemetery, Rev. F. G. Joblin in charge; Stirling Band; 7.30 p.m., Church service. Rev. E. Honey, special music. Monday, 10.00 a.m., School, conducted by an old teacher; meals served; ball games, tug-of-war; addresses by McDougall, Chief I.P.S., and others; dancing 8 to 12 p.m., lunch served.

THRESHERS BEWARE!

Threshing operations have started in the surrounding district, although it is not by any means general. Farmers and those in charge of threshing outfits are again reminded that the utmost care should be exercised to prevent fire. Last year there were several hundred fires caused by threshing machines, resulting in thousands of dollars of damage, and a large proportion of them were attributed to carelessness. If this tremendous loss is to be curtailed it will have to be done by those engaged in operating these machines. As they stand upon the threshold of another season, let us hope that each and every operator will resolve to exercise the utmost care in this regard.

THOSE HIDDEN TAXES

The ordinary citizens pays a great variety of hidden taxes without realizing that he is paying them. No taxing system is sound and fair unless every citizen who pays taxes knows that he is paying them, and how much. The great volume of manufacturers' sales taxes and excise taxes of different kinds come out of the pockets of the ultimate consumer, but they do not appear on his bills for what he buys. They have to be passed on to consumers, or the concerns which pay for them in the first instance would soon have to go out of business. The chief beneficiaries of this method of taxation are the politicians. Hidden taxes of which the consumer knows nothing enable them to put forth the specious claim that they are not taxing the poor man's wages, but only taking money out of rich men's pockets for the benefit of the poor — a sort of economics which Robin Hood practised in Sherwood Forest. By this means too, political spenders are enabled to raise huge revenues without too much public protest. Probably a direct income tax on every citizen, as a substitute for the hidden taxes, would be too costly to collect. But it would cost little or nothing to require every manufacturer and distributor, down to the last retailer, to stick a label or stamp on every article sold, telling exactly the amount of sales or excise tax paid on that item. The ordinary consumer would thus be on notice if his elected representatives tried to make him believe their tax laws don't touch his pocket. — Ingersoll Tribune.

FAIR DIRECTORS BUSY

Stirling Fall Fair, under the auspices of the Stirling Agricultural Society, will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 20th and 21st. Although still several weeks hence, the various committees are particularly active in making the necessary arrangements for the event, and it is hoped to make this year's fair the best ever. A drive for new members is meeting with a good response, while the annual canvass for cash donations and special prizes is meeting expectations. According to reports, there is an atmosphere of enthusiasm pervading the various agricultural fairs throughout the Dominion. This is attributed to the increasing part taken in the exhibitions by the young members of the boys' and girls' Farm Clubs. The elder generation has taught the younger generation well, and the younger generation with its enthusiasm to learn is in turn interesting its elders in points that formerly did not seem to call for deep consideration. Each year for several years past the local Fair Board has co-operated with the Ontario Department of Agriculture in the different projects and in this way has done much to encourage the farmers' sons. This year the Society is following the same course in keeping the boys and girls interested in agriculture on the home farm. Field crop competitions have also been sponsored and some fifteen of the farmers of the district are competing for honours. The primary purpose of any Agricultural Society is to promote agriculture in the community and the local Society has been doing its full share in this regard. In order that the coming fair may be a success it is necessary to have the support of the surrounding community and we urge our readers to get behind the Board of Directors by becoming both a member and an exhibitor.

CURRENT COMMENT

Next Monday, August 1st, will be observed as Civic Holiday in Stirling, when places of business will be closed. Don't forget, when doing your Saturday shopping to provide enough for your needs until Tuesday next.

Every summer there are many drownings in this district because new swimmers venture too soon into deep water. They may get cramps and cannot crawl ashore or get a headfull of water and become panicky. New Swimmers who are wise begin in shallow water where they can see where they are going.

The dreaded Army Worm has made its appearance in this district and although no great damage has resulted, farmers should inspect their fields of oats daily for evidence of its invasion. Prompt action once the presence of this pest is discovered will mean a big saving in crops in the infected area.

"The wind usually blows one way or the other, and if it happens to be blowin' your way, that's luck. If it is blowin' against you, you tack. If it stops blowin' you wait until it starts again. But if you aren't out there trying, it won't make any difference which way it blows." — Edgar Guest.

Apparently first reports of the damage being caused the crops in the Western Provinces by grasshoppers were greatly exaggerated as now it is claimed that the loss from this source will only be normal. After persevering through seven lean years it would be heartbreaking to the Western farmers to have promising crops destroyed by these pesky insects.

There is an old saying that "No news is good news", but we doubt if this applies to news concerning Stirling's new post office. Some two weeks ago a representative of the Department of Public Works was in town surveying a number of sites, but so far nothing has been heard as a result of his visit. The big questions now are Where? and When?

September 8th has been chosen by the Stirling Horticultural Society as the date for the Annual Flower Show. The Prize Lists, which have been printed and are ready for distribution, are complete and attractive to exhibitors, and it is hoped that the necessary support and co-operation will be forthcoming from the citizens of the Village and surrounding community to make the show the success it deserves.

Eleven persons were killed last week-end in motor accidents in Ontario, while several other lives were snuffed out by drownings. In spite of all sorts of warnings the slaughter goes on. A peculiar feature of the majority of automobile accidents is that they occur when the drivers are travelling on a straight-away level road, under good driving conditions. This can only mean that lack of care and courtesy on the part of motorists is the direct cause of the large toll of human lives.

While it is past time when the weeds should be cut and destroyed in the village, there are still a number of lots where they are being allowed to mature. The Streets Committee have had men cutting the weeds along the streets, but citizens have been slow in copying their example. If the spread of noxious weeds is to be controlled, it is imperative that these spots be cleaned up before the weeds go to seed. Citizens are again reminded that it is an infringement of the Weed Control Act to allow weeds to mature on their property. Let's see to it that all the weeds are cut.

The first law of motion is that a moving body tends to continue in uniform motion in a straight line. The energy of a moving body is in proportion to the square of the speed. At 25 miles an hour, however, you can make a fairly sharp turn in an automobile on a good highway. At 50 miles an hour, you can make only one-quarter the turn you could make at 25. This explains many accidents in turning and passing at higher speeds. But at 75 miles an hour, your "turnability" has been cut to one-ninth that when you were going at 25. Try to turn more sharply than this law of physics allows, and Over You Go!

The attention of our readers is called to the change made in traffic regulations at the "danger" corner in the centre of the Village. In future, all traffic coming east on Front Street, which is a part of Highway No. 33, must come to a stop before proceeding onto Highway No. 14, of which North Street and Front Street East form a part. This intersection has always been a particularly dangerous one, and although there have been some narrow escapes, and the Department of Highways showed good judgment in making a change in the traffic regulations at this point.

Monday, October 10th, has been fixed by the Dominion Government as Thanksgiving Day. Along with Civic Holiday and Labour Day this makes three of the Statutory holidays that fall on a Monday. Just now there is a growing agitation in some quarters to have all holidays observed on Mondays, thereby giving those wishing to go on a motor trip or visit the benefit of a long week-end. Such a change would also be beneficial to the manufacturer and business man, and would be universally accepted as a big improvement.

What Others Say

EITHER ONE IS WELCOME

(Fergus News-Record)
Canadian municipalities are left wondering these days whether it would be better to go after one of the new aeroplane factories, or to try to induce some American millionaire to settle in their district.

WORK NEEDED

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)
One hundred million dollars spent in Canada by Great Britain for bombing planes and buildings in which to build them is not going to do this country any harm. Neither is the training of R.A.F. pilots in this country going to involve us in war of any kind. Canada requires industry and employment for its many good workers and that government that would put a stumbling block in the way is going to get itself into hot water.

THE WEDDING NUISANCE

(St. Mary's Journal-Argus)
It was an old-fashioned custom for wedding parties to rush and down streets in cabs with tin cans and old shoes flying. But present-day traffic conditions have made that sort of thing ridiculous as well as highly dangerous. The spectacle of four or five cars racing through traffic at forty or fifty miles an hour, as we have seen it a few times lately, is one that calls for police interference. That sort of thing is not allowed any more in cities, where traffic conditions have long since called for its taboo. It is no more in place in St. Mary's where local and through traffic makes our main street a constantly busy thoroughfare. This wedding procession nuisance should be stopped.

ONE POLITICAL PARTY DOOMED

Signs and political developments in Canada point to the gradual and ultimate elimination of one or the other of the old political parties. The Liberal and National Conservative Parties are so much alike in background, outlook and policy that racial thinking elements will continue to break off into dismembered groups and then some political Moses will assemble the scattered remnants into an effective force that will displace one of the old line parties just as the Liberal Party had been effaced in the Old Country.

In the last Saskatchewan election almost half the votes, or 43 per cent, were neither Liberal nor Conservative and in Eastern Canada there is growing percentage of younger people who have the audacity to vote against the party under the beneficent influence of which they have been nurtured and reared.

The Conservative Party had a splendid opportunity at the recent Convention to blaze a new political trail, but it failed to do so. The policy there laid down and the resolutions endorsed indicate that the National Conservative Party will skirt the railway problem just as the Liberals have done, will be just as vague in matters of national defense and will continue to apply salve and bandages in the hope of curing unemployment when they know full well that some vital inward organ is pumping poison into our social and economic system.

Canada is by no means free of isms and racial groups of many shades and complexions. If by any chance they should gang up on the traditional political institutions, Liberals and National Conservatives, both thinking and acting alike, but separated into camps, would offer a weak defense. — Farmer's Advocate.

INJURED IN CRASH NEAR HOLLOWAY

Mrs. Malcolm Moffatt, Oshawa, sustained a fractured hip and body bruises, while five other passengers were badly shaken up when the automobile in which they were driving failed to negotiate a curve immediately south of Holloway and crashed into a large tree shortly after midnight Friday night. Mrs. Moffatt was removed to the Belleville General Hospital.

The car was driven by Malcolm Moffatt, Simcoe Manor, Oshawa, and in a northerly direction. A severe electric storm was in progress at the time with sharp lightning and torrents of rain falling. As Mr. Moffatt was not familiar with Highway 37 he failed to observe the sharp curve in the road and crashed over a ten-foot embankment into a large tree. The car was badly damaged, the top, body and fenders being demolished. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable McBrien, who reported that driving conditions were extremely difficult at the time.

COVERING THE WORLD OF SPORT

Marathon swimming has come and gone, with its gold and glitter, grief and grease. Twelve years ago this summer 17-year-old George Young, of Toronto put-tipped his way across the continent to California on a ramshackle motorcycle, entered the Catalina Channel swim unheralded and unknown and emerged the only finisher — a Canadian national hero of the day. The following year the Canadian National Exhibition staged its first marathon, mainly in the hopes of giving Canadians a chance to see Young flail his way to victory over the best long-distance swimmers in the world — but the result was a disappointment, first of a long string of disappointments that have finally resulted in the event being dropped from this year's Ex. programme.

That first C.N.E. swim, over a 21-mile route, saw Young, the Catalina Kid, pulled from the water after five miles, saw Ernst Vierkoetter, of Germany, wear down every other swimmer to be the first of the only three to finish. Today, the swim, a thing of the past, finds the same smiling Ernst Vierkoetter perhaps the only man who made a financial success of the goofy marathon paddling business. Vierkoetter collected $30,000 for winning the 1927 grind. The following year he brought out his wife and daughter to become Canadian citizens. That year no one finished the cruel grind, but Vierkoetter went further than anyone else, 12 1/2 miles, and the C.N.E. committee split the $25,000 prize money among 12 contestants. In 1929 he swam second to Edward Keating of New York. In 1930 he finished fifth to Marvin Nelson of Fort Dodge, Ia., and in 1931 third to George Young, who re-established himself in the eyes of the Toronto people. Then Vierkoetter quit knowing that to continue was to risk loss of the greatest prize of all — his health. Today he has money in the bank, plenty of work in the summer months as an instructor, and leisure time throughout the winter when he amuses himself at his piano. Vierkoetter "made" himself on the C.N.E. swim. But who knows how many tragedies have resulted from the cruel physical self-punishment willingly absorbed by the less fortunate who sought the pot of gold at the end of the seemingly endless miles of icy Lake Ontario water?

SPORTS QUERY — What is the longest major league baseball game on record? (Answer at foot of column).

They are telling a prize story of Tony Galento, cigar-smoking, beer-drinking Newark, N.J., heavyweight contender who runs a pub in his home town. Business, thought Tony, was not as good as it should be, so he consulted a friend who operates a similar but successful establishment. "Perhaps I'd better look at your books," said the friend. "Books?" Tony queried. "Yes, don't you keep books in your place?" "Naw," denied Two-ton Tony, "the customers come to my joint to drink, not read!"

This gem, if true, places Galento as ranking challenger to Maximilian Adelbert Baer, in the nit-wit championship class. When Baer first began to reach pugilistic prominence some years back, he was beset by the usual gang of leeches who prey on up-and-coming fighters, and before the racketeers got through with him, Maxie had signed away 75 per cent. of his ring earnings for various and dubious favours received. When it came pay-off time, Mrs. Baer's eldest son found to his dismay that he had only one-quarter of his earnings to call his own. "Gee," he squealed, "I thought I had 1000 per cent to begin with, with the baseball teams. I thought I still had 925 per cent. left for myself."

Perhaps it is a little warm to talk rugby football, but the gents behind the scenes don't confine their activities to the autumn, as witness the off-stage scrimmages that have taken place since the 1937 gridiron season closed with Toronto Argonauts crowned senior Canadian champions.

First gun in the off-season grid battle was fired by the O.R.F.U. when they enlarged the circuit of a four-team affair, taking in Montreal C.N.R.'s and Peterborough Broncos to square off with Sarnia Imperials and Balmy Beach of Toronto, with Hamilton Cubs being dropped from the loop. This was the greatest forward step taken by the Ontario Union in many a moon, for the three-team league of the past few seasons really was decided on the home-and-home games of Sarnia and Beaches, the hapless Cubs not having won a game in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. The O.R.F.U. was not content with invading Montreal, hitherto exclusive Big Four territory, but they threw further qualms into the interprovincial solons when the C.N.R.'s announced that they would have on their roster most of the stars of last year's Montreal Indians of the Big Four, leaving the Redmen to dig up players for the coming campaign as best they can. Peterborough has not been quite so fortunate in grabbing off seasoned stars, but we know from personal contact that representatives of the Petes are scouting the province, going into Big Four territory to lure promising Junior and Intermediate players to the Lift-Lock City.

First return punt from the Big Four moguls came this week with the announcement that they were again entering the Intermediate field, establishing a four-team group made up of Dundas Blue Bombers, last year's intermediate O.R.F.U. "A" titleholders; Hamilton Cubs, formerly of the O.R.F.U. senior series; Toronto Westsides, runners-up to Dundas in the O.R.F.U. playoffs in 1937, and Toronto Eastsides, also formerly in the Ontario body's jurisdiction. Formation of this group will disrupt the DeGruchy-Bailey union's intermediate section considerably, but should result in the resumption of Dominion Intermediate playoffs, which have not been staged for several years. All points considered, the inter-union between season scrimmages should key interest to a high point for the 1938 campaigns.

A YEAR AGO IN SPORTS — On July 27, 1937, Tommy Farr, newly-arrived from his native Wales, met Joe Louis for the first time in the offices of the New York State Athletic Commission where the two signed to meet August 26th, with Louis title at stake. Since then Farr has collected close to $200,000 for taking consecutive beatings from Louis, Braddock and Baer. Some Canadian sports writers and hockey fans are dubious as to how Hershey, Pa., a small town, will be able to support professional International-American League hockey this winter, as well as an Eastern U.S. Amateur League squad. Perhaps the secret lies in the fact that Hershey is a corporation-owned town and the very name "Hershey" is advertising for its nationally-sold product, the subtly-coined nickname "Bears" being a further touch toward increased chocolate sales in the U.S.A.

ANSWERS DEPT. — The longest major league baseball game on record was played between Brooklyn and Boston of the National League on May 1, 1920. The marathon duel went 26 innings to a 1-1 tie.

SEARCH PARTIES FIND AGED BANCROFT MAN

William Lee, eighty-year-old resident of Bancroft left his home about seven o'clock on Thursday evening to obtain his mail at the post office. The mail wasn't sorted when he reached the wicket so he started for a walk and lost his way. After searching for him himself, Mrs. Lee notified the police about nine o'clock.

The fire siren was sounded to get a crowd together, search parties were organized and after several hours of searching he was found wandering on the railroad track about two a.m. on Friday morning.

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Prices generally marked a slight decline on Saturday's Belleville Market. The general market was featured with a heavy abundance of fruits and vegetables in season with raspberries of both red and blue varieties heading a variable display.

Red berries held fairly firm with the majority of vendors maintaining prices at 10c per box. Blues were cheaper, selling at three boxes for 25c. Montmorency Cherries were plentiful with basket-lots offered at 50c and 55c each. Ox-Hearts Cherries were quoted at 75c and 80c per 6-quart basket.

Yellow Harvest Apples catered to a fairly brisk re-action on the part of shoppers with a fair quality apple selling at 20c per basket.

A sharp decline of 15c per dozen ears heralded the approach of larger quantities of sweet corn, that sold at 55c per dozen; a noticeable decrease in the quotations of a week ago. The corn of Early Evergreen variety appeared to be well filled out and struck a popular note with the majority of shoppers.

Potatoes, likewise, took a decrease in price with bushel-lots selling at 75c and 80c, while pecks were quoted at 25c.

New peas were fairly plentiful with quarts selling at 20c. A fine quality of cabbage and cauliflower, produced in district gardens and farms featured the heavy vegetable display and sold to a briskly buying market at from 5c per head upward.

New onions, beets, carrots, lettuce and radishes and other bunch vegetables sold well at prevailing prices.

Eggs noted a decrease in the inside market with "A" selects offered at 26c and 27c per dozen. Mediums were quoted at 24c and 25c with ungraded stock offered at 25c per dozen. A fairly good chicken display was evident with prices holding firm. Four-month-old chickens were offered at from $1.00 each, while a limited number of broilers were quoted at from 90c per pair. Homecooking booths were well patronized as fair shoppers availed themselves of the many bargains offered.

Trout and whitefish comprised the fish offering with both varieties selling at 20c per pound.

Sugar Beet Crop

Blocking and thinning the commercial crop of sugar beets proceeded rapidly throughout June, and was completed early in July.

Field labour was abundant in all districts, and no crop was lost because of labour shortage. The quality of thinning was good, and the stands of beets are excellent.

Rainfall was plentiful during the first 10 days of June, but was followed by two weeks of dry weather, very favourable to the planted crop. Present reports state that the crop never looked better at this time of the year.

Preliminary estimates of planting indicate a crop of approximately 27,000 acres. Insect losses have been slight, and seeding diseases were responsible for only a minor acreage of loss and replanting. The crop is developing fast, with early planted beets filling the rows with their leaves. Present indications are for an exceptionally fine crop in all districts from Leamington and Windsor to London and Exeter.

Diplomas to be Awarded for Meritorious Service

Agricultural Societies are now in a position to honour the unsung heroes of agriculture; the men who have unselfishly given of their valuable time and talent to further worthwhile agricultural projects in their community without thought of reward save in work well done for the benefit of all.

The Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies believing it is high time the work of these men should be recognized in tangible form has announced through Secretary J. A. Carroll, Toronto, that each Agricultural Society may recommend one person per year to the District Director of an Agricultural Service Diploma. The Director will conduct any investigation deemed necessary and if satisfied will forward the recommendation to the Secretary of the Ontario Association who will fill in the names of the recipient and the Society making the award and also place the stamp of the Ontario Association on the gold seal of the diploma. It will then be sent back to the individual Society for presentation on some formal occasion.

The award may go to anyone in the community and need not be confined to a member of an agricultural society, Mr. Carroll states.

The diploma is fourteen inches by ten inches and will be signed by both the President and Secretary of the Ontario Society.

Insect Damage

June beetle flights have attracted attention in many parts of the province, thus indicating that next year more damage than usual may be expected from their larvae, white grubs. Potato flea beetles have been very abundant on potatoes, tobacco and to a lesser extent on tomatoes. The striped or turnip flea beetle caused some loss to cabbage, turnips and radishes in many areas, although it was not nearly so abundant as the potato flea beetle. Cut-worms have been less numerous than for several years. Some damage, however, has taken place in tobacco fields in parts of Essex and in corn fields in one locality in Middlesex. Wireworms, like cut-worms, have been scarce practically all over the province. The seed corn maggot, by attacking the seed of corn and bean, did more damage than usual and in several instances necessitated re-planting. The European corn borer moths have begun to emerge earlier than usual. Onion maggots have been much less troublesome than in 1937. The meadow leaf bug, Miris dolabratus, a slender, brownish sucking insect nearly one-half inch long, is abundant in pastures and meadows in all the central counties.

The cigar case borer injured severely the foliage of apples in some orchards in Norfolk county in which poison was omitted in the early sprays. Aphids on fruit trees, especially on apples, have so far, been scarce in most orchards. The raspberry sawfly has been remarkably abundant, much more so than at any time during the past twenty years. Many unsprayed plantations have been almost totally defoliated by their green, spiny larvae.

The Army Worm Outbreak

During the last week there has been a widespread outbreak of the army worm in most counties of the province, but more severe in some than in others. This insect is like an ordinary cutworm. The colour is green to brown or nearly black, with longitudinal stripes along the back and sides. When full-grown it is nearly two inches long. Most of the damage has been done to grasses, barley, oats and corn. Alfalfa, sweet clover, red clover, peas, beans, potatoes, tomatoes and most other crops have not been attacked. When barley or oats are attacked the damage is caused by the leaves and heads being eaten off.

The worms usually come from grass, their favourite breeding place. From this they often move in large numbers to nearby corn or grain. In many cases, however, they actually have bred in the grain itself, the eggs being laid on the leaves. Hence grain may be attacked without an invasion from the surroundings. Every farmer should at once walk through his barley, oats and corn in the evening to see if it is being injured by this pest, and should do this daily until all danger is past.

Control

Poison bait in most cases is very effective, but sometimes must be supplemented by a trench or furrow.

Formula for the Poison Bait

Barley 25 lbs.
Paris Green 1 lb.
Cheap Molasses 1-2 gal.
Water enough to moisten the bait without making it sloppy — about 2 1/2 gallons

Mix the bran and Paris Green dry, thoroughly, until the green can be seen everywhere through the bran. This can be done most easily on a concrete or tight board floor by shovelling it over just as in mixing concrete. Do not mix with the hands and do not inhale the Paris Green dust. Next level the surface of the pile, add the water and shovel again until the mixture is well moistened, but will fall through the fingers like sawdust. This poison bait should be applied after 6 p.m. and should be scattered by hand. In corn broadcast it over the ground just as one would broadcast grain. The above amount should be sufficient to cover 1 1/2 acres, but only 1 acre in a very heavy infestation. Barley and oats may be treated in the same way, but if the grain is very thick or fallen, the bait must be thrown forcibly into the crop to reach the ground, and in such cases even 30 lbs. per acre, or more, may be needed. The lodged parts will usually require most bait. Do not treat any grain field unless noticeable damage is really being done.

The prevent the worms moving from an infested field to an uninfested, scattering the bait for a few yards ahead of them may be sufficient, but if they are very numerous this will have to be supplemented by making a trench or deep furrow. In sandy land this can usually be done with a plough, leaving the straight side of the clean-cut furrow towards the crop to be protected. Two furrows about a yard apart are better than a single one. In clay land the furrow must be deepened to a trench 12 inches or more in depth, with the straight wall towards the threatened crop cut clean or even better cut under. In both cases poisoned bait should be thrown into the furrow or trench. Post holes at intervals may have to be dug in either the furrow or trench.

GUM-DIPPING is a patented Firestone process not used in any other tire. With it every hundred pounds of cord fabric absorbs eight pounds of rubber and, as a result, every fibre, every cord and every ply in a Firestone tire is coated and insulated with pure rubber to counteract internal heat and friction—the greatest enemy of tire life.

Due to this extra process, Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords have 58% longer flexing life. Yet you do not pay one cent more for this extra value. And you also get 2 Extra Cord Plies under the tread and the Firestone Scientifically Designed Safety Tread.

The early part of the evening was spent in dancing. Mr. Earl Cranston then called the bride and groom to take their place and an address was then read by Mrs. Percy Mumby.

Dear Annie and Clarence:
This gathering of your friends and neighbours is an expression of our best wishes for your future happiness. We would not let this great occasion pass without rejoicing with you and offering our congratulations. It is our sincere wish that your newly-found home may be a truly happy one, a home which will possess all the virtues that go to make it ideal. May you always be blessed with your share of health and happiness and prosperity. And now we ask you to accept this shower of gifts, not because they have in themselves any great value, but to express a token of our esteem and good-will toward you both and may their use recall this happy event.

"May a rainbow of happiness Arch over each hour, And you find all the joy Wished to you at this shower."

Signed on behalf of your friends — Mrs. Hiram Mumby, Mrs. Mac Mason, Laura Mason, Mrs. Percy Mumby.

The bride and groom then made appropriate speeches, followed by the singing of "For they are jolly good fellows." At the conclusion of the evening, a delicious lunch was served.

"Legendary Lyrics" is the title of a very interesting book of poems that has been recently released from the press and is of special interest to the citizens of West Huntingdon in that the author, Mr. Geo. A. Kingston, of Toronto, is a West Huntingdon boy. His father, the late Mr. Charles Kingston, owned the farm now occupied by Mr. Andrew McInroy. After receiving his public school education here he attended high school in Belleville, later in life graduating as a lawyer and making his home in Toronto, where for years he was chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board in Queen's Park. Although absent from his boyhood town for many years he always takes a special interest in the welfare of the community which is so dear to his heart.

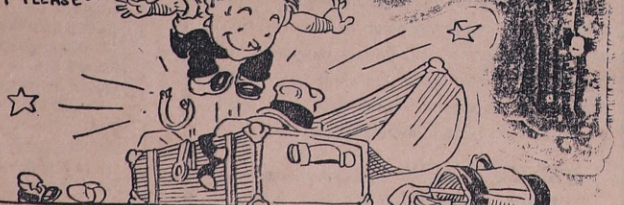

The poem "Reminiscences of the Old Farm" brings back pleasant memories to those who lived in those good old days:

Take me back to Rawdon Township
To the place where I was born at,
Dear old spot where early day dreams
Gave us visions of the future.
Simple life was then our portion,
But the very fact of living
In God's great wide open spaces,
Rich reward it seemed to carry.
This is one of the 11 interesting verses of "The Old Farm."
Realizing the important place education plays in the lives of boys and girls, Mr. Kingston has presented his book of poems to Miss Theda Moorcroft, who was judged the best scholar in the Public School here in 1937-38.

On Wednesday evening about one hundred friends and neighbours met at the home of Mr. John McKeown, to spend an evening with Miss Marion McKeown prior to her departure for Bethune, Sask., where she intends spending the next year. The gathering was called to order by Canon Swayne and after a few remarks he called on Gladys Burkitt to read an address, while Ruth Bateman presented Marion with a beautiful "Pack-away."

Ennarlaw, Ontario,
July 20th, 1938

Dear Marion:—

It was with thoughts of deep regret that we, your friends and neighbours, have learned of your intended departure from our midst, and we have taken this opportunity of invading your home tonight to spend another social evening with you. You have always been willing to render every service, and all requests made of you have met with a hearty response. We are sorry to have you go from us, and we are going to miss your kindness and genial friendship. At any time we shall be pleased to have you with us whenever occasion permits, with the assurance of a warm welcome awaiting you.

We will always be glad to hear good reports of your success and now we ask you to accept this token as a remembrance of our love for you. As you use it you will remember our good times together and how we are all wishing for the time to come when you will be with us again.

Signed on behalf of your friends and schoolmates — Ruth Bateman, Gladys Burkitt.

Marion made a very suitable reply and Mr. McKeown also thanked the friends on Marion's behalf.

The remainder of the evening was spent in music and dancing.

LORD TWEEDSMUIR TO DEFER RETURN UNTIL HEALTH RESTORED

Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, will take a complete rest of at least a month before returning from England, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced this week. It was recently announced the Governor-General would delay his return until the middle of September. Lord Tweedsmuir had not been in the best of health, Mr. King said, explaining the altered plans, and he had suggested to the Governor-General that he remain in England as long as necessary to restore his strength.

The Governor-General left July 1st, but intended then to return in August, and had plans for a tour of Western Canada. Extension of his visit and postponement until next spring of his Western tour were announced some time ago, but no reference was made to his health. He will probably return to Ottawa about Sept. 17.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

ELEVENTH INSTALMENT

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Single Shot. Both are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action and straight shooting foils a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by rustlers and involved in a claim dispute. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch and a new sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to see the town banker, Mr. Pearson. Mortgage is renewed and Dave decides to get enough money to pay off the mortgage by raising alfalfa and selling it. Following night, the lake is blown up, and Dave inwardly accuses Hammond. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions.

"But — but I don't understand," Mary said weakly.

"It's easily explained, Mrs. Winters," Crowell said. "Your brother realized that the place was worthless now. He decided to let his half go. He knew I would be out this morning to tell you, so he didn't bother to send word out."

"But why are you buying it if it's so worthless?" Mary had got a grip on herself.

"Grass," Crowell said bluntly.

"But the water?" Crowell laughed easily. "We have money, Mrs. Winters. Building up that wall again with a crew of men is a small matter for us."

"Ted, what do you think?" Mary asked suddenly.

"It looks like Dave has run out on us, Mary. Without him to run the place I'd say we might as well give up and sell out to Mr. Crowell."

He heard Mary get out of her chair and walk to the window. When she spoke again, it was as if she was arguing with herself.

"But you'll have a court fight with the spread, Hammond claims the lake too."

"But who owns it?"

"We do," Mary said.

"And you have the papers to prove it?"

"May I see them?"

Mary hesitated a moment, then said:

"Surely."

Rosy knew she was wanting time to digest this.

"God, this is shaky! Do you think it's going to work?" It was Crowell speaking.

"Sure. Dave's signature convinced her."

Crowell laughed softly. "But since Dave and Hammond aren't fighting each other, I don't know how much they suspect. And where's the red-head?"

"He hasn't been around here. We're safe enough."

"Well, there's only one thing to do. I'll register at the hotel today like I'd just come in. Then I'll see Hammond again and try to talk him into selling and then I'm disappearing."

"Everyone is doing just what the Boss said they wouldn't. Except Turner. He walked right into Sayre's hand."

"Did Sayres have a tough time cracking him?"

"Not from what Chinch said when he gave me this paper."

"What does the Boss think?"

"He's satisfied with Sayres' work but he's on my tail to finish this."

As Mary came into the room Crowell was saying to Winters: "—and it can be done without too much expense."

Rosy had been listening until his ears rang. So Winters was in on it! And Sayres had Dave a prisoner! But more than that, there was a boss behind them! Even behind Crowell.

He heard Mary say to Crowell: "Here's the land papers."

He heard Crowell take them.

"All in order, Mrs. Winters," Crowell said. "I think we can afford to pay an extra two thousand for that paper. It's fool proof."

Rosy heard Mary sigh. "I — I don't think I'll sell, Mr. Crowell. Not right away anyway."

"Well, I think you'll regret it, Mrs. Winters. But I won't insist. We'll give you exactly what we gave Dave, plus the two thousand of course. Won't you take time to reconsider before you give your refusal?"

"Why — yes," Mary said hesitantly. "How long will the offer be open?"

"Until tonight at train time," Crowell said, and Rosy heard him rise.

"I'll be at the hotel, at Single Shot."

"That will be fine," Mary said.

"Good-by, Mrs. Winters," Crowell said. "I hope to hear from you by tonight. Good-by."

Rosy heard the outside door shut.

"Mary," — it was Winters speaking pleadingly — "you can't be serious about not wanting to sell now that Dave has run out on us!"

"Let's go in the kitchen, Ted," Mary said quietly.

"Damned if I will!" Winters exploded. "I want to know if you're going to sell. Let's get rid of this ramshackle old place and go east where we belong."

Rosy heard Mary's heels on the floor, headed for the kitchen. Then they stopped abruptly and scraped.

"Look here," Winters said in a cold voice. "Cut out this sentimental nonsense. We'll have a fortune. Dave's out of it —"

"He isn't," Mary said desperately.

"Isn't he?" Winters said sardonically.

"Are you doubting Crowell's word?" "No," Mary retorted heatedly. "I'm not doubting anybody's word. He's wrong. I know Dave too well to think he'd do a thing like that!"

"Take a fortune instead of a chance to run a bunch of mangy cattle?" Winters asked sarcastically. "You overestimate that jailbird's love for work."

Rosy heard Mary gasp.

"Let's not talk about it, Ted," Mary said quietly. "After all I'm the one to decide."

"You had chances to sell before Dave got here," Winters continued. "You refused. Now, since the place has been made worthless, you still refuse. Why?"

"You wouldn't understand," Mary said calmly. "It's not sentiment. It's — it's just because I've lived here all my life and love it."

"A cow-country gal," Winters sneered. "Just a calico sweetheart. All right," — his tone was gathering confidence — "you'll either take the offer for the place or look for a new husband."

"I thought that was it, Ted."

"Then you won't take it?"

"No."

Rosy heard the sharp slap of flesh on flesh and Mary's startled cry of pain. Then the door slammed and Rosy hurled the davenport from him and scrambled to his feet.

He walked up to her slowly.

"I'm sorry, Mary. I didn't mean to listen, but I couldn't help it."

"He hit me, Rosy," Mary sobbed out.

"Rosy, you won't do anything to him, will you?"

He studied her face as he answered. "He's your husband, and you're my friend. I reckon I'll tell him —" his voice died as he watched her eyes. "No, I won't," he said softly. "It's not my business. I reckon if you want me to do anything, I'll always be here to ask."

"It isn't the first time, Rosy," Mary said brokenly. "He's done it before."

Rosy waited until she stopped crying, then laid a hand on her shoulder.

"Pack some stuff. We're going to town."

"Hammond's girl is alone. You can stay there with her. But I don't want you in this place."

Mary nodded dumbly. "Did I do right with Crowell, Rosy? Has Dave to ask."

"Let's go," Rosy cut in on her. "Dave hasn't done anything. And I'm just beginnin' to understand some things." He started for the door.

"Pack some stuff. I'll saddle up."

As Rosy raced for the corral, he already had a plan half formed.

Dave had argued with the sheriff at the lake. He hadn't mentioned his intentions until they had found the tracks. They led around the base of Old Cartridge to the rock-rim. And there the dynamiters had placed a last charge, blowing the trail out behind them and cutting off pursuit. It meant that Dave would have to go down into the valley again and ride north for ten miles or so until the rock-rim petered out and he could enter the canyons. He told the sheriff this, and said that he wanted to ride alone. Hank had given in grudgingly, but had agreed to ride to the D Bar T and stay the night, telling Mary of the dynamiting.

At parting Dave had borrowed a Colt from him, and a handful of cartridges. The gun he wrapped in his slicker and tied behind the cantle, for the rain was over. He rode down the wash again, past the Draw Three and headed up the valley.

He thought of everything that happened to him. None of it made sense. Why would any one first try to bush-whack him, then destroy his ranch?

Dave felt his weight shift against the cantle. The horse was ascending a rocky ledge which rose up ahead. The trail had left the stream bed and had turned in toward the mountains.

He was yanked out of it by a dim warning whistle, a hissing. Automatically, his right hand streaked for his gun. He had it clear of leather when the rope settled and he was yanked from the saddle. The rope had tightened above him elbows so that his forearm and gun were clear. Sixty feet off a rider, his rope dangled round the horn of his saddle, was just dismounting.

Dave took a snap shot, saw the horse shy into the man and both disappear behind a rock as he was dragged forward helplessly on his chest. Then it was quiet, and Dave struggled to roll off his arm and get his gun clear.

He aimed where the rope disappeared around the rock. He shot and the rope snapped. He lunged to his feet.

This time he didn't hear the rope. It came from behind him. Two of them, he thought. It settled from behind with the viciousness of a striking snake around his waist, yanking his gun arm down close to his body.

Dave turned. He saw two men approaching, one with both guns out.

"Maybe you'd like us to finish what Freeman didn't," he said with a sneer. "So you know about Freeman, eh?" Dave asked.

Another of the men started to speak. He was a swarthy individual, dressed in tattered range clothes, and he spoke around a cheekful of tobacco.

"Why shouldn't?" "Shut up, Lew," the heavy man ordered.

They walked behind a rock off the trail. The other man, a small vicious-looking hard-case with a rat's shifty eyes, prodded Dave with his gun.

Lew collected the horses. The man with the dead eyes looked at the horse and cursed. Dave's shot had creased the horse's neck, making it bleed.

"You better trade nags with me, Reilly," he said to the rat-face. "This blood is liable to cause questions."

"You goin' to town?"

"Sayres said to get 'em both, didn't he? And the red-headed hombre ain't here."

"What's —" Dave began.

The outlaw with the dead eyes wheeled and drove his fist into Dave's face, sending him back against the rock.

"You better take him off the trail, tie him and git goin'," the heavier man said. "I'm leavin'." He walked over to Reilly's horse, mounted and rode off in the direction of the town.

Reilly turned to Lew. "We better take the Five Points trail to the shack hadn't we?"

"Yeah. There's too damn many prospectors wanderin' the other way." They ordered Dave to mount, then tied his feet in the stirrups and his hands behind his back. He rode the wounded horse, which made any attempt at escape more hopeless. Reilly grinned.

"You figgered we'd blew out the trail behind us on the rim and then rode for them canyons, didn't you?" He laughed. "Well, there's another trail down that mountain. Try and find it if you ever get back."

VIC HOLIDAY OR ON ANY DAY "DON'T DO IT"

Never pass around a car at the top of a hill. A car may be coming over the crest of the hill against you. Just observe when you are out driving how often you could have been trapped by the car coming over the other side of the hill.

Trying to pass a car near or at the crest of a hill is suicidal. You may be exasperated, following a slow truck up an incline. You may feel you can get around that truck safely, but the danger of a car coming from the opposite direction is enormous. Consider also that since this car might be coming at top speed and possibly running down a grade it would be that much harder to stop.

Next to reckless speed, passing cars at the crest of a hill is the most dangerous mistake a motorist can make. Centrifugal force tends to pull the car on the outside of a curve off the road and tends to pull the car on the inside of a curve into the centre of the road. In order to avoid accidents, slow down on all curves.

Records show that one out of every 12 fatal motor accidents last year occurred on highway curves.

Never coast around a curve. Keep your car in gear — it gives you better control.

Do your braking before you hit the curve. Throwing on brakes while in a curve is likely to cause skidding.

Don't drink when you drive. Maybe you believe that a few drinks do not make any difference to you. That's what you think! But as a driver at the wheel of a motor car, here's how alcohol fools you:

1. It makes you take chances.

2. It slows your mental reactions.

3. It befuddles your judgment of distances.

The drunker driver will run through red lights, go at excessive speeds, not watch the road, turn corners suddenly and disregard stop signs.

It is a matter of proven fact that his reactions are only half as quick as those of a man with no alcohol in his system. Therefore, he requires at least twice the distance in which to stop, and should proceed at half his usual speed. Don't drive when you drink. And don't ride with a driver who has been drinking.

Don't neglect your brakes. There is no substitute for frequent tests and adjustments of braking mechanism by competent men who have dependable equipment. Be on the safe side. Have your brakes tested every 3,000 miles. How else can you ascertain the condition of the brake drums regarding greasy linings, glazed and worn lining or faulty equalization?

Application of your brakes should always be moderate. But having good brakes in good condition is not enough. It is equally important that you know how and when to use them. Don't jam on your brakes unless a sudden emergency arises.

THIS MUST STOP!

Don't drive when you can't see or be seen. You need two headlights correctly focussed, and a tail light if your car is to be visible to other drivers. You need clean headlights, delivering full illumination if you are to see the roadway clearly at night. Have your lights checked frequently to be certain that you fulfill these minimum requirements for safety after dark.

NEIGHBORS HONOUR BONARLAW GIRL

On Wednesday evening last, a very pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. John McKeown when a large number of friends and neighbours gathered to bid adieu to his daughter, Marion, who will leave for Saskatchewan on Tuesday to spend the coming year with her aunt, Mrs. McDonald. At 9.30 order was called by Canon Swayne and after a brief speech an appropriate address was read by Mrs. Gladys Burkitt and Mrs. Ruth Bateman presented Marion with a beautiful Aeropack. Marion replied in a few words and her father then thanked all present on behalf of Marion for the lovely gift. All joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Several duets were played by Mrs. Swayne and Mrs. W. Bateman with piano. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing with music by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wellman, of Marmora.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES OTTAWA

(By Dean Wilson)

There is tension along Parliament Hill at the present time, and while it may be difficult for the man in the street to detect the real reason for this exceedingly anxious feeling amongst the authorities, yet it presents no problem to anyone who is accustomed to watch closely and constantly the activities of the men and the women in the Capital who are charged with these important tasks of carrying out the wishes of the people of Canada. There is no doubt that the basis for this strained atmosphere which surrounds the Capital is the question of rearmament as it relates to the current internal situation in Canada and the conditions of uneasiness which marks the present internal affairs of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

The Dominion Government is faced with numerous problems right now, such as the social betterment of the low-income citizens or those who are forced to depend on relief payments, the improvement of economic conditions in all parts of the country, and other internal affairs of the highest importance, but it is extremely doubtful if any of these vexatious problems are causing much worry in official circles as the question of rearmament for Canada.

In the moral and intellectual progress of the human race, the advancement of civilization has been characterized by the outlawing of war as a medium for the settlement of international disputes and gradually war became an exception, whereas it used to be a normal state of nations. In fact, history is a record of the decline of war. However, within the past couple of years the original causes of war have shown their ugly appearance at international conferences and today it is admitted by everyone in authority that open conflict is no longer outside the realm of possibility. Every scientific analysis of the causes of war indicates that religious controversy and national misunderstanding are no longer reasons for open warfare amongst civilized nations, but there are two other causes of major importance which exist as much today as in the days of old. They are the greed of gain and commercial rivalry. In the case of the former, the diplomacy and tactics of power like Germany, Italy and Japan are different from those employed by certain characters of history who wrote dark pages, such as Darius the Great, Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar and Napoleon Bonaparte, all of whom showed a greed of gain unrestrained by either social or personal conscience. It is the same story today in the international rivalry for trade, though different tactics have marked the ventures.

But how does Canada enter this situation? Can this country become involved in a war on account of any one or both of these efficacious causes of war? In order to answer this point it is essential to understand that a first class nation cannot exist today without taking its proper place on an international economic and political scale of evaluation. In other words, all these stories about Canada remaining absolutely neutral in any kind of war are nothing but mere dreams. It is even beyond the imagination, and leaders of all political parties in this country agree that some policy must be determined and followed by Canada in all international questions since this country wants the rights of a first class nation and therefore, it is necessary that the country assume the resultant obligations.

In the last three years alone, Canada has made no less than 12 treaties to increase the export trade of this nation, and today, the standard of living, the economic prosperity and even the existence of the country's credit is dependent upon this internal business. It is the very life-blood of Canada. A trade treaty is functioning with the United States, the United Kingdom, the various Dominions which comprise the British Commonwealth of Nations, Germany, Italy, Japan, Holland, France, Poland, Brazil, Uruguay, Haiti, Cuba, Switzerland and many other nations. It is one of the elementary rules of external trade that every commercial nation must be strong enough the guard or protect its own shipping on the high seas. In the case of Canada, this duty has been carried out by Great Britain's navy for the past couple of centuries.

In the second cause of war, the question arises whether or not Canada has any fear from land-hungry nations and it appears that an affirmative answer is right. General Goering, spokesman for Germany, recently declared thus: "When, as is the case in Germany, 65,000,000 people live in a small space, it is no use trying to solve the social problem by internal measures." Premier Benito Mussolini, Dictator of Italy, recently stated thus: "We are 40,000,000 people squeezed into our narrow but adorable peninsula. Hence, it is obvious that the problem of Italian expansion in the world is a problem of life and death for the Italian race. Fascism reduces its many fine promises to a single promise of external expansion, the fulfillment of which depends on successful war. When these authoritative statements are coupled with the comparative huge size of the waste lands of this country, it is no surprise that all political leaders of this country are united in the opinion that this country must follow a definite and precise rearmament policy, though they are motivated by different objectives and they entertain different ideas on the manner in which defence should be provided for this Dominion, with a small group actually believing that no rearmament programme would be a wise move.

What are these diversified ideas on Canada's defence programme? What will Canada do in the event that a war should suddenly break out on the international scene? Are there vulnerable points in Canada which can subject the property and people to an attack from any foreign power? These highly important questions are being asked right now by the man in the street in Canada and they will be answered in next week's column. — (Reproduction Prohibited, 1938, Educational Features Syndicate.

INFANT CHOKES TO DEATH ON PEANUT

A portion of a peanut lodging in his larynx brought death to Digby Harding, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Harding, of Coe Hill last week. The child was taken to Bancroft for an operation, but died before the obstruction could be removed. Artificial respiration was tried without success.

BUTTER AND CHEESE GRADE IS RENAMED

The butter and cheese grading term "No grade" has been replaced by "below third grade" by order-in-council on recommendation of the dairy products marketing division, agriculture department, it has been announced.

The reason for the change, the department said, was a misunderstanding on the part of some purchasers of butter as to what was meant by "no grade." Consumers were being led to believe that "no grade" meant that the butter represented by this term had not been graded, when actually it was intended to convey the information that the quality was so poor that a grade was not placed upon it.

The grade mark must be placed on the main panel of the wrapper and also on the carton (when such is used) and is a guide to purchasers of butter, informing them of the quality of the product contained in the package. Every province in Canada with the exception of Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, has made it compulsory by law to brand each print or block of creamy butter with one of the grade marks as described when offered for sale or sold to consumers.

STRICT EXAMINATION, R.C.A.F.

According to tradition, all the nice girls love a sailor. But if physical fitness has anything to do with where a girl may bestow her admiration, R.C.A.F. pilots are in for a seige of popularity, comments the Toronto Star.

With news the Royal Canadian Air Force was tightening up the medical tests through which a recruit must pass, facts were obtained at the Trenton air training station which indicate that the average pilot is a sturdy specimen.

An insurance company will gamble on general physical fitness. The air force, however, is interested in your abdominal reflexes and in whether you have discomforts on swings, roundabouts or switchbacks.

Capt. T. M. Brown, of the Royal Canadian Army Medical corps, and one or two medical officers at Trenton, conducted a few tests on Leading Aircraftman Davis — six feet six inches tall, and 220 pounds of bone and muscle. Davis had never seen the test before, but passed with flying colours.

First page of the medical report deals with a recruit's general physical condition. It's a history. Passing the history exam. is a mere skip compared with the hurdles to come. Over on page two you will find the impression the doctor gets, from your physique and mentality are important.

"Slow thinkers aren't likely to be adaptable to conditions where emergencies may arise," Dr. Brown said.

Quiver Tells Tale

How are you on balancing? Dr. Brown has a flat, thin, oblong piece of aluminum. With this is the "rod" — a six-inch pencil-shaped piece of aluminum on a small base. The rod is placed on the aluminum at one end. A prospective pilot must grasp the opposite end of the aluminum and, with arm extended, lift it to shoulder level without knocking over the rod or jiggling it too much. This is done first with the right hand, then with the left. Sounds easy, but it isn't.

As the aluminum slap is lifted everything seems fine. If there is the slightest tremor in the hand or arm, it is telegraphed to the rod, which quivers or perhaps jiggles. If there is a pronounced quiver in either arm it will fall over. Aircraftman Davis lifted it up and set it down with both hands without a murmur from the rod.

There is another stunt which may sound easy — but isn't. Lift the lower half of either leg until it is horizontal, the flat of the foot pointing straight out behind. Close your eyes and without hanging on to anything stand on the other foot for 15 consecutive seconds. This is called self-balancing, and indicates one's sense of equilibrium, which is important in flying. Try it two or three times.

Do your fingers quiver? Perhaps you balanced the rod, but there may be a slight tremor in your fingers which was not revealed. Extend your arms straight out in front of you. Are your fingers perfectly steady? Look at yourself in a mirror. Don't blink. Is there a bit of tremor in your eyelids? There shouldn't be if you would be the perfect specimen.

How are Your Lungs

Comes the business of your lungs. To score in this section you should be able to hold your breath 70 seconds.

"This, of course, is something which can be accomplished by practice," Dr. Brown said.

But practise that and the army doctor slaps another test at you. What is your expiratory force, or how hard or with what pressure can you exhale air from your lungs? Dr. Brown has a gadget like a thermometer with a long tube attached. As you blow into the tube, mercury climbs upward in the thermometer. About 110 millimetres is average. Aircraftman Davis sent it up to 130.

You may not know it, but your lungs have a vital capacity, and the air force has an affair that indicates it. You blow into another tube and a hand, or indicator swings around a clock-like gadget.

This shows the amount of air your lungs will hold," Dr. Brown said. "It registers cubic inches."

There are exhaustive tests which indicate the condition of your seeing, hearing, smelling. Seeing and hearing are the most important.

"After we check the condition of the eyes we find out if a recruit is colour blind. We apply a test evolved in Japan. It tells the tale. Color blindness is important from the standpoint of night flying, in which field lights are used."

There is another test which shows at what angle you can first detect, while looking straight ahead, an object approaching from either side, overhead, and from below. This is described as accommodation — what range of vision your eyes accommodate.

"This test is necessary from the point of view of landing," Dr. Brown said. "A pilot whose accommodation was inadequate might attempt to set an aeroplane on the ground while he was still a good many feet up."

They test your eyes for convergence — see how close a range both eyes can hold an object in perfect focus. There is the cover test. One eye is uncovered and if it is normal it will be looking right at the object. Some covered eyes have been found off at queer irrelevant angles.

The air force wants to know about your body marks — scars and deformities — the size of your thyroid gland, your surgical abnormalities and the results of any wounds, injuries or operations. Then come your height, weight, chest circumference, body build and your leg length.

"A fellow with short legs might not be able to reach the rudder pedals in an aeroplane," the medical officer explained. "On all other considerations he might be an excellent pilot. However, it is important to the general picture."

The doctor then checks your pulse rate as you stand, sit, after exercise and under normal conditions. He wants to know about your arterial walls, your blood pressure, systolic and diastolic. The size, sounds and rhythm of your heart come under close scrutiny.

With a little triangular hammer the doctor learns about your reflexes.

"The first, of course, is the one where we tap the knee to see how the leg jumps," Dr. Brown said.

"If it reacts too little or too much it may indicate a mental condition which would be undesirable in a pilot. An abnormal reaction in the ankle test may indicate a mental condition."

Dr. Brown ran a pencil over the sole of Aircraftman Davis' foot. Nothing happened. Had Davis' big toe responded by dipping forward the doctor would have suspected him of spinal lesions.

This test is given to all prospective pilots and some of the aircraft trades, such as gunners, camera operators, parachute riggers, wireless operators and mechanics. Men who come in for general duties are given a general physical examination.

The test for pilots is known as M-2. Should a pilot at any time have a crash in which he is injured, he is given the M-2 test again. If he is injured he is given the medical examination which is given annually to all men who are flying or in the stated trades.

When you are in the air force the air force could, at a moment's notice produce a chart which would describe every filling in your teeth.

YOUR DONATION MAY SAVE A LIFE!

The use of modern health appliances and many other costly but vitally necessary items cannot be provided out of the Hospital's fixed allowances for needy patients.

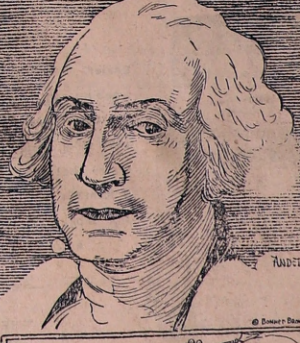

Your donation makes sure that no child seeking a normal chance for health or escape from deformity will ever knock in vain at the door of this institution.

And it makes sure that no needed expense is spared when a little patient's future depends on treatment and attention costing more than is contemplated by the fixed grants made by Provincial and Municipal Governments. Remember, over 400 of our 420 beds are in Public Wards.

The Hospital receives no support from the Toronto Federation for Community Service because patients are accepted from all parts of the Province.

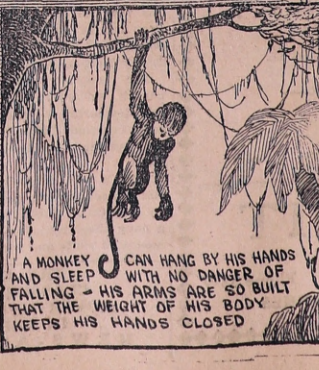

Please mail your gift to the Appeal Secretary, 67 College Street, Toronto.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Murney Johnston on the arrival of a baby boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner.

Minto and Fuller softball teams held the first of their final games on Tuesday evening here. A large crowd attended the game and the home team won by a score of 13-6. The next game will be played at Fuller on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bristol spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Zora Bristol at Shannonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Irvine, of Holway were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Belcour.

HEPBURN'S PLANE OVERDUE

The plane in which Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn and the mining magnate J. P. Bickell, owner of the plane, have been touring Northern Canada and Alaska was this morning reported nearly ten hours overdue. There is no way apparently of reaching the section where the plane may have been forced down, by radio or telegraph. The plane left yesterday afternoon on a 200-mile hop and was expected to reach its destination shortly after 8 o'clock last evening.

Craven-Howard Nuptials in Delhi Church

The marriage took place in the Baptist Church, at Delhi, on Thursday, of Edna Phyllis, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Howard, to Mr. Gerald Cameron Craven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Craven of Bath, Ont. The bride's father performed the ceremony. Miss Jean Tubbs of North Bay played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register, Miss Dorothy Thompson of Brantford sang.

Mr. G. G. Byers, of Grimsby gave the bride away. She wore a white organza gown, a coronet of seed pearls and carried a bouquet of white roses and cornflowers. Miss Margaret Gow of Hamilton, Miss Constance Keith of Toronto and Miss Gladys Gerred, of Toronto, bridesmaids, were gownned alike in minnet blue stiffened lace. They wore natural flowered halos and carried a bouquet of blue carnations and pink baby's breath.

Mr. Howard Sandhurst of Wheatley was the best man, and the ushers were Dr. D. E. McGillivray and Mr. Don Gillies, both of Wheatley, and Mr. Emery Nelson, of Windsor.

The reception was held in the church parlours. Mrs. Howard received wearing a French blue chiffon gown embroidered in a deeper blue, a pink mohair hat and a corsage of pink roses.

After a trip to Yellowstone Park and Vancouver, the couple will live in Dutton, Ont. The bride travelled in a navy sheer redingote costume trimmed with white and white accessories.

NO ELECTION IN 1938

Neither a fall election nor a fall session of Parliament may be expected this year, Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared on Tuesday, unless there occurs some eventuality of which there is at present no sign nor in his opinion any likelihood.

Mr. Mackenzie King laughed at reports that an election might be called on the issue of the pending trade agreement with the United States. "I will be as much surprised as you gentlemen if there is an election this year," he said to newspapermen who questioned him at the conclusion of Tuesday's Cabinet Council. He expressed the feeling that it was unfair to the people to arouse them with reports of a general election when there was no reason to expect one in the near future.

Only two eventualities would require a fall session of parliament, the Prime Minister said. One would be the appearance of some international situation requiring an expression of opinion from Parliament, and the other a new United States trade agreement of such a nature as to require immediate disposition by Parliament.

CAMPBELLFORD MAN HAS CAR IMPOUNDED

MRS. JAS. W. CAMPBELL

The funeral of the late Mrs. James W. Campbell, who passed away at her home on the eighth concession of Sicney, on Thursday last, following a week's illness, was held on Saturday, July 23rd, from her late residence to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Stirling. Service was conducted by Rev. Robert Simpson, of Brooklyn, Ont., a former pastor of St. Andrew's, who spoke comforting words to a large assembly of sorrowing friends and relatives. During the service, Mr. Arthur Duncan rendered a solo, "The City Four Square."

The pallbearers were Messrs. S. Hamilton, B. Finkle, Reid, J. Connors, J. Marshall and W. Dettlor.

FOX — SPRATT

Palms, tall standards of gladioli and a variety of summer flowers formed the setting in St. Martin's-in-the-Field church, Toronto, on Saturday, July 23rd, for the marriage of Irene Spratt, daughter of James G. Spratt and the late Mrs. Spratt, Toronto, to Percy Harold Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fox, Frankford. During the signing of the register Miss Lilyan Mullin sang, accompanied by Franklin Morris. Assisting the groom was Grant Fox, Keith Fox, Lloyd Jones and Bill Spratt were ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white bridal satin with shirred V-neckline and train, over which fell a full length illusion veil arranged in pleated halo cap effect. Her bouquet was a cascade arrangement of mauve orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Anne Woods, as bridesmaid, was gownned in a Kate Greenway styled frock of pink and turquoise silk net made on full lines, with bolero jacket and halo of cornflowers in matching shades. She carried a bouquet of cornflowers and tallisman roses. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Vivienne Cottle, wore peach silk net over blue taffeta with matching flowered halo. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay of roses and sweet peas.

At the reception, held in the gardens of the Old Mill, Toronto, the hostess, Mrs. E. Marsh, aunt of the bride, wore navy blue sheer with matching wide-brimmed hat and corsage of red roses and lilies of the valley. The mother of the groom chose blue chiffon with matching hat and corsage of similar flowers.

Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Gaspe peninsula, the bride wearing a dress or navy blue sheer with matching jacket, and navy and white accessories. They will reside in Toronto on their return.

POTTER — MORTON

A very charming midsummer wedding was solemnized on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Potter, Stirling, on Wednesday last, when Mamie Jean Morton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morton, Stirling, Ontario, became the bride of Mr. Harry Grant Potter, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Potter, Stirling. Large baskets of cut flowers added beauty to the natural blooms in the flower beds. The decorative scheme was carried out in pink and white about the interior and exterior of the home.
